NEW DEAL LOSS IN RHODE ISLAND A SIGN FOR 1936

G. O. P. Victory Due, Leaders Aver.

Wins by Wide Margin

Providence, R. I., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Charles F. Risk, Republican, defeated Antonio Prince, Democrat, by a margin of 48,023 to 35,054 in the First Congressional district by-election here yesterday, complete returns indicated today. Risk will take the seat of Francis B. Condon, Democrat, elected last November by a plurality of 21,000, who resigned recently to accept appointment to the state Supreme court.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The national capital echoed today with Republican jubilation over the crushing defeat of the New Deal in the Rhode Island state and First Congressional district by-election yesterday.

In corresponding gloom, the Democrats surveyed the result and sought alibis therefor. Neither the President nor the Democratic national committee could be induced to comment.

Exulting Republicans proclaimed that Rhode Island's repudiation of the Roosevelt record augurs the defeat of the President for reelection next year as surely as the election of a Democratic congressman in Michigan's Saginaw district in a 1931 by-election proved a forerunner of Democratic victory in the national election in 1932.

Snell Points to Victory.

The Rhode Island episode was the first matter to claim the attention of the house when it met at noon. Representative B. H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.], the minority leader, obtained recognition and the Democrats knew what was coming.

"A very important event in the political life of the country has just taken place," Snell told the house. "The First Rhode Island district, predominantly Democratic by a plurality of 20,000 or 21,000, yesterday, notwithstanding all the influence of the administration, the promises of jobs and funds, and a special telegram from Secretary of the Interior Ickes, went Republican by a large plurality.

"This is the first time the people of any part of the country have had an opportunity to pass on the reckless and extravagant expenditures of the administration. They have passed upon it in a very decisive manner.

Sees "Positive Proof."

"Until now we have had to be satisfied with conjecture and surmise about the feeling of the nation. Yesterday furnished us with definite and positive proof of how the people regard this administration's maneuvers. Another very significant fact is that most of the communities in this district voted against appropriating sums to meet the extravagant expenditures of the federal government.

"The election shows the people are beginning to think. The handwriting is on the wall. From now on we will witness similar rejections by the citizenry of the New Deal program."

Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach [Rep., N. J.] asserted that the Rhode Island results were "the first indication of the landslide that is to follow. It is a straight out and overwhelming repudiation of the New Deal."

Terms Vote Significant.

Representative Chester C. Bolton of Ohio, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, saw "unmistable significance" in the election.

"The contest was fought on national lines," he said. "The Democratic candidate called on the voters to back the Roosevelt New Deal. They refused emphatically to back it. Judge Risk, the Republican candidate, urged the voters to repudiate the Roosevelt New Deal. His decisive election by a vote of 48,023 to 35,054, overcoming the Democratic lead of over 21,000 in 1934, was their smashing answer.

"Rising to Judge Risk's support, the voters of the district gave conclusive evidence that they are awake to the unconstitutional and unsound trend of the New Deal. They responded in such overwhelming numbers as to leave no doubt that the feeling was not local, but was indicative of widespread resentment toward New Deal philosophies and practices.

"The result proved conclusively that the common sense of the American people finally will prevail."

Louis Stops Levinsky in 1st Round

REFEREE HALTS BOUT AFTER FOUR KNOCKDOWNS

Joe Louis, 1934 Golden Gloves champion, scored a technical knockout over King Levinsky in the first round of their scheduled ten round boxing bout last night at Comiskey park. Referee Norm McGarity stopped the fight after Louis had knocked down Levinsky four times in 2 minutes and 21 seconds. A crowd of 39,193 saw the match.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—William N. McNair, Democratic mayor of Pittsburgh, came down to Washington today with a protest in the name of his city against President Roosevelt's tax program and a warning that "you tried this thing in the early days and we had a whisky rebellion."

MAYOR W. N. McNAIR.

Democratic members of the senate finance committee were convulsed with laughter when Mayor McNair, a mild mannered man despite the belligerency of his words, told them what the country needed was a Democratic administration.

"Redistribution of wealth! he declared. That's not Democracy. That's communism." Mayor McNair began his testimony on a note that was obviously refreshing to such senators as Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, William H. King of Utah, Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, and Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, all Democrats. Before he had finished Senator Gore asked if he'd run for President in 1940.

"Need Democrat on Ticket."

"No. I'll run next time," he said. "We need a Democrat on the ticket. What have you got here now? Nothing but a lot of communists."

"This tax program," Mayor McNair began, "takes so much money out of Pittsburgh. You took 79 million dollars away from us in income taxes last year and if this bill goes through you'll take twice that much. That's too big a burden. The people can't pay their local taxes. I want to protest in the name of Pittsburgh because we can't stand it any longer.

"Of course, you're spending some of it in our city, but we don't like the way you're spending it. I went over to see Mr. Ickes today. We don't like these toll bridges they're building. The people can't come in to buy anything because they can't pay the tolls.

He's "Franklin Democrat."

"And this proposition of taxing bigness. There are lots of big corporations around Pittsburgh, but they pay taxes and give employment to people. You've got to have big business—and I'm a Democrat, too. I'm a Benjamin Franklin Democrat. You people think Thomas Jefferson founded the Democratic party, but he didn't. It was founded in Pennsylvania by Benjamin Franklin.

"This tax program will be too much of a drain on city funds and destroy the reservoir of credit. You take our people! When we tax them they get something for it. They get police protection and fire protection and garbage removal. We give them something for their money. What do you give them?"

Senator King suggested that the government had put "something over a million employés on the federal pay roll."

Didn't Appoint Any.

"Yes, but I didn't name any of them," Mayor McNair replied.

"We must have funds to run our cities," he continued. "The money just won't be there if the federal government keeps taking it away from us."

"There's always the availability of the printing presses," Senator King commented.

"Yes, Germany tried that and look what happened," the mayor said.

"Of course," interposed Senator

E. A. FILENE BATTLES PNEUMONIA; TAKEN ILL ON VISIT TO MOSCOW

MOSCOW, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Josef Stalin, soviet dictator, ordered all medical facilities of the Kremlin placed at the disposal tonight of Edward A. Filene, 75 year old Boston merchant and philanthropist, who is seriously ill of lobar pneumonia at a hotel here. The American's condition was somewhat improved tonight after a slight relapse at noon.

E. A. FILENE.

Two Kremlin doctors and two Kremlin hospital nurses are attending him at the hotel, together with the medical director of the government travel agency and Dr. Rumreich, American embassy physician. The foreign office wired the soviet consulate in Berlin to grant an immediate visa to the German heart and lung specialist, Prof. Fritz Meyer, so he could come here tomorrow by airplane.

Filene, traveling alone, arrived here on a visit Aug. 1 and became ill two days later.

CITY'S FIRST DAY WITHOUT A FIRE LOSS ANNOUNCED

The city experienced its lowest fire loss in history, to wit, none, during the 24 hour period preceding 9 a. m. Tuesday, Michael J. Corrigan, chief fire marshal, reported yesterday. During the full day the department received only five fire calls, Chief Corrigan said. This is the lowest number since daily fire loss records were started 25 years ago. All of the fires, Chief Corrigan said, were extinguished with hand pumps without property loss.

Tenant Gets in Poison Ivy; Owner Is Held Liable

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—In an opinion written by Justice Thomas W. The court affirmed damage awards to Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Polizzano of Newark. The judgment was against the Mapes Holding company, owner of an apartment house.

New Pay Cut Riot in France; Liners Tied Up

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Reports received tonight from the provinces telling of rioting and strikes and other demonstrations against government decreed pay cuts indicate that the communists are carrying on a systematic attempt to undermine the forces of law and order in preparation for a nation-wide revolt.

Shipyard workers in Brest again went on strike and rioted in response to renewed agitation against government pay cuts which were ordered recently in an effort to balance the French budget. Several were injured in fighting between troops and strikers.

It was the third successive day the Brest shipyards have been closed. One demonstrator was killed and 19 others wounded in strike rioting there yesterday.

Liners Held Up.

A new element was added to the situation today when the crews of the French liners Champlain, Lafayette, Colombie, and Cuba, and even the giant Normandie threw down their tools at Le Havre in a protest against pay cuts.

The Champlain, which was scheduled to sail today, was unable to depart, and some 800 America bound passengers were left stranded at Le Havre.

As if the government did not have already enough problems, peasants meeting at Amiens in the department of Somme solemnly decided that legal methods had proved futile to help them out of their difficulties and said they would proceed to extralegal action.

Conservative circles in Paris have been disconcerted at the suddenness of the revolt against the constituted authorities in a dozen dispersed points of French territory. They express amazement, too, at the lack of resistance which authorities, especially at Toulon, have shown. At Toulon rioters held the streets for more than three hours, and were finally dispersed by charges of the national constabulary [gendarmerie], local police having failed completely.

Other Riots Reported.

Only today was it known that rioting also took place yesterday at an eastern mining town, Charleville, at Toulouse, always a revolutionary town, as well as at Lille, Epinal, Arras, Chartres, Dijon, and Angouleme.

The question which Parisians now are asking with anxiety is what response Premier Pierre Laval and his government intend to make, since a repetition of like disorders will mean the ruin of Premier Pierre Laval's budget balancing policy.

Decisions having a bearing on the situation are expected to be taken Saturday when the prefects of ninety departments in France, including Corsica, will assemble at Paris.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Wiley Post, round-the-world flyer, and Will Rogers, his companion on a "vacation trip," landed in the bay here at 5:30 p. m. [8:30 p. m. Chicago time] today to complete a hop from Seattle in 8¼ hours.

While Post declined comment on his reputed hope to hunt in Siberia, Rogers said he planned to fly farther with his friend and that possibly they would resume their trip tonight. Post revealed that he planned to fly through interior Alaska, possibly 600 miles to Cordova.

Throngs lined adjacent docks while the red pontoon equipped monoplane taxied over the channel and tied up at the hangar.

Rogers was seeing the northern territory for the first time. He smiled as he stepped from the plane. Post said the weather was ideal for flying until rain was encountered about one hour from Juneau. The "flying vacationists" were driven to the home of Gov. John W. Troy. Post would not say where he planned to meet Mrs. Post, who intends to come north by boat.

FIND 'DEATH TRAP' WHERE CLIMBER LOST HIS LIFE

Camp Chief Ouray, Colo., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The "death trap" of William Brode, 15 year old Memphis Y. M. C. A. camper who boasted he could climb "the worst hill in Colorado," was found by weary searchers on towering Lindbergh peak tonight.

Brode had been missing since yesterday morning. Posse men expected to recover his body from the funnel-like crevice on the peak.

The discovery, which, searchers said, scaled the fate of the boy beyond question came as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Brode, flew here in a special airplane to aid in the hunt.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—Any Jew in Germany can be arrested sight by any one who thinks the Jew is making himself a "public nuisance," according to an announcement made today by the Schwarzes Corps, organ of the Hitler Guards. The Schwarzes Corps makes this interpretation on a present law under which an offender caught in an illegal act and thought likely to escape may be arrested by any one.

If a Jew objects, then force can be used, and if a Jew inflicts injury he will be punished for it. But a Jew should be tied up with ropes only in extreme necessity, the paper says, and declares the present law on summary arrests must now be extended to include such cases where the "inner feeling of the German people is grossly wounded, thereby creating unrest which is likely to result in public disorder."

List Special Offenses.

Special offenses for whic' summary arrest of Jews is advised are:

FIRST—If a Jew abuses the hospitality of the German nation by appearing in public in the company of a German woman.

SECOND—If a Jew in a dance hall dances in a way to attract too much attention.

THIRD—If a Jew behaves noisily in a public bath, causing a general annoyance.

Provost Eckert, deputy Evangelic bishop of Berlin, issued a statement today strongly condemning persons who dare to praise the capabilities of Jews. A member of the board of the Berlin city mission had declared that Jews are capable of great historic deeds. Eckert characterized this as an inexcusable departure from the path set by Adolf Stoecker, founder of the mission.

"Stoecker," Eckert said, "devoted his whole power to free the German people from the destructive influence of the Jewish race."

Arrest Catholic Leaders.

Two leaders of the Catholic Youth organization, Christliche Sturmschar, in Opladen, have been taken into protective arrest on suspicion that they are responsible for anti-state inscriptions on house walls after their headquarters were closed.

On the ground that the government has taken the church under its protection, a license has been refused for a restaurant under a Russian church in Berlin, "since a church and a saloon must not be housed under the same roof." When Russian émigrés built the church some years ago they placed a restaurant on the ground floor to try to raise the necessary funds.

A license also was refused for a floating hotel on Lake Wannsee outside Berlin when it was disclosed that 60 per cent of all Berlin hotel rooms are now empty.

The monarchist tradition was played by the Schwarzes Corps, which singled out for attack those shopkeepers who continue to describe themselves as "court jeweler," "court watchmaker,"

JUDGE TO DECIDE LANG SLAYERS' PENALTY TODAY

Mrs. Dunkel Weeps, Fears Chair.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Mrs. Blanche Dunkel and Mrs. Evelyn Smith were found guilty yesterday by Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court of the murder of Mrs. Dunkel's son-in-law, Ervin Lang, 28 year old grocery clerk.

Judge Harrington, who heard the evidence without a jury, announced that he would give his decision on their punishment this afternoon.

In his final argument Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty demanded death in the electric chair for the women, both of whom have confessed the slaying. Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, counsel for the defendants, made a plea to save them from the chair, contending that they evidenced a "lack of mental responsibility" for the crime and should not receive the extreme penalty.

Women Calm at Verdict.

After the final arguments Judge Harrington called both women before the bench. To Mrs. Dunkel he said:

"I find you guilty of murder as charged in the indictment."

A moment later he said the same thing to Mrs. Smith.

The women took it calmly. They did not glance at each other. Both stared stonily past the judge until bailifs grasped their arms and led them from the courtroom. Extra guards were assigned to Mrs. Dunkel after a report reached Judge Harrington that she had said she might try to end her life.

Last night in their cells in the county jail the two women presented widely contrasting attitudes. Mrs. Dunkel wept as she said: "It looks like the electric chair for me."

Mrs. Smith Isn't Fussy.

"Who's got a cigaret?" was her first remark. She was supplied and then was asked what she thought of the judge's decision.

"Just about what I expected," she replied.

"What would your choice be?" a reporter inquired, "death in the chair or a life sentence?"

"I'm not fussy," answered Mrs. Smith.

Judge Harrington has a wide choice of penalty, ranging from a minimum of fourteen years in prison to the death sentence. He may fix the prison term at any period of years above 14, including life, 99 years or 199 years. The latter two terms are considered more severe than life since a defendant so sentenced must serve at least a third of the term before being eligible to parole. Under a life sentence the prisoner is eligible for parole after twenty years.

Full Confessio Are Read.

Judge Harrington's verdict of guilty climaxed a day in which the courtroom crowd, composed mostly of women, heard both Mrs. Dunkel and Mrs. Smith testify in their own defense during the afternoon session and also heard Prosecutor Dougherty read, in the morning session, the full confessions of the defendants.

The story of Lang's murder by Mrs. Smith, the severing of his legs and the disposal of body and legs across the Indiana line has often been recited, but the prosecution disclosed for the first time yesterday evidence which indicated that jealousy actuated Mrs. Dunkel in persuading Mrs. Smith to kill the grocery clerk.

This evidence was a supplementary statement which Mrs. Dunkel made several days after her original confession.

Admits Intimacy with Lang.

In the statement Mrs. Dunkel admitted that she had been intimate with Lang in their mutual home at 1212 Waveland avenue for a period beginning less than two months after her daughter Mallie—Lang's wife—died last Dec. 20.

These intimacies continued, according to her supplemental confession, until three days before Lang was strangled on the night of July 5 in Mrs. Smith's apartment at 731 Barry avenue.

The new statement strengthened the state's contention of jealousy, because Mrs. Dunkel knew that Lang was planning to marry Miss Josephine McKinley, 21 years old, 1333 Roscoe street. Previously the mother-in-law's story had been that she wanted Lang slain because he was [illegible] his dead wife's memory.

Mrs. Dunkel and Mrs. Smith were the only witnesses in their own defense. Each was on the stand less than an hour. In their testimony the two women displayed some resentment toward each other. Each blamed the other for suggesting the murder.

Accusing Mrs. Smith of being the instigator of the crime, Mrs. Dunkel at one point in her narrative told the court: "She suggested it. She made it look so simple. Ervin would just disappear. So I consented. I was so broken up after my daughter Mallie died and he was running around with other women."

But Mrs. Smith told a different story, a motive the like of which courtroom attaches said they had never before heard in a criminal case.

"I did it more for sympathy than anything else," she said. "I liked Blanche Dunkel and I was sorry for her. Lang's relatives shunned her after her daughter died. Then she hounded me to do it with her continual sob stories. I had no personal dislike for Lang. She nagged me until I was sap enough to do it."

MRS. DUNKEL ON STAND

Mrs. Dunkel took the stand at the beginning of the afternoon session. She gave her age as 42. A drab, unattractive woman, she was clad in a navy blue dress with lighter blue collar and a white hat. She has worn these clothes most of the time she has been in custody. She was questioned by Public Defender Bachrach. Her answers could hardly be heard in the first row of spectators' benches.

She said she was born in Jerseyville, Ill., and had lived in Chicago for the last twenty-two years. She was first married in Jerseyville when she was 18. Her husband divorced her in Ohio several years later. She has been married three other times, these marriages also ending in divorce.

"Evelyn Suggested It."

Q. [by Bachrach]—Did you arrange to have Ervin Lang killed? A.—We arranged it.

Q.—It was your desire? A.—Evelyn suggested it. He was running around with other women.

Q.—Did you have any other reason? A.—I had told Ervin I didn't want to be alone in the apartment. But he was always running around. He broke his word that he would stay with me.

Q.—So you decided to have him killed? You had no other reason? A.—That is right.

Attorney Bachrach indicated by this questioning that his defense was that the women's motives for the slaying were inadequate and therefore they should not be sent to the electric chair.

Cross-Examined by Dougherty.

On cross-examination of Mrs. Dunkel Mr. Dougherty attempted to show that her motive for the slaying of Lang was because his keeping company with other women interrupted her relationship with him. She denied this, although admitting their intimacies.

Q. [by Dougherty]—When you had intimate relations with him the last time—July 2—you had already made plans for his death? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did you first plan the killing? A.—Some months before Mrs. Smith had suggested she knew two Italian fellows who might do the job. But one of these fellows was killed in a stick-up. Then Mrs. Smith and I talked three or four times about getting a man from New York to do it. It was also discussed with Culler. (Roscoe Culler, 1325 North Dearborn street, has admitted being approached to do the killing, but testified he refused.)

Q.—Killing was the subject of your conversations with Mrs. Smith practically all the times you met after May? A.—Yes.

Declares Jung "In It."

Q.—Did Jung [Harry Jung, Mrs. Smith's Chinese husband who has not been apprehended] have knowledge of the murder plot? A.—Yes. One night late in June I went to Evelyn's house and Jung was there. I heard her say to him: "We've been offered $500 for this job. Are you in it—yes or no?" Jung said he wanted to be in it.

Q.—Where were you to get the $500? A.—From the proceeds of my daughter's life insurance.

Q.—So you were going to use the money your daughter had left for the education of her son to kill his foster father? A.—Yes. [The son of Lang's wife is Bobby Meyers, 6 years old, child of a previous marriage. The boy lives with Lang's parents, Jacob and Margaret Lang, at 3729 Greenview avenue.]

Q.—Your original plan was to have it thought Lang had disappeared with the money? A.—Yes.

Q.—You not only wanted to kill him but blacken his memory, too? A.—[No reply].

On questioning by Judge Harrington, Mrs. Dunkel told the names of her four husbands. They were, in order, Fred Cope, the father of her daughter, Mallie; Perry De Valvis, Fred Durland, and Fred Dunkel.

MRS. SMITH TESTIFIES

Mrs. Smith then took the stand. She was clad in a black dress with a yellow tie piece, and a white hat. Smiling occasionally during her testimony she revealed a dimple. But her answers were given in a hard, flat voice. She said she is 46 years old.

Attorney Bachrach led her through a recital of her life. She was born in Germany and when she was 9 years old was adopted by a family in North Dakota.

"I ran away because they made me wash the kids' pants," she related. "Then I rode box cars with a girl I had met. Later I traveled from one farm to another, doing any house or field work I could get. I never settled down. This lasted about 10 or 12 years."

Mrs. Smith's nomad existence next led her to Minneapolis, where she took up laundry work. From there she went in rapid sucession to Milwaukee, North Dakota farms, back to Minneapolis for a while, then to Milwaukee again and finally to Chicago in 1932. Here she met Jung and they were married in 1932. She has never had any schooling, she said.

Denies Getting Murder Money.

Q. [by Bachrach]—Did you ever get any money for killing Lang? A.—Absolutely not.

Q.—Was it you who suggested he should be killed? A.—No. Early in March Mrs. Dunkel came complaining to me and said Lang would come home tired every night, flop in a chair, and wasn't a bit of comfort to her. She said: "I'm going to have him killed no matter what it costs." I asked her if she and Lang had a love affair. She replied: "No. Do you think I'm crazy?"

Q.—Why did you kill Lang? A.—More for sympathy than anything else. I liked Blanche Dunkel and I was sorry for her.

Q.—Then it was done out of friendship? A.—Yes. No other reason. I only had seen Lang a half dozen times.

Questioned again as to whether she had received or been promised any money for Lang's murder, Mrs. Smith exhibited the most vehemence she displayed during the trial.

"I never got anything," she declared. "Mrs. Dunkel picked on nobody but me. She gave me only her side of the story, nothing of the other side. She told me she would never talk about the murder. I felt sorry for Blanche. I liked her, and today I have nothing against her. If it hadn't been for her, this never would have happened. She talked me into it. I was nearly crazy the way she hounded me. She talked of the killing until I was sap enough to do it."

On cross-examination Mrs. Smith told Prosecutor Dougherty that she thought she was "doing Blanche a favor" in committing the murder.

Judge Harrington asked her: "Was your conscience salved by the liquor you drank before Lang was killed?"

"Yes, while the liquor lasted," she replied.

"Did you realize the grievous offense you were committing?" the court inquired.

"Well, I did and I didn't," was the answer.

Closing Arguments Are Brief.

Prosecution and defense required only twenty minutes each for closing arguments. The lawyers were brief, because there was no jury.

"The court has before it a picture of the most callous murder ever planned," Prosecutor Dougherty declared. "It was not a crime committed on the spur of the moment or in the heat of passion.

"These women are cruel and calculating. They knew what they were doing and knew the consequences of their act. Mrs. Dunkel is a cold-blooded murderess, as is Mrs. Smith.

"This crime was committed to satisfy a jealous moment in Mrs. Dunkel's life. Her original story about a fancied insult of the memory of her daughter is disproved by the fact that within two months after her daughter's death she was her son-in-law's sweetheart.

"I make no wild-eyed appeal for the death sentence, but I do say that the only proper punishment in this case is for the court to give these defendants the same as they gave to Lang. I ask this court to vindicate society and show that women who commit crime are entitled to no different treatment than men."

Plea of Defense Lawyer.

Defender Bachrach said that he was merely asking the court to come to a "just conclusion."

"The motive in this case is entirely inadequate," he asserted. "It shows that these defendants do not think clearly. If they were persons of clear understanding and with proper mentality the situation before this court would be entirely different. They had half-baked ideas."

Bachrach ended his argument by pleading with the court not to impose a sentence which would be a "vengeance to the public," but to fix a penalty which would protect the public from the defendants in the future.

Assistant State's Attorney Francis T. McCurrie concluded his speech with the statement that the prosecution was "uncompromisingly asking the death penalty."

It was after this that Judge Harrington announced his finding of guilty.

THE DUNKEL CONFESSIONS

The supplemental statement of Mrs. Dunkel, revealing that she had intimate relations with Lang in their Waveland avenue home was read by Prosecutor Dougherty at the morning session after her original confession had been introduced. The supplemental statement was taken on July 19, seven days after the first confession, under the questioning of Assistant State's Attorney Irwin Clorfene. Questions and answers were as follows:

Q.—Did you trail Ervin Lang and find out he was going with a girl by the name of Josephine McKinley? A.—Yes, about two months ago. It was some girl, I didn't exactly know her name. I didn't exactly follow them, but one night he said he was going to work late [in the grocery at 3425 Southport avenue where he clerked]. I went over by the store and he was closing it. That was the night she went to school. So I thought maybe he was going to meet her and I just walked over to the school and he met her. I just took a walk over there.

Her Relations with Lang.

Q.—Did you ever have relations with Ervin Lang? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did you first start to have these relations? A.—A week after we took the apartment [on Waveland avenue].

Q.—That was sometime in February, 1935? A.—Yes. Maybe the second or third week in February.

Q.—How many times a week have you had relations with Ervin since February? A.—I imagine about twice a week.

Q.—You both consented to it? There was no force used by either of you? A.—That is right.

Q.—When did you have relations the last time? A.—The Tuesday before he was killed—July 2.

First Confession Statement.

Mrs. Dunkel began her first confession, which was given to Mr. Clorfene and Mr. McCurrie on July 12 and was read in full in court by Mr. Dougherty, by stating that she had received no promises of immunity or reward for her story and had not been subjected to any abuse while she was in custody. She then told of seeing Lang on the morning of July 5 and getting his consent to meet her at Mrs. Smith's Barry avenue home late that night.

Mrs. Dunkel went to Mrs. Smith's apartment earlier in the evening and was shown the ether and the rope which were to be used in the slaying of Lang, she said. Then Lang arrived and drank with the women a "toast to the 4th of July." He had four drinks and fell asleep.

Murder Plan Is Outlined.

The questioning of Mrs. Dunkel by Clorfene then proceeded as follows:

Q.—Did she [Mrs. Smith] tell you what she was going to do with the ether and rope?. A.—She told me after he got asleep she was going to put the ether on him, then tie the rope around his neck.

Q.—What was the rope for? A.—I suppose to be sure he would not breathe.

Q.—What did she say about disposing of the body? A.—She was going to throw it in the lake.

Q.—Had she said anything about the Chinese? A.—He was going to help her throw it in.

Q.—For a month prior you had talked about the killing of Lang. Is that right? A.—Yes, but we never planned it.

Q.—You actually planned it a week before the killing took place? A.—That is right.

Mrs. Dunkel left Mrs. Smith's apartment after Lang had been put to sleep with liquor, she said. She next saw Mrs. Smith on July 7, she said. Mrs. Smith asked Mrs. Dunkel to leave town with her. Mrs. Smith also told her how the murder had been accomplished.

Tells of $100 Payment.

The next day, July 8, Mrs. Dunkel gave Mrs. Smith $100, she said. Mrs. Smith did not ask about the $400 balance which had been promised, Mrs. Dunkel declared.

On July 10 Mrs. Dunkel was in the Passavant hospital where she had her tonsils removed. She was employed in the hospital for six years before the murder, she said. After the tonsil operation she was visited by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Smith told her she had seen the newspaper accounts of the finding of Lang's torso in a swamp near Hammond on July 9.

The confession continued, Clorfene questioning, Mrs. Dunkel answering:

Q.—Isn't it true the reason you had Ervin Lang killed was because he was going around with Josephine McKinley and other girls and staying out late at night? A.—He never came home. He was out all the time.

Questioned About Jealousy.

Q.—You were a little jealous of him running around? A.—Well, I felt like he did not have to stay out every night.

Q.—He was not paying any attention to you? A.—He did not talk. He never talked to me very much.

Q.—Why did you really want Ervin Lang killed? A.—Because he stayed out late and was out every night, and things like that.

Q.—He was losing whatever affection he had toward you? A.—He promised me he would stay there [apparently at home] a whole year and do what was right, and he would be kind of company for me that first year [after her daughter's death].

Q.—And he did not do that? A.—He did not.

SEARCH FERNEKES' OLD CHICAGO HAUNTS AS PROBE IS PUSHED

While officials of the old penitentiary at Joliet, where Henry J. [Midget] Fernekes escaped Saturday, continued questioning convicts to learn further details of his brazen daylight walk to freedom, Chicago police squads last night searched the haunts of the notorious killer and bank robber.

He is believed to be hiding out here among the underworld friends he made before starting his sentence ten years ago in the state prison. A cache of stolen money, estimated to be at least $80,000, is probably aiding Fernekes in avoiding the police dragnet, authorities said.

A letter, believed to be a hoax, was received at the prison yesterday by Deputy Warden George Sehring. It bore the return address of "Midget Fernekes, Joliet," and stated that Fernekes thought a reward of $5,000 for his capture more fitting than the $1,000 posted by Gov. Horner. It also said Fernekes escaped because he became tired of prison life.

Identifies Chair in Which She Killed Lang

EVELYN SMITH'S CONFESSION OF TORSO MURDER

Statement Disclosed for First Time in Court.

The confession of Mrs. Evelyn Smith, which was read yesterday in her trial with Mrs. Blanche Dunkel for the murder of Ervin Lang, revealed many new facts about the slaying.

In a blasé manner, with frequent recourse to underworld jargon, Mrs. Smith told in her statement of her murdering Lang in her apartment at 731 Barry avenue, the fright of her Chinese husband, Harry Jung, when he viewed the body, and her trip to a hardware store a few hours after the murder to purchase a hacksaw. She then related how she returned to the apartment, severed Lang's legs from his body and later disposed of the torso and the legs in different spots near Hammond.

The confession was made to Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty on July 30 after Mrs. Smith was brought back from New York, where she was captured. Dougherty read the statement to the court.

A Meeting in December.

Mrs. Smith said she first met Mrs. Dunkel in December, 1934.

Q. [by Dougherty]—When was the first time Mrs. Dunkel talked to you about her son-in-law, Ervin Lang? A.—About the middle of May, in her flat at 1212 Waveland avenue.

Q.—What conversation did you have with her? A.—She told me how Ervin was running around with other women, and she wanted him beat up. She wanted a girl beat up, too. She didn't say who the girl was, but it was supposed to be his girl. I said, "Do you think I can beat them up?" She said, "No." That subject was dropped. It was about 11 p. m. then, and Ervin was not home, and she said: "I think that means he ought to be killed. Do you think we could get some one to kill him?" I said I didn't know, and she came up every day to my place and hounded me until 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning about this.

Q.—Who was the first one you definitly made any arrangements with? A.—Well, before there was any arrangement of any kind she wanted him shot down in the street. She said she would furnish money to buy the gun if I would bump him off on Roscoe street and just leave him lay. Then she figured that would not be so good. I said, "Blanche, just what would you do if something happened to Ervin and you were arrested?" She said: "I would not melt under any consideration. I would take the chair before I would melt."

Try to Find an Assassin.

Roscoe F. Culler, 1325 North Dearborn street, referred to by Mrs. Smith as "Fred," was then consulted, Mrs. Smith said. Culler testified for the state that Mrs. Dunkel asked him to commit the murder, but he refused. Later a telegram was sent to a man named Casselli in New York, a friend of Mrs. Smith, asking him to come to Chicago to commit the murder, but these negotiations fell through.

A few weeks later, Mrs. Smith said, Mrs. Dunkel suggested that she [Mrs. Smith] do the killing.

"I said I would have to think it over," Mrs. Smith related, "and I didn't think I could 'take the heat' and didn't think she could either. She said: 'I can. I have never been in trouble before and I have a good record, and the Langs will not suspect me.'"

Mrs. Dunkel kept "hounding her" to do the murder, Mrs. Smith continued, and on July 5 [a Friday] the final plans were laid. Before Lang arrived that fatal night Mrs. Dunkel said: "If I don't have to see him killed, then in case I get arrested I won't have to melt, because I won't have it on my mind."

Ply Lang with Liquor.

A pint of liquor and a small bottle of ether were supplied by Mrs. Dunkel, said Mrs. Smith, and they were ready for Lang. When he arrived the women plied him with the liquor and he went to sleep in a chair. Mrs. Dunkel then left and Mrs. Smith gave Lang the ether.

Q.—How did you give the ether to him? A.—Blanche brought me a piece of cotton and cheesecloth from the hospital [Passavant hospital, where Mrs. Dunkel was employed] and I put the ether on that and held it to his face. After I had it started I had to finish it, and I finished it.

Q.—Did you choke him? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you choke him with? A.—A rope.

Q.—How did you do it, twist it around his neck? A.—Yes.

Q.—And pull with both ends? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did he offer any resistance? A.—Not a bit. He didn't move.

Q.—How did you ascertain he was dead? A.—I just figured he was dead.

Q.—Did he fall off the chair? A.—No.

She Goes to Mrs. Dunkel.

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—I couldn't leave him there. I was going to put him in the closet and I could not lift him. So then I took a cab and went over to Blanche's and told Blanche: "You will have to go and get Harry [Jung was at his laundry at 3566 Armitage avenue]. That was about 2:45 in the morning."

Q.—Did you say anything to Blanche as to whether Ervin was dead? A.—I went to Blanche's, and she said: "My God, I thought that was him coming back." "No," I said, "he didn't come back and he won't come back." She was tickled to death, although she was nervous, but all in all she was very well pleased. She took a cab and went over to the laundry and woke Harry up. Harry came home and it was exactly 4:30 in the morning.

Q.—Where was the body at that time? A.—On the floor.

Q.—Had it fallen off the chair, or had you taken it off? A.—I had taken it off.

Jung Falls in a Faint.

Q.—Now when Harry came in what did you do? A.—When he came in and opened the door Harry fell in the middle of the floor just as if he was dead. I thought he was dead. I said to myself: "Here I am, nobody in the world and two dead men on my hands." It was a half hour before Harry was able to get up. He went on the porch and sat down and I sat with him. He said: "Honey, I just can't look." I said: "Somebody has to do something now; we can't leave it the way it is." So Harry helped me put Ervin in the closet. Then he went outside.

"It was after 5 o'clock then," Mrs. Smith went on. "Harry did not have any money and I did not. I went to the bank. I was there by 9 o'clock, and I drew out $15 and brought it home and we split that between us."

Q.—What bank? A.—The First National. When I got home Harry was still jittery. The Chinese race is yellow, but I never saw a Chinaman as white as he was. He was actually scared to death. I didn't know what to do with the body. Harry went and borrowed a car, but whose car he got I don't know. [Jung borrowed the automobile from Willie Quan, a Chinese laundry owner at 5149 South Halsted street.]

Body Still in the Closet.

Q.—He came back with the car at what time? A.—It was about 1 or 2 p. m. Saturday, July 6. He sat out in the car practically all the time. He would not eat or go to bed.

Q.—Where was the body all this time? A.—In the closet. Harry said: "We can't carry it out this way. It's too heavy and we can't carry it in broad daylight." I said: "What are you going to do with it?" He said: "Honey, I don't know. It is all up to you. You do whatever you think is best." Well, I could not carry it, that was a cinch. He was too heavy a man for me to wrap around, so I suggested cutting his legs off, it would make it easier to handle. I went and got the saw.

Q.—Where was the saw? A.—I bought it.

85 Cents for a Hacksaw.

Q.—Did you buy a hack saw? A.—I guess that is what you call it. The blade comes out of the saw. I got one of them.

Q.—What did you pay for it? A.—Eighty-five cents.

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—I went home and I said to Harry, "Can you cut his legs off?" And he said, "No. I just can't do it." Then who was going to do it but me? So I went in and I cut his legs off and put them in a trunk I had got from the Salvation Army.

Q.—This was about what time? A.—About 4:30 in the afternoon. Harry would not even as much as come in to help me do a single thing.

Q.—You wrapped the blanket around the torso? A.—Yes, and I put it back in the closet myself. Harry came in the house and we sat up until 2 o'clock Sunday morning [July 7]. Then we put the body and the trunk in the car and drove to Hammond.

Describes Disposal of Body.

Mrs. Smith described dropping the torso out of the car in a swamp on the north edge of Hammond and leaving the trunk containing the legs in a roadside ditch in Munster, Ind., about eight miles south of the swamp.

She and Jung then drove back to Chicago, she said, and the same day she saw Mrs. Dunkel and gave her all the details of the murder. They met the next day, too, but Mrs. Smith denied Mrs. Dunkel's story that on this occasion she was paid $100 for the slaying. She never received any money, she declared.

Two days later, on July 10, Mrs. Smith and Jung left Chicago in the borrowed car and drove to a Chinese farm near Kalamazoo, Mich. From there they went to Detroit where they parted. Mrs. Smith traveled by bus to New York. She left the impression that Jung went into Canada.

MRS. BUTMAN FOUND GUILTY IN WILL CASE OF 'FLOPHOUSE MISER'

Mrs. Bella Butman, 33 years old, was found guilty by a jury yesterday of conspiracy to obtain the $100,000 estate of James Thomas Kelly, West Madison street flophouse miser. The jury disregarded a felony count in the indictment, finding Mrs. Butman guilty only on a misdemeanor count. Judge Walter J. La Buy, in whose court the case was tried, is to fix the punishment, which can be no more than one year in the county jail.

MRS. BELLA BUTMAN.

Judge La Buy will rule next Wednesday upon a motion for a new trial, made by her attorney, Harold Levy.

Mrs. Butman already is under a one year sentence in the county jail, imposed by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell for contempt of court in forging a will to dispose of the estate of Kelly, who died in her home last February. This now is on appeal. Six others were accused in the case. A few weeks ago a jury disagreed as to the guilt of Attorney Julius P. Waitches and he is awaiting a new trial, although he and all but one of the others were sentenced to serve a year by Judge O'Connell.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Stanley Wisniewski, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

Ralph Pecho, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; James Di Forte, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Sabath.

BATHER MISSING TWO DAYS; START HUNT FOR BODY

Police were searching last night for Walter Wade, 22 years old, 3332 West Pershing road, who has been missing since he went in swimming Monday afternoon at the 64th street beach. John Bathum, attendant at the beach, brought the young mans' clothes to the Woodlawn police station.

He said that Wade told him just before he went in for a swim that he "intended to swim the lake." Taking it as a joking remark, Bathum paid no attention until his discovery that the bather had not returned.

Brighton Park police, who were informed, discovered that Wade had been reported missing on July 30 by his wife, Mrs. June Wade. The wife denied she had quarreled with her husband and could give no reason for his disappearance. She said he had written her a letter in which he announced his intention of trying to swim the lake, but she placed little credence in it.

HANGS SELF IN EVANSTON HOME.

Frank Conover, 87, years old, a retired employé of the Great Western railroad, hanged himself yesterday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alfred I. Bushnell, 2744 Ridge avenue, Evanston.

2 ARE RESCUED FROM LEDGE ON YOSEMITE CLIFF

Pair in Peril for Hours; Man Injured.

Yosemite, Cal., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Crawling down the steep side of a granite mountain where a misstep would have meant a 2,000 foot plunge to death, park rangers today rescued Miss Elizabeth Lorimer, 23, of Chicopee, Mass., and her injured companion, Robert Pate, 35, of Inglewood, Cal.

Miss Lorimer appeared little the worse for the ordeal, although she spent the whole night hanging to a rock for her life. She was clad only in a costume of hiking shorts.

Pate was brought to the valley floor late today and taken by ambulance to Lewis Memorial hospital in Yosemite valley. Doctors said he was suffering from a fractured shoulder, badly cut head, body bruises and scratches, and a possible fracture of the skull.

Staggering on Lip of Cliff.

Rangers said Pate's injuries were received when he fell while trying to find a way back up the mountain by moonlight. They said they found him about 100 feet from the place where they rescued the girl. Pate, they reported, was staggering, barely conscious, near the edge of a sheer rocky drop when they found him.

Rangers Robert Russell and Carl Jackson tied the injured Pate on a stretcher and slid him down over rocks to the valley floor 2,000 feet below. About 800 feet from the bottom level they were met by a doctor.

While a crowd of vacationists, including Pate's wife and the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lorimer, looked on, the rangers climbed to the top of Half Dome, the granite peak, and then descended about 2,000 feet to reach the trapped pair.

Ranger Rodney Chisholm, formerly a member of the Alaska expeditions of the Rev. Bernard Hubbard, "Glacier priest," and Robert Russell, CCC foreman, took Miss Lorimer from the ledge while the other rescuers attended to Pate.

"They were the nicest looking rangers I ever saw," said Miss Lorimer as she returned to the camp of her anxious parents. She refused hospital treatment.

Call for Help.

Miss Lorimer and Pate became trapped on the ledge late yesterday. They built a fire, signalizing their predicament to the vacationist camp 2,000 feet below. Rangers called to them, asking if they could hang on to the ledge until morning. The hikers called back for immediate help and the rescue party set out at once.

Because of the darkness it was necessary for the rescuers to climb to the top of Half Dome, 8,852 feet above sea level, and then descend to the ledge.

Miss Lorimer's chief complaint was that she was "awfully dirty." She praised the rescue party and a camp of CCC boys who kept a big bonfire aglow on the valley floor throughout the night to lend encouragement.

The girl's mother shouted up words of assurance throughout the night.

Girl Tells of Experience.

"We had been on the trip to Half Dome," Miss Lorimer said, "and decided to take what looked like a trail down the front of the mountain.

"After getting down 200 or 300 feet we realized that we were trapped.

"I built a fire and called for help. It was awfully cold there. I had to hold on to two rocks during the night, but was thankful for the cold because it kept me awake."

The mountain derives its name from the solid granite semi-dome at its top. It rises abruptly about 4,000 feet from the valley floor, with the sheer flat side of the dome facing the west.

This flat side is almost perpendicular for the last 1,200 feet or so and never has been scaled.

EAGER TO MARRY BAUER'S WIDOW, ZENGE ASSERTS

Interviewed; Reiterates His Denial of Murder.

Mandeville W. Zenge, dour young Missouri farmer-carpenter, would do anything for his ex-fiancée, Mrs. Louise Schaffer Bauer, and intends to marry her, if she will have him, when he "gets out of this trouble."

Zenge made these statements yesterday in an interview at the county jail where he is held on a warant charging him with the mutilation murder of Walter J. Bauer, Kirksville, Mo. chemistry professor, who married Louise Schaffer a short time before she was to have been married to Zenge. The state contends Zenge mutilated his successful rival because of jealousy.

Remains Firm in His Denial.

Zenge was first asked in the interview if it was he who, early in the morning of July 30, performed on Bauer the penknife operation, which caused the professor's death a few hours later. Looking refreshed from an undisturbed sleep in his cell and relief from the rigors of a remorseless questioning by state investigaters, the former farm hand, who is 26 years old, replied:

"No, I certainly did not."

Q.—Do you still love Louise? A.—Yes; I would do anything for her.

Q.—What were your relations with Louise Schaffer? A.—Absolutely innocent; if that is what you mean. I loved and respected her as my future bride.

Q.—Do you think she will help you in your trial? A.—I wouldn't ask her to. She can't harm me, though, for I'm innocent.

Q.—Do you know the state's attorney is holding her. A.—Yes, I know she is being held, but they have no more right to do that than they have to hold me.

Q.—Do you intend to call her for your defense. A.—I don't know. I wouldn't do anything to hurt her.

Silent on His Activities.

Zenge then told of hitch-hiking to Chicago to forget when he learned of his sweetheart's marriage. He refused to discuss his movements here before his arrest last Friday, saying he withheld such information on the advice of his attorney, Joseph E. Green. The interview then continued:

Q.—How do you feel? A.—Fine. They treated me pretty well, and I could take it, because I knew justice would prevail.

Q.—Would you marry Louise if you are acquitted? A.—Yes, if she will have me.

Q.—Do you think your family will stand by you? A.—You bet they will. I know my dad will stick with me.

Zenge conferred later in the day with Attorney Green, but the lawyer refused to reveal what his defense would be. He admitted, however, that his client would stand by his original plea in the Felony court of "not guilty."

Hopes to Complete Case Tomorrow.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said he hoped to complete his presentation of testimony before the grand jury by tomorrow. Mrs. Bauer and her brother-in-law, Joseph Bauer, have been the only witnesses heard so far.

Investigators Roy Arnold and Burt Gray went yesterday to Kirksville, where the Bauers were married on July 14, and where the wife was superintendent of nurses in a hospital. Bauer taught in the College of Osteopathy there. In study of the Bauer-Zenge triangle the police hope to learn more of the motive for the murder.

Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad was making a leisurely motor trip yesterday on U. S. highway 12 from Ann Arbor, Mich., seeking witnesses who may have seen Prof. Bauer and his abductor together on their ride to Chicago the night of July 30. Bauer was mutilated on the south side early the next day.

FOUND DEAD IN LOCKED GARAGE.

Philip Filer, 59 years old, 2745 North Campbell avenue, unemployed, was found dead yesterday in the gas filled garage at the rear of his home. The motor of his car was running and the doors to the garage were locked.

PICKETS SEIZE, STRIP AND SPANK WOMEN WORKERS

40 Police Called to End Texas Riot.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Striking women garment workers stripped four women naked, partly disrobed six others and chased them through the streets, spanking and scratching them in wild rioting today. Forty police were called to stop the battle. Several were kicked and beaten by the infuriated women.

Six persons, including four policemen, were injured. The outbreak marked a renewal of disorders in a six months old walkout.

27 Women Arrested.

Twenty-seven women and three men were arrested. Police said two of the men probably would be charged with inciting to riot. They all were identified as relatives of the strikers.

In releasing the twenty-seven women on bonds Police Chief Robert L. Jones told them:

"You can carry on your strike and we won't bother you, but when you cease to be ladies we will arrest you."

The women smiled. They promised to cause no further disturbance.

The strikers are demanding higher wages, shorter hours, and union recognition.

Two Innocent Victims.

Two of the women whose clothes were torn were not connected with the strike or a dress plant in any way. The eight others were employés of the Lorch Manufacturing company, in front of which most of the rioting took place. Other workers were attacked near the Morten-Davis company two blocks away.

"I had just got off a street car to transfer," said Miss Valera McCormick, one of the victims not an employé of the dress plant. "Before I knew it they grabbed me and tore my clothes to pieces. They threw them in the street and I had to run three-quarters of a block before I reached the Lorch plant."

The company gave her a dress and she went on to her place of business.

Fugitive in Chicago Mail Fraud Seized on Coast

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Indicted for mail fraud in operations of the Grain Market Service company in Chicago in 1934, David Weinstein, 32, was arrested here today by postoffice inspectors.

FUGITIVE CONVICT FOUND—IN A CELL, UNDER NEW NAME

Joliet's Leo Trapiz Is Gasior Himself.

Leo Gasior, 25 years old, has been hunted in vain ever since April 14, when the Illinois Supreme court affirmed his prison sentence of one year to life for robbery with a gun. Yesterday the Chicago crime commission informed State's Attorney Courtney and Sheriff Toman that they would find Gasior in Joliet penitentiary.

The commission revealed that Gasior, under the alias of Leo Trapiz, was sent to the penitentiary for two concurrent one year to life sentences for burglary on the day before the Supreme court's affirmation of the robbery conviction.

Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the commission, said there wasn't much that could be done about the case now except to correct jail and prison records. He referred to Gasior as "the young man on the flying Trapiz."

Alumnus of Bridewell.

Gasior's known criminal record began in November, 1931, when he was found guilty of petit larceny by Judge James J. Kelly in a Criminal court bench trial. He served a six months' sentence in the Bridewell.

On April 24, 1934, Gasior was found guilty of robbery with a gun by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Walter P. Steffen. Masked and waving a pistol, he had robbed a store at 7120 West Grand avenue of $812. A new trial was denied and the case was appealed. Gasior obtained temporary freedom on a supersedeas bond on June 19 of last year.

The Trapiz Sprung on Leo.

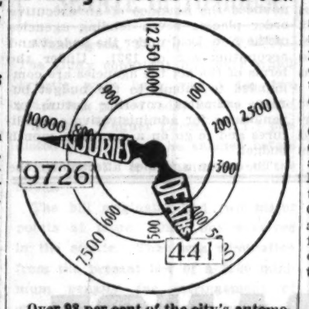
As Leo Trapiz, Gasior stepped into the picture on the night of March 17 of this year with two burglaries, one in the home of Thomas Kane at 5656 South Artesian avenue and the other in the home of Ethel Copithorne at 5948 South Rockwell street. A cruising police squad summoned by a radio message, grabbed him as he jumped out of a window at the Copithorne home.

He was found guilty of burglary by a jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's court on April 9 and on the following day he waived a jury in the second case. He then received the two concurrent sentences.

The single identity of Gasior and Trapiz was suggested first by the elaborate alias index of the crime commission. The cards brought out the truth.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

CAR LEAPS CURB AFTER COLLISION; BYSTANDER DIES

Clarence Boulter, 60 years old, 3220 Lowe avenue, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile which plunged over the curb after colliding with another car at 33d street and Shields avenue. Frank Jackson, 62 years old, who lived with him, was standing with Boulter and was injured.

Mrs. Bertha McQueen, 35 years old, colored, 3449 Evergreen avenue, driver of the car which struck the men, told police she lost control of her automobile in the collision. She was ordered held for an inquest. The driver of the other car abandoned it and fled.

Fritz G. Nelson, 43 years old, proprietor of the General Tire shop at Aurora, died in Sherman hospital in Elgin of injuries incurred when his car ran off the highway in Algonquin and struck a tree.

The death of Boulter increased the 1935 Cook county trafic death toll to 556. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 441 persons had been killed in trafic accidents within the Chicago city limits this year and 9,726 injured.

Victor McCleary, 55 years old, owner of a restaurant and tavern in East Gary, was killed and his wife injured when their automobile was struck at County Line road and State road No. 130, in Hobart, Ind., by a truck, driven by Fred Schockey, 221 South Francisco avenue, Chicago. McCleary's home was in Hobart.

Willis Holt, 23 years old, 400 South 2d avenue, Maywood, died yesterday of injuries incurred Sept. 4, 1934, when the car he was driving plunged into a ditch near Elkhart, Ind. Holt, who had been employed as a clerk, suffered a fracture of the spine when, he said, he drove his car into the ditch to avoid hitting another machine.

FARMER HANGS SELF.

2 TEACHERS FILE SUIT TO PREVENT BEING PENSIONED

Attack Retirement Act as Unconstitutional.

Two school teachers affected by a recent order of the board of education retiring teachers over the age of 65 years filed suit yesterday in the Circuit court asking for an injunction to restrain the board from carrying out its retirement policy.

The suit was filed by John E. Groves, teacher of mathematics at Crane Technical High schole, who is an attorney, on behalf of himself and Mary E. Stanton, head assistant at the Ericsson elementary school. Groves, who is 69 years old and lives at 1376 Greenleaf avenue, has taught for 40 years. Miss Stanton, 66 years old, 3253 Flournoy street, has been teaching 45 years.

Amount of Pension Reduced.

The board's retirement order was based on senate bill 528 passed by the 59th Illinois general assembly. This amendment to the teachers' retirement act requires the Chicago school board to retire teachers who are 65 years of age or over, and reduces the teachers' emeritus retirement pensions from $1,500 to $500.

In the suit the teachers claim that the pension amendment is invalid because the general assembly that passed it is illegally constituted, the state not having been reapportionted as required by the state constitution.

Termed "Class Legislation."

They set forth that it is inoperative for various other reasons, one being that it is class legislation as it does not apply to the board's civil service employés and that there is no similar act to retire other professional persons such as lawyers, doctors, and dentists.

The bill further claims that the amendment was passed with the aid of political pressure brought to bear by Mayor Kelly, James B. McCahey, president of the school board, and P. A. Nash, "lord and master of the Democratic political machine of Chicago."

35 MILES IS SET AS SPEED LIMIT ON BOULEVARDS

Judge Gibson Gorman, temporarily assigned to the Trafic court, announced yesterday that a thirty-five mile an hour speed limit has been agreed upon for wide boulevards and the better city thoroughfares, such as Peterson avenue on the north side and Torrence avenue on the south side.

"Those streets permitting thirty-five miles an hour are to be posted in accordance with the Illinois trafic code," said the judge, "just as sections of the outer drive, between Byron street and Foster avenue and between 14th and 51st streets, are to be posted for forty-five miles an hour.

"On unposted streets the state's prima facie limits will be enforced, twenty miles an hour for business districts, twenty-five miles an hour for residential zones, and thirty-five miles an hour for suburban areas."

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS RULING IN EASTLAND SUITS

A decision of Federal Judge John P. Barnes fixing responsibility and liability for the Eastland disaster, which occurred on July 24, 1915, in the Chicago river with a loss of 812 lives, was upheld yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Judge Barnes' decision approved the finding of Special Master in Admiralty Lewis F. Mason, who held that claims totaling $8,000,000 were justifiable but that liability of the St. Joseph-Chicago Steamship company, owners of the vessel, was limited to the value of its interest in the ship.

The Eastland was sold by its owners for $42,000. Salvaging it from the river bed cost $38,000 and court costs have since used up the remainder, leaving nothing to satisfy the $8,000,000 claims. The Eastland is now the U. S. S. Wilmette, a naval training ship operating on the Great Lakes. Responsibility for capsizing of the steamer was placed by the courts on the chief engineer for improperly distributing the water ballast.

EIGHT ASK $170,000 FOR TRAIN-TRUCK CRASH FATAL TO 2

Suits totaling $170,000 were filed in the Circuit court yesterday against the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad in behalf of six men who were injured and the widows of two men who were killed in a collision between a train and a truck on Aug. 10, 1934, where the tracks cross the Waukegan road near Glenview. The widows are Mrs. Theresa Giosh, 5656 Mango avenue, and Mrs. Florence Shillcut, 607 North Hamlin avenue. The suits ask $10,000 for each of the widows and $25,000 for each of the men. The bill charges that the crossing was not sufficiently protected and that the train failed to give warning of its approach.

Two Navy Flyers Killed in Scouting Plane Crash

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Two navy flyers were killed today when a plane of scouting Squadron 4, attached to the Aircraft Carrier Langley, crashed two miles south of Otay Mesa. The dead are Lieut. John Frederick Nelson, and Michael Joseph Glynn.

WATCHMAN KILLS NEGRO BURGLAR, SHOOTS ANOTHER

One colored burglar was killed last night and his companion wounded in the ankle by Frank Bamber, a watchman, who surprised them in the act of breaking into the R. I. Terwilliger real estate office and safety deposit vaults at 1227 Blue Island avenue.

The dead man is still unidentified. The wounded man is Willie Gardner, 30 years old, of 3327 South Park way.

Bamber told police that he found the pair entering a window and that he called on them to surrender. One produced a toy pistol and the other a knife. Bamber drew his gun and fired, striking the unidentified man in the abdomen.

Gardner started to run, but was halted by a shot through his ankle. The unidentified man died before reaching the Bridewell hospital.

WRECKERS HIRED TO SALVAGE MEAT ON GOOSE ISLAND

The federal surplus relief corporation yesterday contracted with the American Wrecking company of Chicago to salvage more than five million cans of meat which crashed in the collapse of the Herrmann warehouse at 1101 Cherry street on Goose Island two weeks ago. A second collapse ten days ago killed Roman Wager, 38 years old, a laborer, and the body has not yet been removed from the debris.

The contract was the result of two days of discussion in the office of Charles S. Bond, controler of the budget for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. City officials have been loathe to go into the building because of the tottering condition of the walls still standing.

NEW DEAL LOSS IN RHODE ISLAND A SIGN FOR 1936

G. O. P. Victory Is Certain, Leaders Declare.

many Democrat, rose to answer these Republican thrusts.

"Don't be too confident," he told the minority. "Don't go to sleep. It is well known that there was a split in the Democratic party up there. The Republican candidate campaigned chiefly on the proposition that he was the law partner of Condon, the Democrat who left the place vacant."

The political disputation had thrown the house into a state of disorder which was partly quelled by Speaker Byrns' gavel and partly overcome by the stentorian voice of Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.].

"Why, Rhole Island has asked more federal aid than almost any other state. It is shameful. The state is so little that they could put fifteen of them in my district alone," Blanton shouted.

He charged that as soon as congress adjourned and representatives could return to their districts there will be "another story" after they "answer" the "rotten propaganda which the Republicans are sowing."

Legislators Give Views.

In the house and senate lobbies the statesmen gave their views to to the newspaper reporters. Typical ones follow:

Speaker Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.]: "I do not regard that election as any criterion of what might happen in the rest of the country. Rhode Island always has been regarded as Republican and only occasionally have Democrats been able to win there."

Senator Peter G. Gerry [Dem., R. I.]: "The election in my opinion points to a significant trend. It was a protest against the processing taxes, the policies of the administration in permitting Japanese goods to flood this country, Secretary Hull's activities in revising tariffs on the most favored nation principle, the death sentence for holding companies, and finally, its confiscatory tax program. In my opinion that was the last straw."

Senator Harry F. Byrd [Dem., Va.]: "The election in Rhode Island was very significant. It certainly indicates, so far as that district is concerned, at least, a reversal of sentiment."

Sees "Food for Thought."

Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.]: "Whether or not the election in Rhode Island indicates the sentiment throughout the country time will tell. Undoubtedly local conditions played some part in the result, but generally speaking, there is food for thought for all parties concerned."

Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.]: "The election in Rhode Island represents a very remarkable recession from the apparently very high Democratic popularity last November. It is a strong indication of a Republican victory in 1936."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.]: "The election in Rhode Island proves common sense is convalescent."

Representative E. B. Crowe [Dem., Ind.], vice chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee: "The result was probably just a quirk where a district is returning to the party it used to support. Western and central states—and the south, of course—probably will be solid for Roosevelt next year. If he has any losses, they will be in the east and New England particularly."

Rising Taxes Blamed.

Senator J. H. Metcalf [Rep., R. I.]: "The overwhelming defeat of the New Deal in the Rhode Island congressional election means that the people are now realizing that huge taxes which must be collected to repay the squanderings of the administration will force the closing of more industries. People realize that bad economic policy may cause further unemployment in the future."

Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.]: "I am surprised at the result in the congressional election in Rhode Island. I expected a Democratic victory with a reduced majority. The only explanation that occurs to me is that certain economic policies of the administration are unpopular in the industrial sections of the country. I was aware that the processing tax, the rapid increase in the cost of living with no increase in income or wages, had created a sentiment against the administration, but I did not think it had reached such proportions as this election seems to indicate. I feel sure the administration will be able to adjust its policies so as to reverse the verdict of yesterday before the national election next year."

Senator Robert D. Carey [Rep., Wyo.]: "The result is a demonstration of what is happening all over the country. The people are rejecting the New Deal, and I think the Republicans have the finest chance in the world in the next election."

COMMENT ON R. I. ELECTION

The significance of the Republican victory in Rhode Island is the subject of comment by newspapers of all political opinions. Some of these views follow:

Baltimore Sun, [Ind. Dem.]—The Rhode Island election would seem to represent, at least in that section of the country, a political revolution which ought to suggest to Mr. Roosevelt and his associates that the Supreme court is by no means the sole threat to the New Deal. Whatever its real portent, this cloud on the horizon should be the occasion of sober reflection, both by the Roosevelt administration and its opponents.

Boston Herald, [Rep.]—There is no mistaking the great national significance of the voting in the Rhode Island congressional election. . . . The effect on the country will be as pronounced as if this were September, 1934, and Maine had turned out the New Dealers. The Republican party will take heart and renew its courage everywhere. Sturdy Democrats, who have stanchly refused to turn their backs on the old Democratic colors, will feel vindicated for their opposition to the President and the New Deal.

New York Times, [Ind. Dem.]—More significant even than the defeat of the Democratic aspirant was the rejection of the proposed bond issue to enable the state to borrow millions in order to get federal millions to be put into public works under the benevolent auspices of Mr. Ickes. In one congressional district at least there seems to be weariness of this continual policy of beg, borrow, and spend.

Dallas [Tex.] News [Ind. Dem.]—The thoughtful observer must consider whether so pronounced a Republican and anti-New Deal result is likely to reflect Republican gains next year in states which that party ordinarily is able to control. In Rhode Island, dissatisfaction with the policies of the state Democratic party may have partly clouded the national issue.

Des Moines [Ia.] Register [Ind.]—May the Rhode Island congressional election be read with an eye to its warnings as well as to its promises.

Kansas City Star [Ind.]—The outcome of the election settles no national question. But it furnishes a pretty clear indication of a marked shift in public sentiment toward the New Deal.

Los Angeles Times [Rep.]—The result is generally accepted as the verdict of the industrial east on New Deal policies. One swallow does not make summer, nor one by-election a campaign, but the result is distinctly encouraging to Republicans and other opponents of administration policies.

Philadelphia Inquirer [Rep.]—The fact remains that in the first test of strength, the administration, in a Democratic state, has lost decisively in a battle intensely fought and in which the erstwhile popularity of the President was found to have lost its charm.

Portland Oregonian [Ind.]—It will be remembered how eagerly Democratic leaders discussed the early elections in 1934, such as the one in Maine in September. They indicated, said Democratic leaders, a growth in Democratic strength that would be reflected in the congressional elections in the ensuing November. They were right about it. By contrast the Democratic leaders' acceptance of present election results in Rhode Island is one of nonchalance and airy indifference. Yet the New Deal was squarely in issue, and a Democratic lead of 21,000 in 1934 was changed into a Republican lead of 13,000. It cannot be laughed off.

Washington Star [Ind.]—This was not merely a parochial happening. The contest was directly based upon the New Deal issues. The Republican candidate opposing the administration's program of legislation and the Democratic candidate supporting it . . . which gives the outcome a particular significance as a straw to indicate the trend of the wind.

Republican Victor in Rhode Island

G. O. P. TRIUMPH IN RHODE ISLAND SPURS PARTY ON

Grass Rooters Will Open H. Q. Here Sept. 1.

Republican Grass Rooters, looking over the returns from Tuesday's congressional byelection in Rhode Island, interpreted them as a "repudiation of the Roosevelt New Deal policies." As an index to a shift in public sentiment, the Grass Roots executive committee of ten prairie states, hailed the election as a curtain raiser for the opening of the committee's headquarters in Chicago about Sept. 1 and a campaign to organize the Grass Roots movement in every precinct of the ten states.

"The Rhode Island victory for the Republicans shows the people have reached the conclusion that the country cannot waste itself into prosperity," said Harrison E. Spangler of Cedar Rapids, Ia., chairman of the permanent Grass Roots committee.

In the Rhode Island byelection the winning candidate for congress was Charles F. Risk, anti-New Deal Republican, who polled 48,023 votes against 35,054 for Antonio Prince, New Deal Democrat.

Cites Extraordinary Switch.

John Hamilton, Kansas national committeeman, chairman of the Grass Roots conference at Springfield in June, and general counsel to the Republican national committee, put forth his analysis of the Rhode Island special election. He has just returned from a ten days' tour of New England.

"Last November," Mr. Hamilton said, "the same Rhode Island district elected a Democratic congressman by a majority of 21,000. In that election the Republican nominee received only 41 per cent of all the votes cast. On Tuesday a Republican was elected to congress from this district by a majority of 13,000.

"This shift in majorities, with the Republican now receiving 58 per cent of the votes, is significant. Both the Republican and the Democratic candidates made the New Deal the single issue of the campaign. It presented a clear cut question to the voters whether they did or did not approve of President Roosevelt's policies.

"Secondly, the full weight of Gov. Green's state machine was thrown behind the Democratic candidate, who was Gov. Green's personal choice for the nomination. Finally, when Rhode Island was redistricted several years ago the state was gerrymandered so that all the predominantly Democratic counties were thrown into this district to make it safely Democratic.

"When the picture as a whole is considered the importance of this election is at once apparent. It constitutes a repudiation of the policies of President Roosevelt and nothing else."

BEG YOUR PARDON

A picture in the final editions of Wednesday's TRIBUNE identified as that of Charles F. Risk, Republican victor in Rhode Island congressional election, was that of Antonio Prince, the Democratic loser. Also in early editions the pictures of the two men were transposed.

A story on July 30, concerning the accident in which Mrs. Gladys Sweeney, 1433 North State parkway, was fatally injured in Villa Park, quoted Chief of Police William Higgins of that village as saying that Dr. Frank Leahy of Elmhurst was summoned to attend the woman at 1 a. m. and he did not call an ambulance until 5:30 a. m. Dr. Leahy says he was not summoned to the home until 5 a. m., and that he sent her to the Elmhurst hospital within 30 minutes of his arrival.

U. S. TELLS STATE SALES TAX SLUGS ARE 'UNLAWFUL'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Notice that the Illinois state sales tax tokens are "unlawful" was telegraphed to state officials at Springfield tonight by Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the treasury department.

Treasury officials denied, however, that the telegrams were intended to serve formal notice on the state that it must withdraw all sales tax tokens from circulation at once. They insisted that the message was merely to keep states posted on the federal government's position. Similar telegrams were sent to Missouri, Colorado, and Washington.

Oliphant's legal staf handed Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau a memorandum, Monday, declaring that they believed the issuance of sales tax tokens by the state unlawful, and the telegrams communicated this fact to the states involved.

The treasury is seeking to get through congress a resolution authorizing the mints to make half cent and one mill coins to replace state sales tax tokens.

ALPHABET MAZE HEADACHE EVEN FOR ROOSEVELT

Finds Jumble Too Complex for One Man.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—With a wry smile President Roosevelt today confessed that his alphabetical jumble is getting so complicated that it is giving even him a headache. He made the confession in announcing that in the future he will strive to have the independent agencies report to him through cabinet officers rather than unit by unit.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that it was impossible for him to tie all the independent agencies in together and avoid confusion. For this reason he declared that those agencies which are closely allied to regular departments will report through secretaries. In the future, he indicated, he hopes to have all reports of the New Deal units come from cabinet officers.

The President said that during the war the British government ran into the same difficulty which confronts him now as the cabinet was increased to meet additional official demands. He said the cabinet got up to somewhere around 28 members.

Group Found Topheavy.

The thing became unworkable in that it became topheavy, he asserted. It is impossible for a great number, the President explained, to sit around a table and formulate policies because a body, unwieldy in size, becomes a forum instead of an executive group.

Mr. Roosevelt made his observations when asked if the contemplated oil board under the terms of new legislation would be independent. He asserted that an independent board could handle the problem, but he preferred that the board be under a cabinet member who would report to him.

In line with his realignment of the alphabet jumble the President announced the issuance of an executive order placing seven lending agencies of the New Deal under the budget and accounting act of 1921. Under the terms of the act the agencies are commanded to submit to the budget bureau estimates covering future expenditures for administrative expenditures and to go on a month to month budget.

The seven agencies affected by the order are the Federal Home Loan bank, Home Owners' Loan corporation, Federal Savings and Loan bank, Federal Housing administration, Federal Savings and Insurance corporation, Farm Credit administration, and Federal Farm Mortgage corporation. The President indicated that he hoped by late fall to bring administrative expenses of other alphabetical units under the budget bureau.

"The agencies are not to incur, from and after Sept. 15, 1935, any obligations for administrative expenses no approved by the bureau of the budget," the President's order read. "The director of the bureau of the budget is directed to apportion funds for administrative expenses to each of the agenices named on a monthly basis, subject to modification in the event of emergency."

The significance of the order to New Deal burocracy is that it will enable the President to call on one man—the director of the budget—rather than on seven, for the financial affairs of the units. The order also limits the expenditure of the units by subjecting them to a monthly budget check, instead of allotting them in a lump sum to spend as they please during a year.

Previous Order Rescinded.

Today's order was the second Mr. Roosevelt has issued on bringing alphabetical units under the budget act. In his budget message of Jan. 3, 1934, he declared that up to that date there had been no coördinated control over emergency expenditures and on that date issued an executive order putting the units under the control of Lewis Douglas, then budget director, who since has resigned in disgust over New Deal financial policies.

Immediately after the order was issued at the suggestion of Douglas, Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Relief Administrator Hopkins raced to the White House and bitterly opposed the plan. Their pleas for a free hand in spending resulted in rescinding of the order.

Second Deficiency Bill Is Sent to White House

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The 272 million dollar second deficiency appropriation bill was sent to the White House late today when the senate adopted the last few amendments necessary to clear up differences with the house.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

HURLEY, TUMULTY TELL OF BIG FEES AS UTILITY AIDS

$100,000 in 3 Years for Ex-Secretary.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war, and Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, both of whom are now practicing law in Washington, admitted receiving large legal fees from utility companies in testifying today before the senate lobby committee.

JOS. P. TUMULTY.

Each denied, however, that he had lobbied for the utility control bill and insisted he had been paid for legal advice only. Hurley said he had received $100,000 in fees from the Associated Gas and Electric system in the last three years. Tumulty admitted the collection of $38,500 from several utilities since October, 1934. He set his total income for 1934 and in 1935 to the present at $109,700.

Hurley Protests Abuse.

Hurley, a Hoover appointee, was interrupted and cross-examined by Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], the chairman, until he charged resentfully that he was being singled out for abuse because of his party affiliations. Black pointed out that the Democratic Tumulty was the next witness, but it was noticeable that Tumulty was treated in more courteous fashion when his turn came.

The committee refused to permit either attorney to read prepared statements. When Hurley raised a hand to emphasize a statement Black interrupted him with the sarcastic suggestion "to wave both arms!"

Again while Hurley was speaking Black interjected: "Why not read us some poetry?"

Flushed and angry, the tall and well groomed ex-secretary of war, rose to his feet and shouted: "Every one knows all you gentlemen are good prosecutors! Of course, you don't know what it is to be fair or just. You try to put words into a witness' mouth. Your questions are all on the type of the 'Why don't you stop beating your wife?' query."

Represented "Investors."

Hurley started off his testimony with the assertion that he had never been employed by Howard C. Hopson, head of the Associated Gas system, or Hopson's private companies. He represented the company's investors, he said.

Hopson, sought by a score of private detectives for nearly three weeks, remained among the missing today. He had been reported seen at a hotel here Sunday night. In their zeal the investigators invaded Hurley's Virginia estate yesterday, but found no trace of the portly utility head.

"Tell us all the fees you have received from the Associated Gas concern," ordered Black.

"I don't mind telling you," replied Hurley, "but I do think it curious that you single out a Republican here. Why not ask John W. Davis how much he received? You can see me from all angles in this matter," he added. "I'm just a gold fish in a bowl for this committee."

He Got About 40 Per Cent.

He then testified that his firm had received $50,000 from the utility company in 1933, $25,000 in 1934, and $25,000 this year. He estimated that he did not collect more than 40 per cent of these firm fees.

"Did you tell any one," interjected Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [Dem., Wash.], suddenly, "that Hopson was getting $500,000 a year from the companies he was milking while the stockholders got nothing?"

"I understand you are a stockholder," retorted Hurley, "and probably know more about it than I do."

Schwellenbach persisted in his question, demanding a "yes" or "no" answer, until Hurley made his accusation of unfair tactics by the committee.

After some of the tumult had died down, Hurley testified that he never spoke personally to any senator or representative about the utility bill. He advised officers of the company, he said, and procured them a hearing before the house interstate and commerce committee.

"Any one would have more sense," he commented, "than to pay me for my influence with this congress. It isn't worth a nickel."

"O, there're still some Republicans up here," remarked Black.

Hurley concluded his testimony with a suggestion to the committee that they read Swift's "Gulliver's Travels" and the Golden Rule.

Tumulty Lists Clients.

Tumulty, pink faced and white haired, also asserted that he had never lobbied although he admitted talks with some senators and representatives about the utility bill. He listed as his clients American Water Works, Commonwealth and Southern, Public Service of New Jersey, and City Service corporation. He was hired by these utilities last October and had received from them fees totaling $33,500 thus far, he said. Of this amount he paid certain amounts to other lawyers as consultants, including $5,000 to former Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire. He said he had first been retained in utility legislation in 1927 by "a man named Samuel Insull."

He said he had talked to Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Rad., Mont.] and William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.].

He revealed that he had been hired as an attorney in connection with other pending legislation by a number of concerns including Lehman Brothers, New York brokers, and the National Distillers corporation. He listed his fees in detail for 1934 and in 1935 thus far, giving the total as $109,700.

BILL CHANGING LAW OF COPYRIGHTS WINS SENATE; UP TO HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Duffy copyright bill, over which artistic wars have waged for two years, was passed today by the senate.

Senator Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] predicted it would not be enacted before adjournment. It still must go to the house.

The bill originally had two major points at issue. Only one survived in the senate. That was elimination from the present law of a $250 minimum penalty for infringement of copyright, regardless of actual damages.

Wagner and Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho], through two amendments, eliminated provisions which would have prevented authors or composers from obtaining injunctions against publishers or producers where the "manufacture" had gone so far that an injunction would cause an undue hardship.

Other changes in the present law proposed in the bill included:

To have copyrights run for fifty-six years instead of the existing twenty-eight years plus an optional twenty-eight year renewal as in the present law.

TAX BOARD HOLDS MITCHELL GUILTY OF INCOME FRAUD

Banker Must Pay Nearly Million or Appeal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The United States board of tax appeals today judged Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City Bank of New York, guilty of fraud in the 1 million 276 thousand dollar income tax case brought against him by the government.

Mitchell was held by the board to have fraudulently evaded income taxes in 1929 by claiming a 2 million 800 thousand dollar loss on 18,300 shares of stock in the National City bank he claimed to have sold to his wife. The board held it was not actually sold. The board also held Mitchell guilty of fraud in failing to include in his taxable income $666,666 received from the bank.

Insolvent for 3 Millions.

The former bank head, who, in 1932, was "insolvent," to the extent of 3 million dollars, according to the tax board's own decision, will be required by the decision to pay the government almost a million dollars unless he decides to appeal the case. The board ruled out some of the government's minor claims, thus reducing the tax assessment by an amount not yet officially determined.

Conviction of Mitchell on the fraud charges was a sweeping victory for the New Dealers, who have launched similar income tax cases against Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, and other prominent industrialists.

Acquitted on Criminal Charge.

Mitchell was acquitted on criminal charges of fraud which the government brought against him in the United States District court in New York in 1933, but the tax board held that this criminal acquittal did not bar the board from finding him guilty of fraud in the civil suit. Conviction of fraud in the civil proceedings before the board carries a 50 per cent penalty tax.

The original claims of the government were additional income taxes of $850,429 and 50 per cent fraud penalty taxes of $425,214.

Six members of the 14 on the board dissented in whole or in part, most of them holding either that Mitchell had not been shown to be guilty of fraud or that the board had no right to find fraud after the District court's acquittal.

COOK COUNTY GETS $403,233 FROM GAS TAX OF LAST MONTH

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—A total of $883,170 has been allotted to Illinois counties from the state motor fuel tax for July, E. L. Ames Jr., director of finance, announced today.

The state held $302,700 reserve for interest and sinking fund for the $20,000,000 and $41,590 for the $30,000,000 relief bond issues.

Cook county's July allotment was $403,233. Of that $184,887 was held for the $20,000,000 and $27,803 for the $30,000,000 bond issue. Among the counties in the higher allotment class are: St. Clair, $18,099; Peoria, $17,981; Kane, $17,713; Winnebago, $16,980; Lake, $16,493; Madison, $16,064; Sangamon, $14,080, and Will, $13,254.

RELIEF WORKERS' STRIKE TIES UP N. Y. HOUSING JOB

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—A strike of nearly 200 relief workers virtually tied up the Astor low-cost housing project today and brought from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, works project administrator for this area, an ultimatum that the strikers will be dropped from the rolls unless they return by Friday.

The walkout followed protests by labor unions against the $93.50 monthly maximum paid skilled labor on WPA projects under the government's "security wage" plan.

Gen. Johnson said he ordered work stopped on the project shortly after noon. Chairman Langdon W. Post of the New York City housing authority expressed sympathy with the labor unions' efforts to maintain the prevailing rate of wage.

KILLED IN CRASH.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Frank Perues, 28, of Bloomington, was killed last midnight when the car in which he was riding with ten persons was sidewiped by a transport truck on route 121 near Lincoln. The transport did not stop after the mishap.

U. S. TAXES DRAIN CITIES OF FUNDS, SENATORS TOLD

Pittsburgh Mayor Hits New Deal Policy.

Gore, with his customary irony, "we people down here in Washington know more about what you need in Pittsburgh than you do."

"But senator, you're not sitting on a spot like I am," the witness replied, precipitating another roar of laughter.

"You're not going to redistribute wealth with this tax bill," he continued. "You just take it and we don't get it back. That's not redistribution. That's confiscation."

Mayor Points to Platform.

The mayor said he went out to Chicago in 1932 and voted for a platform calling for a balanced budget and that was the last he heard of it. He said it was his idea that the government should stop spending so much money instead of increasing taxes.

Robert H. Jackson, counsel for the bureau of internal revenue, was sharply interrogated by members of the finance committee when he returned today and completed his testimony urging that President Roosevelt's proposals be "carried out literally and fully."

Senators King and Gore objected vigorously against the proposed graduated tax on corporations, which Jackson defended as being in accord with the principle of "ability to pay."

"Isn't the graduated corporation tax tax on size as such and isn't it designed to serve some economic or social end other than the raising of revenue?" asked Senator Gore.

Considered "More Stable."

"I think not. I think the larger corporations are more stable in their income," Jackson replied.

"I think that's a sound argument in relation to the excess profits tax but not to the graduated corporation tax," Senator Gore commented. "It seems to me that you are establishing a dangerous precedent. Somebody else may come into power and put a tax no something else to accomplish some other social end."

Jackson replied that the taxing power rested with congress and that if the people were dissatisfied with the tax they could change.

Senator Gore, referring ironically to the record of the present congress in doing the President's bidding, replied: "Yes, Mr. Jackson, I'm an Irishman and I have a sense of humor."

Besides Jackson and Mayor McNair, the committee heard four witnesses from the chamber of commerce of the United States, who denounced the tax program as unsound and impracticable and calculated to retard recovery.

Sees Blow at Employment.

Fred H. Clausen, president of the Van Brunt Manufacturing company of Horicon, Wis., and chairman of the chamber's committee on federal finance, said the proposed taxes should be opposed by both large and small business because of their effect upon future business operations.

"It is the individual with substantial income who must be relied upon to assume the risk of new projects and to furnish the money for the increase of capital of established enterprises," he said. "If such individuals are driven to such legal avenues of avoidance, business and employment must suffer and in the end so must government revenue."

Roy C. Osgood, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago, assailed the bill as an encroachment by the federal government upon the revenue resources of the states "which are in most cases not now sufficient to carry out their public obligations."

Fred R. Fairchild, professor of political economy at Yale university, asserted that comparisons between the English and American tax rates often failed to take into account local and state taxes in this country and that, as a matter of fact, "even the comparisons of the taxes upon incomes and estates indicate that the larger incomes and larger estates are now taxed as much or more in this country as in England."

Would Encourage Activity.

"It is clear," Prof. Fairchild said, "that the determining factors in producing revenue are not high rates—certainly not extremely high rates—but the amount of taxable incomes and the volume of taxable business activities. The most important present consideration in connection with federal taxes is to seek to preserve and encourage business activity and to avoid anything which may jeopardize the prompt return to economic prosperity."

Ellsworth C. Alvord, another member of the chamber's committee, assailed the "innumerable inequities" of the excess profits tax proposal in the house bill. He contended it would discriminate against small incomes dependent upon dividends as compared with other incomes subject to normal surtaxes.

$140,000 BLAZE AT DECATUR.

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 7. — (AP) — Chapman, Doakes Milling company plant was destroyed by fire following what was believed to be an explosion of grain dust early today with a loss estimated by R. W. Chapman, one of the owners, at $130,000 to $150,000. The direction of the wind prevented the ignition of a gas storage tank of 10,000,000 cubic feet capacity from exploding. It is 150 yards from the mill.

SERIOUSLY ILL

Glen Cove, N. Y., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Baker Pratt, former congresswoman from New York City's "silk stocking" district, was critically ill today at her Long Island estate. Suffering from a heart ailment, she terminated a yachting trip with relatives in Maine a week ago. In 1934 she resigned as a member of the Republican national committee because of ill health. She will be 58 on Aug. 24.

ORDERS RELIEF STAFS REDUCED IN 34 COUNTIES

Reynolds Asks Instant Compliance.

Officials administering relief in 34 downstate counties received orders last night from Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission, to reduce their personnel at once. Reynolds told county administrators that the commission would not honor pay rolls for the period ending Aug. 15 for more than a specified number of employés.

The commission adopted a formula of so many employés to the number of relief cases in February of this year, and recent studies showed that the 34 counties were overstaffed by 111 pay rollers.

Save $10 000 a Month.

On July 1 the IERC had 3,468 employés in the 101 downstate counties. There were then eleven counties with the proper number and 56 under the job quota.

Officials estimated that the reductions ordered in the overstaffed counties would result in a saving in the commission's overhead costs of an estimated $10,000 a month. Reynolds said that administrative costs would be reduced further as the number of relief clients was reduced through employment furnished by the federal public works administration.

Advises Counties to Take Burden.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Attorney General Otto Kerner advised county boards today to "make additional appropriations and enter into contracts" to furnish poor relief until taxes can be levied in September under the new laws shifting the responsibility for the care of paupers from the townships to the counties.

The opinion was asked by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, which was told that it should provide relief for all destitute persons in case the counties fail or are unable to act. It was pointed out that anticipation warants can be issued against relief taxes already levied.

LEAGUE PLACES U. S. JULY COST AT 727 MILLION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The National Economy league today said the federal government spent $727,535,078 in July, a 57 per cent increase over the $466,273,908 spent in July, 1934.

The league said a 150 million dollar increase in regular expenditures was due partly to salary increases, a 50 million dollar payment into the bonus amortization fund and 55 million dollars for the sinking fund. Only $1,000 was set aside for debt retirement in July a year ago.

Emergency outlays were said to have increased by 112 million dollars over a year ago to 340 millions.

DOUGHTON SEEKS TO END DEADLOCK ON GUFFEY BILL

Cites Committee Changes in Coal Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—In a desperate attempt to arouse public sentiment that might force the Guffey coal bill out of a ways and means committee deadlock, Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.] today made public a copy of a "confidential committee print" of the bill which revealed that a number of changes had been made in the measure.

More than a score of amendments designed to bring the bill within constitutional amendments and meet objections that it would discriminate against some coal producing districts have been adopted, it was disclosed.

Basically the bill remains the same. It sets up a national bituminous coal commission with authority to administer a code of fair competition for the soft coal industry. The code includes wage, hour, and fair trade practice provisions and the commission is given power to fix minimum and maximum prices.

Committee Lineup Unchanged.

The lineup in the committee on the bill remained the same. Eight Democrats and six Republicans were against it and ten Democrats and one Republican were for it. The count thus was 14 to 11 against the measure, with little prospect any member would change his attitude.

Reports persisted that President Roosevelt had intervened to save this, the last of his "must" measures and one of the most treasured. The Democratic members were said to have been informed that the President was agreeable to any changes they might wish to make if only they maintained the main objective of the bill.

The major changes in the bill revealed today follow: Elimination of the section forbidding the interstate commerce commission to issue certificates of convenience and necessity for operation of railroads to bituminous mines without prior approval by the bituminous coal commission.

Consumers' Counsel Provided.

Addition of a provision for hearings to determine whether the method of fixing prices was working to the detriment of any coal producing district.

Reduction from nine to five in the number of commission members, and the addition of a stipulation that none shall have any outside connections.

Reduction from 25 to 15 per cent in the amount of the tax assessed against mine operators.

Reduction from 99 to 90 per cent in the amount of credit allowed the producers who abide by the code.

CAR HITS TREE, ONE DEAD.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Lester Sanderson, 21, Creston, Ill., was killed today when the car in which he and two companions were returning from a dance at Waterman hit a tree at DeKalb.

MIDWEST FARMS SEE GUFFEY BILL AS SERIOUS BLOW

J. R. Howard Talks of Coal Dictatorship.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

JAMES R. HOWARD.

"The sole object of the bill," he said, "is to stabilize the price of coal by raising the price. In the committee hearings there was no denial that the New Deal is deliberately setting out to create a monopoly in bituminous coal production with supervised government price fixing. All anti-trust laws are to be repealed.

More and More Bureaus.

"Twenty-four new boards and commissions are set up by the bill to administer the act. These are to be paid in part by the taxpayers, in part by increased costs of coal for consumers. Over them all is a national coal commission.

"This commission is to put into effect a code of compulsory rules prescribed in the bill. It taxes every mine owner 25 per cent on the value of all coal mined. If he joins the code he gets most of this back. Unless he becomes a member of the code he is denied the use of the United States mails in interstate commerce. No new extensions of railroads can be built to his mines without permission. He cannot sell to the government or to any contractor of the government.

"I find but one reason for all this, namely, a desire to exploit the public in the use of an essential commodity through monopoly established by the government.

Start of Communist Project.

"This is not all. This commission is authorized as a starter to use 300 million dollars of government funds to buy up coal mines. That is about one-fourth the value of all farms in Iowa at present values. It appears certainly to be the beginning of government ownership as well as operation of the mining industry. The apparent purpose is to extend it to other industries.

"Various mine operators testified it would raise the price of coal a dollar a ton at the mines. Freight costs would probably add another dollar, for the railroads would have to get more for hauling it.

"The department of commerce says 70 per cent of all commerce originates on the soil. This being true, it is probable that farm production pays at some stage of the procedure of producing, processing, and distributing 70 per cent of the total railroad freight of the nation. Farmer Jones will pay the freight again and again.

Known as "The Goofey Bill."

"Agriculture is not in financial shape to assume added burdens. We have lately bought a few necessities, but our debts are not paid. There is not a coöperative feature in this Guffey bill—in Iowa we call it the Goofey bill. It is in conflict with everything organized farmers have stood for."

E. E. Campbell of Granite City, Ill., presided at the luncheon.

WOMAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS DIES.

Mrs. Marie Vierow, 65 years old, who was found unconscious, with both wrists slashed, in the gas filled kitchen of her rooming house at 817 Beloit avenue, Forest Park, Tuesday, died yesterday in the Oak Park hospital.

$255,000 ELECTRIC RATE CUT IN 49 ILLINOIS TOWNS

Reductions in electric rates totaling $255,000 annually to customers of the Central Illinois Light company were ordered yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission following informal conferences of the commission's attorneys with attorneys for the company.

The company serves electric power to De Kalb, Sycamore and six other towns in that area; to Peoria, Peoria Heights, East Peoria, Pekin, Bartonville and 35 smaller nearby towns, and to Springfield, a total of 49 communities.

The greatest saving will be to consumers with a commercial rating, this amounting to $95,000 annually. The savings for other groups are: Residential, $59,300; power, $62,300; combination light and power, $30,100, and miscellaneous, $7,700. The company also will assume the 3 per cent sales tax.

Two Woodworking Plants in Iowa Closed by Strike

Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Two woodworking plants operated by the Farley & Loetscher Manufacturing company and the Carr, Ryder & Adams company, whose union employés went on a strike Monday, closed today. The plants normally employ 1,100. The strikers seek increased pay, a closed shop, and elimination of piece work and bonus systems.

MINNEAPOLIS — CHICAGO—STATE AT JACKSON — ST. PAUL

ANTI-NAZIS TO 'BLOCKADE' ALL GERMAN VESSELS

Demand Release of Yank Jailed in Hamburg.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.] — Renewed threats of action against German vessels entering New York and other ports through a "human blockade" were made today by a New York delegation representing seamen and an anti-Nazi organization.

The delegation left the state department dissatisfied after having urged unsuccessfully aggressive government action to obtain the release of Lawrence B. Simpson, an American seaman, who is under arrest in Germany. Retaliatory steps would be taken also, it was declared, if Germany did not cease her religious and racial persecutions.

The Simpson case was one of the causes of the Bremen riot. New York anti-Nazis have arranged to picket the United States lines' offices in New York, beginning tomorrow, and to hold a massmeeting in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Possessed Red Literature.

Simpson was taken from the steamer Manhattan when in the River Elbe off Hamburg on June 28. According to state department reports, he was found in possession of seditious literature and is accused of being involved with 70 others in communistic activities.

As a spokesman for the group today Miss June Croll of the Anti-Nazi Federation of New York, said:

"Unless Simpson is freed we will leave no stone unturned to prevent German steamships from entering American ports."

The delegation in addition to Miss Croll included Miss Hanna Damon, acting secretary of the International Labor Defense union, and the following five seamen: Patrick Whalen, Paul Calhoun, Thomas Curry, and Kenneth McClay, all of New York, and George Karl of Baltimore, who claimed to represent the International Seamen's union and the Marine Engineers' Benefit association.

In Good Health.

The delegation stated their cause for over an hour to James Clement Dunn, chief of the western European division of the state department, who told them that our consulate general at Hamburg has kept in close touch with Simpson and reports that he is in good physical condition and that there is no basis for rumors that he was shanghaied and beaten by police.

The delegation demanded Simpson be permitted to have the services of an attorney of the International Labor Defense union, as well as to receive for consultations a committee of their representatives.

The delegation said they had eyewitness accounts of Simpson being beaten by secret police and being dragged off the Manhattan three miles from Hamburg and thrown in a "Nazi dungeon." They charged that the seditious literature found on Simpson had been planted.

Held on "Red" Charge.

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Lawrence B. Simpson, an American seaman, is being held at a concentration camp near here awaiting trial on a charge of possessing communistic literature.

He was arrested six weeks ago in Hamburg harbor after police, searching for opium smugglers, claimed they discovered a quantity of Red literature in his cabin, aboard either the S. S. Manhattan. Simpson is said to have told police he did not know what the packages contained.

German officials said they had not heard about a protest lodged in Washington by a New York anti-Nazi federation. American officials expressed the opinion that Simpson's arrest was fully legal and that he would be brought to trial in due course.

The American consul denied the truth of circulars recently distributed on United States Lines' boats asserting that Simpson had been shanghaied in the harbor and beaten by police.

German officials assured the consul Simpson would have a free trial. Nazi law forbids all communistic propaganda. An American commercial ship in Hamburg harbor is subject to German law. Simpson speaks fluent German.

REACHES SEATTLE WITH CHILDREN SEEING WORLD

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 7.—(AP)—George Buchanan, elderly Detroit coal dealer, headed a party of thirty-eight boys and girls toward Mount Ranier today. He explained it is his hobby to help children to see the world.

They had arrived from Vancouver, B. C., where the steamship Princess Louise landed them Monday after a visit to Alaska. En route across the continent they visited Banff and the Canadian Rockies.

Buchanan explained that any boy or girl who will earn a third of the cost of their trip and can sell their parents the idea of paying another third, can get a third of the trip cost advanced by him, to be repaid at some later time.

There's a girls' division, chaperoned by Mrs. Helen Kuhn, six of whose eleven children have made the trip.

Germans Raise Angry Chorus at Soaring Prices for Food

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—The public chorus of recriminations against soaring prices for all foodstuffs, in some cases tripled because of the shortage of potatoes, eggs, and fruit, has grown so bitter and insistent that Nazi authorities have dropped their Pollyanna attitude. Now they openly discuss the difficulties, promising relief to the angered masses.

The official Nazi newspaper, Essener National Zeitung, tried to soothe the public by saying that the "remnants of the capitalistic spirit" are to be blamed for the rise in prices. It holds that the farmers and middlemen are responsible for the "continuous rise which the capitalistic circles always manage to put over."

Up 30 Per Cent in Year.

The German hausfrau going to market today must spend 20 to 30 per cent more than she did a year ago. Wages remained stationary. Even if she has the purchase money she cannot always get the eggs and milk she wants. The national egg commissioner already has drawn on the reserves in cold storage, which ordinarily are untouched until fall. The cheapest and smallest eggs were 5 cents each today, while the kind you like for breakfast are 6 or 7 cents each.

Hogs are so scarce that butchers almost come to blows over them in the central market halls. The official price for plain ground beef is 40 cents per pound. Good cuts of meat naturally are more expensive. Butchers complain that farmers and wholesalers are raising the price of live stock. When butchers try to charge more than the official price they are arrested. The butchers claim they are losing money.

Potatoes Mainstay of Diet.

Fruit dealers blame the smallness of the crops due to cold weather for their high prices, while others assert that canning factories are buying everything to prepare for a difficult winter. Potatoes, the mainstay of the German diet, were advertised and sold a year ago for 2 cents per pound. "They should retail for 3½ cents per pound," an official statement of the ministry of agriculture declared this year, admitting that authorities are aware that higher prices are being charged.

Dealers were warned that measures will be taken to enforce a reduction in prices. Similar threats were made before and therefore the hausfrau and the stores and markets echo to the furious muttering of the law-fearing but angry mobs.

and the like. The paper expresses the hope that a yet higher authority "will soon order such phraseology to be confined within the walls of ancestral castles."

Steuben society chairmen, who have been touring Germany in recent weeks led by Theodore Hoffmann of New York, were received by Adolf Hitler in his mountain retreat at Obersalzberg today.

Preach to Foreign Youths.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—Some 1,500 youths of German descent gathered from fifty countries, including the United States, to spend the summer in Germany as guests of the Hitler youth organization, were sent forth from Nuremberg today to act as missionaries of National Socialist anti-Semitism in their respective native lands.

Getting together these youths for what is called "Hitler youth world meet" was one of the biggest propagandistic efforts of the National Socialist régime this year. Many visitors were brought to Germany at National Socialist expense. They spent most of their time in a "German camp," where they were addressed by most of the prominent National Socialist leaders and made familiar with National Socialist ideology.

Now they are engaged in a tour of Germany and today participated in a solemn memorial ceremony before the war dead monument in Nuremberg. This ceremony was attended by all local government and party heads and was addressed by Julius Streicher, most extreme Nazi Jew-baiter.

Prisoner Jumps to Death.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—(AP)—An official announcement today said more measures would be adopted to halt the stream of Jews pouring into Berlin from the provinces for safety.

In small towns the drive against the Jews continued unabated. At Gladbach Karl Frenkel, a Jewish cattle dealer who was taken into "protective custody" on a charge of racial turpitude, died from injuries suffered when he apparently jumped from the third floor of the jail.

Anti-Semitic feeling flared in Danzig last night at the annual People's fair on the banks of the Vistula. Rowdies demolished stands belonging to Jews and several Jews, among them a woman, were beaten.

Hans Hinkel, dictator of non-Aryan art, announced that American and other foreign motion pictures written, acted, and produced by Jews would still be accepted by Nazis.

"When there are Jew producers, actors, authors, et cetera, this must be openly and honorably stated. That is not our problem and we do not want to look into the Aryanism of those who make foreign films," he said.

Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, said in a front page story today that all Free Mason lodges in Germany will come to an end Aug. 10 with the dissolution of the state lodge of Saxony, the Dresden great lodge, and the "German brethren chain" of Leipzig.

BRITISH OFFICER FINDS LEGENDARY PASS IN KASHMIR MOUNTAINS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

DELHI, India, Aug. 7.—The legendary mountain pass over the lower and southern Baltoro range in Kashmir is believed to have been rediscovered by Lieut. James Waller of the royal artillery, leader of a recent expedition to the Karakoram mountains.

Lieut. Waller says he made the discovery while accompanied by only one coolie and a dog. He did not cross the pass, he said, as he had run short of money, but from the top he saw "dead easy, slow slopes" without crevasses leading to the glacier and a low, winding valley.

The pass appears to have been much used in days of Hun sea raiders as a direct route from the Yarkand valley to the fertile Khapulu valley. When advancing ice made the passage to Mustagh pass too difficult, this smaller pass must have fallen into disuse.

CHILDREN RAISE $30 AT A BAZAR TO AID ICE FUND

Another Group Nets $6.06 from Circus.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Notices regarding two highly successful benefits came in yesterday. One, a combination lemonade, candy, ice cream, flower, and novelty bazar, brought $30 to the fund. The other, a circus, netted $6.06.

The bazar was sponsored in the name of Audrey Jane Axelrod, 6810 East End avenue, 6 years old, who is on vacation with her parents at Pine Point on Elkhart lake, Wis.

Other Youngsters Help Out.

The twelve other young vacationers assisting her in the venture were Stella Claire and John D. Jackson Jr., 6837 Clyde avenue; Shirley and Harold Goldstein, 4631 Ellis avenue; Patricia and Barbara Sider, 6752 Oglesby avenue; Joan Harris, Park Lane hotel; Janet and Barbara Frank of Memphis, Tenn.; Jeanne Marcus and Jacqueline Lipmann, both of St. Louis, and Charlene Natovich, 503 Aldine avenue.

The circus was sponsored by 14 year old Sarah Jane Murfey, 645 South St. Johns avenue, Highland Park, who has managed a neighborhood circus each summer for several years to raise money, either for neighborhood charities or for the free ice fund.

Animals Give Performances.

Held Saturday afternoon in a neighborhood backyard, the circus had a ring; but no tent; human performers, trained animals and side shows of all descriptions.

PARIS WARNED WHAT TO DO IN CASE OF AIR RAID

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Parisians today were instructed in methods of avoiding death from the skies.

The police posted notices in all buildings directing tenants as to what they should do in case of a bombardment by enemy airplanes. They were told to keep gas masks handy at all times and to keep a layer of sand covering their attic floors as protection against incendiary bombs.

The instructions told the citizens that, in case of alarm, they were to put on their gas masks, shut off their lights and gas, and "walk, not run" to the nearest shelter.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Fox Not So Foxy.

Aug. 7, 1935.

LOUIS THUROW had his second experience with red foxes this year when he almost ran over one of them with his automobile the other night. Early this spring Louis and Clarence Thurow and the other boys on the Yorkville farm captured a whole family of young foxes. Two of the whelps were given to the Brookfield zoo, and the others have been taken care of by Louis and his son, Louis Jr.

Louis' most recent fox experience occurred when he was driving down the road about 10 o'clock the other night. He saw a small animal running ahead of his car. Louis thought at first that it was a 'possum, so he stepped on the gas. When he got closer he saw that it was a young red fox.

The animal apparently was not familiar with automobile lights. When the glare of the lights from the car approached the confused fox, it darted from one side of the road to the other, evidently trying to escape. It ran ahead of the car for quite a distance before it darted off to one side of the road and disappeared into a field.

While mowing the timothy hay the other day Art Wade scared up a hen pheasant which had made its nest in the high growth. Upon investigation Art found that there were eight young ringnecks in the nest. He carefully ran his mower around the nest.

The vegetable gardens on the farms are big producers these days. Although it has been a constant battle against weeds to get the vegetables to this stage, the sweet corn, carrots, tomatoes, and other things in the garden are now on the dividend side of the ledger. All the families on the Yorkville farm have garden plots of various sizes in which just about everything from melons and pumpkins to potatoes and onions are raised. Some of the vegetables that are not eaten fresh from the garden are put up by the women for winter use.

With both Louis and Clarence Thurow now away from the farm on business for a few days, there is a temporary shortage of help. For that reason the guide, Charles Doetschmann, is getting a few calli ["calluses"] on his hands from handling a hay fork. Charley ordinarily does the odd jobs around the place so that he can be ready when any visitors come, so the "fork job" is something new to him.

Just as all weeds have had a great year on the farm with the excessive rainfall this spring and summer so the lacy wild carrot or "Queen Anne's lace" has run riot in one field that I went through the other day on the Wheaton experimental farm. I stood on top of a little rise not far from one of the ponds and looked out across the meadow that was simply filled with flowers of the hardy wild carrot. And scattered among the tall blossoms of the wild carrot were many oxeye daisies with their bright yellow centers.

The carrot, Queen Anne's-lace, devil's plague, or birds'-nest is another one of those immigrant weeds from Europe that has established itself in this country much to the disgust of the farmer. I have noticed that the experimental farm has no corner on this plant. It is everywhere in Chicagoland. The fact that it is the ancestor of the domesticated carrot is about the only good thing that one can say in behalf of this attractive but annoying flowering weed.

JAPAN TO CREATE BIG COTTON BASE IN NORTH CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 7.—Japan's plan to create a vast cotton production and manufacturing base in north China was officially announced today by Tatsuichiro Funatsu, managing director of the Japanese Cotton Spinners' federation in China.

Funatsu, former consul general at Shanghai, and popularly known as the "dictator" of the Japanese cotton interests, declared that Japan's new political and economic pact with north China created conditions making possible the inauguration of a ten year program for cultivation of raw cotton and manufacturing.

He asserted that north China provided a plentiful supply of disciplined labor with a lower wage level than elsewhere, particularly Shanghai and Tsingtao, where Japan already has nearly 3 million spindles in operation.

Simultaneously with Funatsu's announcement, the recently formed cotton control committee of north China announced measures for controling production, transportation and marketing. The object of these measures is to improve the quality of the product, making it suitable for consumption in Japanese mills, which heretofore have been largely dependent on supplies from the United States.

MUSSOLINI WAR POLICY CHEERED BY ITALIAN PUBLIC

Order for 75,000 More Men Is Acclaimed.

ROME, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Italian public acclaimed Benito Mussolini and his militant East African program today as the press derided the league of nations and Great Britain.

Hard upon the heels of yesterday's communique calling 75,000 more men to the colors, the war department ordered more potential officers here and abroad to begin training. These included all prospective officers of the classes from 1909 to 1914 who have not completed their officers' training.

The popular excitement was reflected in turbulent demonstrations at San Remo and Asti, headquarters for the two newly constituted divisions of regulars, and Milan and surrounding communities, from which the recruits will be drawn.

Sing Fascist Hymns.

The populace swarmed into the streets singing Fascist hymns, cheering and waving banners and placards acclaiming Il Duce.

The press alternated in heaping praise on the "unwavering determination" of Italy and flinging derisive phrases at Britain and the league.

Il Popolo di Roma said that a calm survey undoubtedly would disclose that British policy in the last few weeks had "great weight on the scales of events—but not precisely to make them overflow on the side of peace."

The order recalling potential officers was considered another step in the general program to provide Italy with the million men Il Duce decided are necessary to meet any contingency.

240,000 Italians to East Africa.

PORT SAID, Egypt, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Transport after transport laden with Italian troops and war supplies is passing through the Suez canal en route to East Africa, official figures disclosed today.

Within the last six months some 240,000 soldiers and laborers have made the transit. Italy has paid the Suez administration $10,000,000 in canal tolls on war transports in the last three months, it was estimated.

But some of the men are returning. In the last three weeks six steamers carrying more than 5,000 Italian soldiers suffering from malaria, dysentery, and typhoid have passed through returning to Italy.

Business circles here said American, British, and other foreign oil and timber companies are refusing to sell goods to Italy unless they are paid in cash.

British Protest Press Attacks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The British foreign office, it was learned tonight, recently made representations to the Italian ambassador to London, Dino Grandi, in connection with violent anti-British attacks in the government controled Italian press.

It is understood that the ambassador was reminded that the British press displayed marked restraint in commenting on Italian policy and that artificial newspaper attacks calculated to cause irritation in this country are a mistake in view of the fact that the two countries may have to cooperate in the future on matters possibly of even graver import than the present dispute.

Powers to Meet Aug. 16.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The conference between France, Italy, and Great Britain for discussion of an Italo-Ethiopian settlement was tentatively set today for Aug. 16 in Paris. The date was proposed in talks between Premier Laval and the British and Italian ambassadors.

SHIPPING STRIKE IS THREATENED ON GREAT LAKES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 7.—Unless their demands for wage increases and better working conditions are met more than 2,000 men engaged on freighters plying the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river will go on strike Friday noon.

This warning was issued today by H. N. McMaster, president of the National Seamen's association, and of the National Association of Marine engineers.

If a strike is called it will occur when the year's heaviest movement of wheat is taking place from the head of the lakes to the eastern ports. The grain is being carried east to make way for the new crop.

THREATS OF WAR SPUR ETHIOPIAN FLAG MAKING

New York, Aug. 7.—The manufacture of Ethiopian flags, a line of business long inactive in New York, has taken an upturn as a result of the Italian-Ethiopian dispute. A fair increase in sales is reported, most of the sales being small flags to be worn in the lapel.

The Ethiopian flag has three horizontal stripes, the top being green, the center yellow, and the bottom red.

Ethiopians say the green represents the fertility of their land, the yellow their loyalty for their emperor, and the red the blood they are willing to shed in war.

GRANTED DIVORCE

MRS. MORRIS M. TOWNLEY.

Mrs. Muriel Mertens Townley was granted a divorce on Tuesday at Tucson, Ariz., from Morris Townley, Chicago lawyer, it became known yesterday.

Mrs. Townley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril P. Mertens of Highland Park, charged cruelty. Her complaint recited that years of neglect and public humiliation caused her to suffer a nervous breakdown and move to Tucson in January, 1933, for her health. Mr. Townley was represented at the divorce proceedings by counsel who denied all the allegations.

Mr. Townley's first wife, the former Ephra Vogelsang, divorced him in Paris in May, 1923, and took up an operatic career. In December of that year Mr. Townley and Miss Mertens were married. Townley won a $2,500 judgment against Mrs. Mary C. Llewellyn, north shore society woman, in 1928 because a thoroughbred horse she sold him threw the attorney.

SIAM SMASHES ARMY PLOT TO TAKE OVER RULE

BANGKOK, Siam, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Soldiers patroled the streets of Siam's capital tonight after a widespread plot to overthrow the government technically headed by little 11 year old King Ananda was smashed. This subversive movement, the third in less than two years, began among noncommissioned officers of the regular army.

Officials said the plotters planned to seize and kill their superior officers and, once in control of the nation's armed forces, to take over the government. Prompt and vigorous action by loyalists apparently ended the movement before it got well started.

Siam is ruled by a regency council while King Ananda is continuing his studies in Lausanne, Switzerland. The council is composed of Prince Anuvatana, elderly member of royalty; Prince Abitaya, once private secretary to Prajadhipok, and Chao Phya Yomarj, 75, commoner who was in the cabinet during the absolute monarchy of former King Prajadhipok, who is now in retirement in England.

'MOW 'EM DOWN!' ETHIOPIAN ARMY YELLS IN REVIEW

War Fever Grows; Tribes Hard to Restrain.

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 7.—(AP)—A growing war fever in Ethiopia is giving chiefs a difficult time in restraining hot blooded warriors, eager to start for the frontier of Italian colonies, reports today from outlying districts disclosed.

A striking demonstration of the tribesmen's loyalty and determination to defend Ethiopia's borders was given on the plains of northern Wollo province, near Gondar. There 100,000 warriors passed in review before the 19 year old crown prince, Asfa Wusen. "Ebalgume! Ebalgume!" [mow them down] repeatedly shouted the fierce black fighters. They faced Adowa, 100 miles to the north, where Ethiopia administered a crushing defeat to Italy some 40 years ago. This was their forefathers' war cry at Adowa.

Restraint Is Difficult.

Chiefs are hard put to it to restrain the men, in keeping with Emperor Haile Selassie's policy of not provoking trouble, so intense is the battle spirit.

An unconfirmed report said Ras Mulughetta, minister of war, flew to Dessie, capital of Wollo province, to witness the review and confer with the crown prince on strategy in the event of an Italian attack.

The crown prince, it was said, can muster a force of some 120,000 men, 60,000 of them cavalrymen. It was expected they would bear the brunt of the first onslaught in case of hostilities, presumably at Adowa.

Deny Reports of Rebellion.

Reports that Asfa Wusen had rebelled against his father were officially denied. It was said they apparently were based on erroneous information or a misinterpretation of the fanatic enthusiasm of his troops in review. The 19 year old heir to the throne, it was said, has never shown the slightest disloyalty to his father.

Also denied was a rumor that a Japanese military mission had started from Kobe for Ethiopia.

American and other foreign residents of the capital hailed with relief reports that 3,000 gas masks have already arrived and 25,000 others are en route.

Defenseless Against Bombs.

The city is defenseless against bombs, but because of its 7,000 foot altitude and the distance from Italian bases it was considered doubtful Italian planes would be able to reach the capital with heavy destructive bombs but would have to confine aerial attacks to small gas bombs.

There is some talk of abandoning the city in fear of destruction from the air. At any rate it is unlikely that troops will be concentrated here heavily or at any other spot, but instead will move in small bands and scatter widely when planes appear.

Hubert Julian, colored flyer from Harlem, who came here to enlist in the army when trouble developed, has been appointed to command a division and is training the tribesmen daily.

THIRD CLIPPER FLIGHT SLATED FOR TOMORROW

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The third trans-Pacific flight of the Pan-American clipper probably will start Friday afternoon and will have Wake Island as its objective, officers of the Pan-American Airways announced today.

Wake, some 3,000 miles west of Honolulu, now has a regular Pan-American ground crew.

On her first trip the clipper went to Honolulu and return, and on the second to Midway via Honolulu and return.

Principal operations objectives, today's announcement said, will be perfection of radio communications and further observation of meteorological data on the trans-Pacific route, which eventually is to carry through to Manila and the China coast.

U. S. OPENS BIDS ON 13 WARSHIPS FOR 80 MILLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Observing less ceremony than the Chicago park board would in purchasing row boats for the city's lagoons, the navy department today opened bids for thirteen ships of war which will cost about 80 million dollars.

Surrounded by high navy officials Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson heard a clerk drone out the bids. Representatives of competing ship building companies scribbled notes. The bids were then turned over to experts for examination and recommendation on contract awards by the secretary.

Although today's bids were the first competitive bids received since the birth and death of the NRA, the opening ceremony attracted little attention. Under the NRA bids of the various companies were identical to a penny, so that the navy was forced to resort to award contracts by drawing names of companies from a cigar box.

New Deal Concerns Lucky.

In the drawings companies with New Deal connections were lucky. Contracts totaling 66 million dollars went to the New York Shipbuilding corporation, the Bath Iron Works, and United Dry Docks, Inc., whose intimate relations with the New Deal were disclosed before a senate investigating committee.

The luck of the Bath Iron works held today. It was low on contracts for five destroyers, totaling about $25,000,000. That company was linked indirectly to James Roosevelt, son of the President, and A. P. Homer, who was charged before the committee with "fixing" 1933 ship contracts and soliciting campaign funds for Roosevelt in 1932 from shipbuilders. Neither the New York corporation nor the United Dry Docks submitted bids.

Homer told the committee he had been offered fees for arranging navy contracts, but denied accepting the fees, although he admitted he had arranged contracts for the company. James Roosevelt was said to have written a letter to Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to the President, that if the Bath company got some contracts the Democratic party would be helped in Maine.

Bid on Plane Carrier.

Bids were opened on one aircraft carrier, one light cruiser, five destroyers of 1,500 tons, three destroyers of 1,850 tons, and three submarines. A number of bids were submitted by each company on various labor and material schedules. The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company was low bidder on most rigid specifications at $24,434,000 on the aircraft carrier and also on the light cruiser at $15,525,000. The Bath company was low in bidding on three of the five 1,500 ton destroyers at $4,360,000 each. It was also low in bidding on the three 1,850 ton destroyers at $4,975,000 each. The Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation was low on two of the five 1,500 ton destroyers at $4,930,000 each. The Electric Boat company was the only bidder on the three submarines at $2,270,000 each.

The New York Shipbuilding company, affected by a strike, has been urged to submit to arbitration by a board selected by President Roosevelt, under probable penalty of losing present naval contracts if it refuses.

PROBE $100,000 BLAZE ABOARD NAVAL CRUISER

Quincy, Mass., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Official investigation was begun today into the cause of the mysterious fire which early this morning swept through the engine and generator rooms of the recently launched cruiser U. S. S. Quincy as she lay in dock at the Fore River shipyards. Naval officials estimated the damage would amount to $100,000.

The Quincy, newest of Uncle Sam's fighting ships, was being prepared for a trial run when blaze broke out early today. The flames were confined largely, to the expensive master switchboard in the engine room and to the main cables and other wiring which lead from it.

In seeking a cause of the blaze, yard officials pointed out there has been some unrest here recently among workers of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, the cruiser's builder, although they have declined to join the strike now in progress at the company's Camden, N. J., plant.

BEAT ROOSEVELT CONGRESSMEN, COUGHLIN URGES

Confers Here on Fight for Soldiers' Field.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Voters dissatisfied with the situation in Washington, according to the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the radio priest, should concentrate their efforts on the senatorial and congressional contests rather than the presidential election next year.

"I'm afraid President Roosevelt will be reelected," he said, adding quickly "not that it will be with my help. But you can't fight five billion dollars. You can't argue with 26 million people on the pay roll. What have the Republicans got? What candidate have they?"

Father Coughlin declared his personal opinion of President Roosevelt was not for publication. He asserted that the President was "absolutely dodging" his demand for a central bank to control money.

Consults on Soldiers' Field.

The Detroit clergyman came to Chicago yesterday to consult with his counsel, Samuel A. Ettelson, on his court battle to win the use of Soldiers' field for a massmeeting. He started back to Detroit in the afternoon, planning, he said, to go fishing this morning. He intends not to become politically active again until his radio speeches are resumed late in October.

There was no sign of heat in Father Coughlin's discussion of his fight for Soldiers' field. He said that radio audiences are reached much more effectively than visual audiences, explaining that he decided on a Chicago meeting as one of a series with which he intended to answer critics' charges that his National Union for Social Justice is not a real organization.

He asserted that the union has a membership in Chicago of 379,000 persons who have signed its declaration of principles, and predicted a membership of 600,000 here by October.

Denies Other Engagement.

As for his speaking in Chicago at the Labor day celebration of the Chicago Federation of Labor, Father Coughlin said he has a rule of nine years' standing not to speak under the auspices of any society other than his own organization.

The priest said that before considering any Chicago speaking engagement he would await the outcome of the appeal taken by the Chicago park district from the mandamus issued by Superior Judge James J. Kelly ordering that Father Coughlin be permitted to use Soldiers' field. The Detroiter wishes that issue settled with finality.

It is probable that there will not be a final decision by the Illinois Supreme court before next December. If the court should take up the case in the October term, the next one, and decide it toward the close of that month, it is probable the park board would ask for a rehearing at the December term.

NO "B.O." NOW to spoil his wooing!
SAY, I THOUGHT PEGGY DIDN'T BELIEVE IN KISSING!
OH, SHE'S REFORMED... I MEAN I'VE REFORMED... WELL, ANYWAY, EVERYTHING'S GRAND

It's no secret to millions how Lifebuoy aids the complexion. And there are two reasons why. Lifebuoy's rich lather cleanses deeply. It washes away pore-clogging impurities, freshens dull skins to radiant health. Yet Lifebuoy is so gentle the most delicate complexion thrives on it. Tests on the skins of hundreds of women show it is actually more than 20 per cent milder than many so-called "beauty soaps".

Old man humidity

He makes you perspire—but why offend? Bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. It deodorizes pores, stops "B.O." (body odor). Its own clean scent rinses away.

RHODE ISLAND GOES AMERICAN.

Tuesday's election in the First Rhode Island congressional district may prove to be the turn in the road. A New Dealer was decisively beaten by a Republican who was against the Roosevelt socialism. The question was not compromised. Prince, the Democrat, went the full route in championship. Risk, the Republican, put everything on his opposition to the Rooseveltians.

The contested seat was that of Francis B. Condon, who resigned. He was elected in 1932 and reëlected in 1934. His plurality of 14,000 in his first election grew to 21,000 in his second. Those were the two years of New Deal promises. It was being judged by them. Risk's plurality is 13,000, a turnover of 34,000 votes in less than a year, during which the New Deal has been judged by performances.

It may be that in these three elections from 1932 to 1935 is to be seen the ascending and descending curve of the Roosevelt revolution from constitutional government to collectivism under dictatorship, the approach to Hitler, and the quick retreat when the real objective appeared. At first Mr. Roosevelt was not seen as Hitler. He was an executive trying out emergency measures to tide the country over a crisis, and people, slow to believe that their government would make a serious attack upon its own limitations and disregard them to fortify itself in unlawful authority, gave their consent. Not all of them did, but the opposition seemed to be crying in a wilderness.

The sharp political shocks which began early this year forced a different and a true construction of the administrative purposes. Mr. Roosevelt was checked by the Supreme court, which pointed out the illegal character of the governmental acts constituting the charter of the New Deal. His response was revealing. The form of government was to be changed permanently. There was a crisis, not, however, economic. It was political. It did not pertain to a few years of financial unhappiness. It involved a future of political unhappiness.

The constitution and the Supreme court came under attack and were then known to be in danger. Before Hitler could rule in Germany the German constitution had to be destroyed. Before a dictator can rule here the American constitution must be destroyed. The New Deal turned to this work and people had to see the intent, however unwilling they might be to believe it.

Tolerance has turned to distrust. Consent is being withdrawn. It could not be the will of Americans that they should put aside the protections which have stood between them and the convulsions and catastrophes of Europe. The Rhode Island congressional election, with its sudden reversal of political decision, will be taken as evidence that the people have not lost their heads and are not willing to intrust their liberty to a single man in office, rather than to a body of laws in effect.

New England might be expected to lead the way in the return to independence. Virginia has been holding the post of honor within the Democratic party against autocracy. The New Deal, it is to be considered, has done more than disclose itself as politically subversive and dangerous. Its socialistic policies have worked hardships in industries such as New England's. The mills are suffering and the workers with them. Mr. Wallace and Mr. Tugwell have brought the punishment home to industrial centers and to cities. Their injurious prices have caused new hardships. Resentment is growing in self-supporting homes and it is voting.

The New Deal is an economic fraud and a political plague. One congressional district has voted no Hitler, no dictatorship, no collectivism, no departure from the American form of government. It has gone American.

THE NEW FAIR COMMISSION.

The mayor's selection of the ten commissioners of the Chicago Exposition authority made a favorable impression; and, now that the members of the board have formally taken office and set to work, the favorable impression has been heightened. There was a complete absence of grandstanding at the organization meeting and ample evidence that the commissioners are taking their responsibilities and their trust seriously.

Chicago was the first great industrial and commercial city to draw up a city plan. The lake front parks, the most dramatic feature of the plan, were and are unique. Chicago is pioneering again with its project for a permanent exposition as a part of the lake front playground.

Naturally there has been some opposition. There always is. Numerous objections were raised to the city plan, the lake front parks, and A Century of Progress by unimaginative and stodgy individuals. Their spiritual successors have been saying that the exposition will be an eyesore and a glorified honky-tonk. The forecast is to be explained by the fact that the objectors are lacking in imagination. When they hear the word "exposition" they think of a cheap amusement park and there they stop.

The personnel of the exposition authority and the earnestness which the members displayed at their first meeting offer a far sounder basis for judgment. These men and women are not of a sort to authorize the disfigurement of the lake front. They are going to try to give Chicago a permanent summer-time attraction which will add to the enjoyment of the people who live in the city and also attract visitors. The task is not an easy one, but only a chronic defeatist will say it can't be accomplished.

GOING TO WAR BROKE.

Italians seeking credit in London were disappointed there, got nothing and moved on to France several days ago looking for a softer spot. Italian seven per cent bonds sell under seventy and the price drops. Some time ago Mussolini took up the Italian holdings of foreign securities. Later he removed the gold reserve ratio minimum, which allows the inference that his purchases of war goods, raw materials, and foodstuffs have already exhausted, or nearly so, the exchange made available by taking over the securities. To buy he must move gold.

David Darrah, THE TRIBUNE Rome correspondent, was summarily fired from the country, as disagreeably and unpleasantly as it could be done, because his dispatches disclosed the truth of Fascism's crumbling financial structure. Since then Italian foreign correspondence has been mum on that subject, but the facts can't be suppressed. Mussolini's dream of glory is virtually bankrupt and no means of recovery are in sight.

With peace and freedom a nonimperialistic and nonmilitary Italy might make the most out of the national resources and find it enough. Tourists attracted to the country and Italians peaceably going abroad to seek their fortunes were the chief items in the balancing of accounts. World conditions have been unfavorable to both tourist revenue and emigrant remittances.

The British might finance an imperialistic adventurer if a share would fall in their lap, but although their interest in the future of Ethiopia is apparent their side in it isn't as yet. In the last forty years they have changed their minds a half dozen times, from agreeing that Italians should have the country to asking them to stay out. The conclusive decision may be almost anything but it will be made with reference to source waters of the Nile and the growing of cotton.

Broke or not Mussolini can go to war. He can get one started even if he can't pay for it. He cannot pay for it out of the Italian pocket and he hasn't found a banker. It's agreed that granting him a speedy conquest, at which idea the Ethiopian terrain itself laughs, he couldn't get anything back in twenty years and not a great deal then.

His Roman dream lacks a solid bed. Old Rome amassed riches by finding ualual incidents close to collected stores of wealth. It was in the bag before the legions arrived with the treasury transport system to haul it away.

DELIVER ALL PACKAGES IN THE REAR.

The freight truck is an established institution. Progressive industries continue to make increasing use of this flexible modern facility. With this prospect in mind it becomes more evident that certain truck routes must be designated if "pleasure" driving on our highways is to continue. It is certain that increased commercial use will deteriorate property values along heavily traveled arteries and for this reason those engaged in highway transportation cannot expect to utilize any and every improved roadway at will. That would necessitate the construction of every project to carry maximum loads and convert avenues into the swaths of warehouse, business, and like unattractive properties that we usually associate with a railroad's entry into a community.

The lake shore between Chicago and Waukegan has certain unique residential advantages. Farther back from the lake the nature of the country changes, as does the character of the highways. Sheridan road is essentially a thoroughfare for pleasure vehicles, while Skokie boulevard will never be lined with substantial detached residences. We thoroughly sympathize with the north shore suburbs in their efforts to maintain Sheridan road in its present form and have the Illinois commerce commission designate Route 41 as the proper motor highway through this section.

The owners of the motor vehicles contend that the lake shore roadway would be used principally for local deliveries along the route. All of these towns are accessible from the west, and the same principle so familiar on city boulevards—"Deliver all freight in the rear"—can be adopted on a large scale in these areas.

Editorial of the Day

ALUMINUM AND SILVER.

[Illinois State Journal.]

The federal government will probably coin one mill pieces, according to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, but they will not very likely be made of aluminum [as Illinois' tax tokens are], for aluminum in this country is controled by the "Andrew Mellon interests," and as Mr. Morgenthau puts it, "I can't imagine this administration manufacturing its currency out of aluminum."

The administration is, however, vitally interested in raising the price of silver by government buying, under a law sponsored and written by Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, and this policy is dictated by a wish to draw support from the silver states in the west.

Two weeks ago an eastern syndicate was reliably reported to be investing $5,000,000 in modernizing the Comstock mines in Nevada. At that time silver was quoted at 67 cents an ounce, and under the law due to rise to $1.29. It was therefore a good investment. One of the members of the syndicate was John Raskob, a Democrat, who is at odds with the "New Deal," but is still owed $45,000 by the Democratic national committee. Serving as counsel was Senator Pittman, who wrote the silver purchase measure. The senator, however, denied any financial interest in the deal.

The contrast between the administration's attitude toward aluminum and toward silver is startling. The important aspect is that using aluminum for mill coins would probably profit the Mellons only a little. The silver policy, on the other hand, is enriching many speculators while at the same time it has caused a panic in China and temporarily dislocated Mexico's banking system.

AUDACITY.

I wish I were a pagan—
And all I had to do
To get up in the morning and paint myself bright blue.
I'd steal to me some color from out the shining sea,
I don't know how I'd do it, but I'd cover all of me.
I'd lie out on a wave top and whisper to the sky:
"You're really very lovely, but hardly more than II"

I wish I were a pagan—
With nothing else to do
But catch myself some magic,
Some mad exotic hue.
Perhaps some scarlet blushing from off a red oak tree,
I'd rob enough to reach the very tips of me.
I'd have myself so flaming that even God would know
(No one but a pagan would dare to tease him so).
And when the painting job was just exactly done,

BOOKS AND THEIR KEEPERS.

Wake-Line: Bookkeepers (I do not mean those who keep accounts) are a scourge. Not in the borrowing but in the retention thereof lieth the harm. A startling series of data may be seen in the résumé of investigations by a literary society with headquarters in Chicago.

"Seventeen hundred persons were interrogated. Some 1,600 replied. (The questionnaire-form postal card was used.) All marked affirmatively the question, 'Do you find that books you loan are seldom returned?' Over 1,200 answered affirmatively the question, 'Are YOU now in possession of borrowed books?'"

FROM UP IN KENNEALLY LODGE in northern Canada comes this fishing story from Frank E. Compton of Glencoe, with whom we've played enough rounds of golf to have the utmost faith in his veracity. It seems that while fishing alongside a bunch of rushes, just as he was throwing his last empty bottle away, the bottle hit a red winged blackbird and the bird dropped among the rushes into the water. The guide paddled over with intention of rescuing and succoring the wounded blackbird, but just as he reached a muskie came in with a rush and grabbed the bird. The part of the yarn of which we would not be so sure is that the fisherman caught a 24½ pound muskie his first afternoon on the lake while canoeing with his wife, but a kodak view substantiates it.

PUS IN THE URINE.

It often happens that after an acute illness such as measles, influenza, scarlet fever, or septic sore throat a child will not gain. Convalescence seems to be unduly prolonged and the youngster may appear pale and listless. An examination of the urine will often disclose pus and numerous bacteria.

Now and then pus appears in the urine suddenly, with few if any beginning symptoms. The first sign of illness may be a pronounced chill, followed by a high temperature. The condition often continues for a day or two before it occurs to any one that the urine should be examined, at which time it is found loaded with pus and bacteria.

When pus occurs in the urine we know that the infection lies in the bladder, along the tube that leads from the kidney to the bladder [ureter], or within the kidney itself. It is a fairly common condition in children, particularly in girls, and in order that permanent damage shall not result careful management is required.

Infections gain entrance to the urinary tract in several ways. Bacteria may enter this area conveyed by the blood from foci of infection in the throat, sinuses, ears, teeth, or bones [osteomyelitis], or they may travel up the urinary canal [urethra] from outside the body. Whether organisms gain entrance directly to the ureter is questionable, but it is certain that they can enter the bladder. This is indicated by the fact that colon bacilli from the intestine have been found in the urine of a high percentage of pregnant women and female infants. When organisms reach the bladder they may find suitable conditions for growth and proceed to propagate in great numbers. Inflammation results with some absorption.

The characteristic symptoms are loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, and abdominal distention. If the infection persists the patient will complain of frequent urination, burning, and acute pain when the bladder contracts. The temperature is usually fluctuating, depending upon the amount of absorption. Sometimes in children who are undernourished, weak, and anemic, the temperature may not be high, indicating a low state of body resistance.

Unless complications set in the disease runs its course in from one to three weeks, provided the child is well nourished and the urinary tract is kept washed out through copious water drinking. If the condition continues, search should be made for the presence of a stone or some irritated area in the kidney, ureter, or bladder. Should the infection remain in the kidney for a few weeks kidney tissues may be destroyed.

Treatment consists of rest and the free use of water. If vomiting persists water may be given by rectum and under the skin. The chief reliance of physicians is found in some urinary antiseptic that is effective in stopping the growth of the causative organisms. It is well to keep the urine acid, as antiseptic effects are best maintained in an acid state of the urine. For this purpose ammonium chloride may be employed. Irrigation of the bladder is necessary only in stubborn chronic cases, as washing out from above by means of water drinking is, as a rule, sufficient. The suggestion has been made by many authorities that the urine may be rendered acid and hence inhibit the growth of bacteria by giving a diet high in fat.

Pain, smarting, or burning on urination are symptoms of numerous conditions and infection should always be searched for when they appear. Sometimes the cause is found in a highly alkaline urine, which is easily corrected either by diet or through the administration of some acid drug.

The importance of checking the urine carefully in all forms of illness must be emphasized. If this is done kidney damage can be prevented.

IVY POISONING.

C. H. R. writes: Many years ago I discovered that ivy poisoning can be speedily cured by applying lightly over the affected part a wet styptic pencil, such as is used to stop bleeding from a small cut. The white sediment left when dry should not be removed.

REPLY.

SUN GLASSES.

M. W. writes: 1. Do you advise wearing sun glasses when it is necessary to be out in the sun? 2. If so, what color is most restful to the eyes?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. A reddish-brown glass or Crooke's No. 3, which is pale amethyst in shade.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

Infantile paralysis has been epidemic in North Carolina and has spread to a few adjacent counties in Virginia. So far the epidemic has not reached other portions of the country though isolated cases have been reported.

As a means of preventing the onset not only of this disease, but of others, parents are urged to put children to bed promptly on the appearance of any form of illness. If the child does not feel well, bed rest will build resistance and prevent the spread of infection.

We must not mince matters about "polio." It is a serious, sometimes fatal affliction, and its after effects in paralyzed, wasted limbs may serve as a handicap for the remainder of life. Every day we see a few of the 120,000 children who have recovered from the acute infection but who have been left with some permanent paralysis.

The infection is transmitted from patient to patient by means of secretions from the mouth and the nose. The danger lies in the fact that the disease in one person may be extremely mild, while in another unusually severe. If poliomyelitis becomes epidemic in your vicinity the use of vaccines should be considered by the physician. Both types of vaccine are being used—one prepared according to the method of John A. Kolmer and another by Morris Brodie of the New York department of health.

Experiments by Armstrong and Harrison of the U. S. public health service have shown that a small amount of a 4 per cent solution of sodium alum placed in the nostrils of monkeys will have a deterring effect upon infection with the "polio" virus. The conclusion is that alum solution decreased the permeability of the mucous membrane of the nose, thus preventing contact of the virus with the nerve endings.

DIVORCE NECESSARY FIRST.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I left New York in 1925 with my wife to go to Chicago with the understanding that she should follow in a couple of weeks. She never came and I did not hear from her again. I don't know where she is or if she still lives. I wish to remarry. 2. What must I do and which steps must I take and who do I have to go to in order to straighten this out? 3. How much will it cost?

J. F.

1. If you did not supply her with means of transportation and made no subsequent effort for her to rejoin you, we doubt if you could satisfy a court that the facts amount to desertion on her part such as to entitle you to divorce, but if you wish to make the attempt you should employ an attorney.
2. A divorce would be necessary.
3. We are not in a position to say.

EASEMENT.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Between two houses [two story, four family house and one story cottage] is a one piece cement sidewalk five feet wide and one-half length of whole walk. 2. Can cottage party put up a chain fence without the consent of house party who has two and one-half feet of this walk? 3. Should cottage party have a surveyor? 4. Should cottage party allow some of her walk to house when fencing?

E. P.

1. We infer from later portions of your letter that the walk is on the boundary. Hence it seems possible that there may have originally been a valid agreement creating an easement or that an easement may have been created by adverse use.
2. Depends on the actual location of the boundary and on the facts as to the creation of an easement.
3. If there is any question as to the location of the boundary, then clearly a surveyor should be employed. We would advise against interference with the existing walk until the cottage party has gone over all of the facts in a personal interview with an attorney.
4. See preceding answers. A diagram would help to make your facts more clear.

TAXES.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the difference between [1] "estate" and [2] "inheritance" taxes? 3. What are the rates? 4. Is there a "gift tax" in effect at present? 5. If so, how is it applied and what are the rates?

A. M. A.

1. This term is applied to the federal act which depends on the size of the entire estate.
2. This term is applied to the state laws which usually depend on the different shares into which the estate is split up.
3. Depends on the size of gift and the degree of relationship to the deceased.
4. Yes, as to large gifts.
5. If you will state the facts on which your question arises, we will be in a better position to advise you.

Although there is banana oil in bananas, the process of extracting it is so expensive that it is not practical. The banana oil which is sold for various purposes never saw a banana, for most of it is synthetized in the laboratories and is made chiefly from corn, which is fermented to ethyl alcohol and then converted into the products which constitute the oil. Banana oil is a combination of several substances, chief of which are ethyl acetate [C_2H_5O-C_2H_3O] and amyl acetate [CH_3CO_2 - CH_2 - $CHCH_3$ - C_2H_5]. [By Prof. J. T. Wilson, Emporia, Kas.]

RICHARD THE RICH-SOAKER.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 4.—Huey Long and President Roosevelt are not originators of soak the rich and grab inheritances schemes. Shakespeare sets forth the plans of Richard II., as follows, concerning soak the rich schemes:

And liberal largess, are grown somewhat light,
We are inforced to farm our royal realm;
The revenue whereof shall furnish us
For our affairs in hand; if that come short,
Our substitutes at home shall have blank charters;
Whereto, when they shall know what men are rich,
They shall subscribe them for large sums of gold
And send them after to supply our wants;
For we will make for Ireland presently.

Think what you will, we seize into our hands
His plate, his goods, his money and his lands.

Huey and F. D. R., able imitators of Richard II., might do well to remember that Richard lost his kingdom to the son of John of Gaunt, who did not tamely submit to the confiscation of his inheritance by the king.

A. HAMILTON'S BANK.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 5.—In the editorial "Whoopee, Debts and Taxes" you laud Alexander Hamilton as the greatest secretary of the treasury.

How can Hamilton be a great secretary of the treasury? He wrote the act of congress incorporating the first Bank of the United States. This was damnable and more so when we remember that two members of Washington's cabinet wrote opinions holding such a law unconstitutional.

Now, if income taxes and inheritance taxes should take away the major part of the incomes and estates of the rich, may we not hope that these rugged individuals will fight back and by dint of their omnipotent ability increase their incomes and estates so as to have left even more than they had before? That is the spirit we need to get prosperity, not gloom and defeatism.

DISTINCTION.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—I wish the women who employ domestic help would learn the difference between a housekeeper and a maid. It would save the time and temper of all concerned. A housekeeper, dear ladies, runs the household exactly as if it were her own—she plans the menus, does the marketing, cooks the meals, and usually is intrusted with the payment of bills. She decides just how and when the cleaning is to be done; if there is a laundress or a cleaning woman, she supervises such work. This is what is meant by the expression "full charge."

A maid, on the other hand, works under the direction of some one else, either the mistress of the home or a hired housekeeper. Beyond a certain amount of freedom in planning her work, she is not expected to display any particular initiative—indeed, this is sometimes resented by her mistress; her chief value lies in her ability to follow orders.

POLITICAL SCIENCE.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Now, my dear brothers and sisters, you no doubt know by this time that the most spoken of systems of government are four in number, and are known as Fascism, communism, monarchy, and, last but not least, democracy.

Fascism is a system of government in which you think you have something but haven't.

Communism differs somewhat from Fascism. It is a system of government in which you can't even think you have something.

Monarchy is a system of government in which what you have doesn't mean a thing unless you are a member of the No-ah-bility.

Democracy is a system of government in which you grab everything you can get your hands on when the other fellow isn't looking.

In the belief that you all know what Americanism is I did not attempt to interpret it.

PRIVATE AND PUBLIC SCAVENGERS.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—What a contrast between a private enterprise and municipal control is presented by our private scavengers and our city garbage service. A private scavenger gives daily service to all customers and it is just unthinkable that they would miss a day. Our city garbage service misses as much as two weeks. If it was a private enterprise they would be haled to court, for it is a positive menace to the health of this city. I live in the 23d ward and the condition there is positively disgusting.

3 S. SIDE SINGERS CHOSEN IN TRIALS FOR BIG FESTIVAL

Last of Preliminaries to Be Held Tonight.

BY MARCIA WINN.

A Kansas school teacher, a clerk, and a laboratory technician, all unemployed, were adjudged respective winners last night of the tenor, baritone, and contralto divisions in the south side preliminary contests for the annual TRIBUNE Music Festival to be held on Aug. 17.

The contest was held in the Chicago Woman's club theater, 72 East 11th street, before a crowd of several hundred. Sopranos and bass singers will compete tonight at the same place. This will conclude the preliminay contests. Finals for all Chicago and Cook county will be held in the Grand ballroom of the Drake hotel on Thursday night, Aug. 15.

At the finals one man and one woman singer will be chosen to compete against all out of town singers on the morning of Aug. 17, also at the Drake hotel. The winning man and woman singer will be heard at the music festival that night.

Tenor Wins Over 31 Others.

J. Ellis Jackson, 5711 Kimbark avenue, 25 years old, who came to Chicago in June from his home in Ottawa, Kas., won over 31 other tenors with his rendition of Mana Zucca's "I Love Life." A teacher of high school music himself when he has a job, he has been studying here with Miss Winifred C. odman.

Maurice Cooper, 26 years old, 443 East 45th place, won second place with "I Hear You Calling Me." Allen V. Childs, 29, soap salesman, of 6814 Normal avenue, was awarded third place. He sang "Thine Alone" from Victor Herbert's "Eileen."

In the baritone contest, James Winning, 28 years old, 8543 Phillips avenue, who has been out of work for two years, won first place. He sang the prolog to "Pagliacci"—"just because I know it so well, and used to sing it in amateur shows in Philadelphia," he explained. He has been studying under Thomas MacBurney.

Laborer Wins Second Place.

Robert Snead, 23 years old, 6044 Stony Island avenue, a laborer who hitch-hiked here from Virginia six months ago, won second place with Vincent Youmans' "Without a Song." Richard Owen Walsh, 21 years old, 7920 Colfax avenue, won third place. He, too, sang "Without a Song."

Miss Josephine Turner, 1423 East 67th street, 29 years old, was the winner among nine contraltos. She sang the aria from Bemberg's "La Mort de Jeanne d'Arc." She is a student of Alexander Nakutin, and last year won second place in the contralto division for the south side.

Miss Evelynne H. Stevens, 25 years old, 19 West 107th street, won second place with Curran's "Life." Mrs. Hildred McCord, 22 years old, a housewife, won third place with her rendition of "Your Song from Paradise."

FESTIVAL TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT 5 OFFICES OR AVAILABLE BY MAIL

For the convenience of Chicagoland Music Festival patrons who are planning to attend the sixth annual entertainment Saturday night, Aug. 17, in Soldiers' field, three offices in addition to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S public service offices, will have available for sale the 50 cent reserved seats.

On the north side, tickets may be obtained at the Evanston News-Index office, 1316 Sherman avenue; on the west side at the Oak Leaves public service office, 1140 Lake street, Oak Park, and on the south side at the Hyde Park Herald office, 5427 Lake Park avenue.

THE TRIBUNE'S public service bureaus are at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower. Orders will be received by mail as late as next Tuesday morning. For mail ticket orders send check or money order to Festival Ticket Manager, room 530, Tribune Tower. Make check or money order payable to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

As more than 100,000 people are expected to attend the festival concert in Soldiers' field it is suggested that tickets be purchased now. Quite a number of organizations are purchasing blocks of tickets in order that their members may sit together. This will be possible for only a few more days. One of these groups is the Loyal Assembly Order of Rainbow Girls.

BAR BRITISH EARL AS AUTO DRIVER FOR THREE YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—This is a bad time for British ducal families. The duke of Manchester is bankrupt, Lord Edward Montagu, his son, is out of jail on bail on a charge of passing a rubber check, and today the earl of Mornington, heir to the duke of Wellington, was fined $250 and $19.75 costs by the Canterbury court for driving a car while drunk. He also was disqualified from driving for three years.

The earl was returning from a bathing party at a coast resort on July 16 when his car, in which were two other passengers, crashed into a house at Sturry, Kent. The passengers, including a woman, were injured.

A police officer testified that while awaiting an ambulance Mornington walked from one injured person to the other, kissing each in turn. Later, at the hospital, according to testimony, he wandered into a ward, climbed into a bed, and went to sleep.

JOHNSON AHEAD IN MISSISSIPPI GOVERNOR RACE

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Paul B. Johnson, one of two candiates to whom Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana was said to have thrown his support, today jumped into the lead in the Mississippi governor's race.

Johnson topped Hugh White, wealthy lumberman, who had been leading in returns from yesterday's first primary balloting. The vote, with returns from 1,358 of the 1,638 precincts, was: Johnson, 81,435; White, 80,072; Dennis Murphree, 70,898; Lester Franklin, 28,187; Dr. E. A. Copeland, 3,387.

A Louisiana conservation worker today said Long had telephoned him instructions to work for Johnson. The announcement brought on a storm of charges and countercharges, with Lester Franklin, a share the wealth campaigner, asserting Long had praised his platform.

Long himself was quoted as saying he was interested only in seeing that a rich man was not elected governor.

'GOLDEN VOICE' PHONE VOTES TAX SWITCHBOARD

Three Girls Will Win Jobs; 'Polls' Close Tomorrow.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Radio listeners who tuned in on W-G-N last night for the finals of the Golden Voice Want Ad-Visers competition flooded THE TRIBUNE switchboard with calls to register their votes.

For 20 minutes the entire day and night switchboard staf of eleven operators and four additional girls were required to handle the greatest volume of calls in the memory of Miss Anna Garrow, veteran head of the board.

Fifteen girls, previously chosen from 50 entries, who in turn had been picked from 300 original entries, presented their voices over the radio in the evening's contest, presided over by Quin Ryan. From that number six were chosen by judges in an adjoining studio room, who heard the voices without knowing the identities of the girls.

Ballot Deadline 6 P. M. Tomorrow.

These six, whose identities are concealed under the names of Judith, Barbara, Jean, Frances, Dian and Mildred, again were introduced by Mr. Ryan to the radio listeners, who by telephone calls and postal cards mailed to THE TRIBUNE, will help pick the three winners. All ballots must be received before 6 o'clock tomorrow night.

The three winners in the contest conducted by THE TRIBUNE will be given full time positions as members of the telephone ad-taking staf of this newspaper's want ad department. Each of the remaining 12 girls who were in the broadcast finals will receive $25. Fictitious names were given to each entrant so that the balloting might be based entirely on the quality of voice.

Among the persons who telephoned their choice of the most golden voice were 25 patients of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitorium. During a dull hour in a fire station all the firemen on duty found time to listen to the voices, and called to register their choices. As many men called as women, according to Miss Garrow.

"Million Dollar" Interview.

In order to give the radio audience an idea of their voices in ordinary conversation, Mr. Ryan interviewed them over the air. If Mr. Ryan did not take the questions seriously, the girls apparently did.

"What would you do if you had a million dollars?" he asked the tall, languid brunette, Barbara.

"O, dear," said Barbara tragically, "if I had a million dollars it would simply overwhelm me."

Frances, a sunburned blonde with naturally curly hair and an athletic look about her, dressed in white with red laces trimming her dress, thought she'd go to California with her million. Jean, a small and lively brunette, did not hesitate. She wanted a good riding horse. Dian, questioned about favorite authors, had no ready choice, but when screen favorites were mentioned said "Fredric March" with alacrity.

LOOP JEWELER'S SON BATTLES FOR $250,000 ESTATE

A bill to set aside the will of Hyman Holsman, a loop jeweler who died last year, and to have his second marriage declared illegal, was filed in the Superior court yesterday by George Holsman, 39 years old, a son by the first marriage. The son is seeking a greater share of a $250,000 estate, the bulk of which was left to the second wife and her three daughters.

Defendants named are Mrs. Nellye Holsman, 7331 Sheridan road, the second wife, and the daughters, Constance Betty, 14 years old; Jeanne, 17, and Mrs. Hortense Hoffman.

The bill alleges that a default divorce which Holsman obtained in Seattle, Wash., in 1905, while his first wife was in an insane asylum, was not valid in Illinois, and that he married his second wife before the first died in 1911. It charges further that the second wife influenced Holsman to leave only the income from a $10,000 trust fund in the will to the son. The bill asks an injunction to restrain the widow from selling 720 shares of common stock of the Holsman Jewelry company, 5 South Wabash avenue.

SEIZE 3 BOYS IN THEFT OF U. S. MARSHAL'S AUTO

Three boys, who confessed stealing the automobile of a United States marshal in Memphis, Tenn., were captured last night by Chicago Lawn police.

They are Vernon Agy, 20 years old; Sidney King, 17 years old, and Halle Peterson, 18 years old, all of Memphis. They were taken into custody by Policeman George Gore after a telephone call that three suspicious persons were loitering in the rear of 6512 South Washtenaw avenue.

In a grip carried by Agy were a loaded .38 caliber pistol and a blackjack. Agy confessed that they had stolen a car in Memphis after looting a home there. The next day they discovered the car belonged to United States Marshal Allman Juster.

Frightened, they abandoned the machine and came to Chicago by freight train. Although they denied committing any burglaries here, they will be held for the police showup.

DIRECTS RAIDERS TO LET CARD PARTIES ALONE

Mayor Kelly yesterday advised police captains directing gambling raids to concentrate their activities on the larger operators of gaming establishments and to avoid annoying small noncommercial games and private card parties.

A pin game machine that automatically pays off in nickels is a gambling device and not a game of skill, declared Judge J. William Brooks in the Town Hall court yesterday as he imposed a fine of $75 on H. A. Goodnow, manager of a café at 649 Diversey parkway. Judge Brooks had the machine smashed with a sledge hammer. He warned that all such devices brought into his courtroom would be destroyed.

SIDNEY HOLZMAN ELECTED HEAD OF LEGION COUNCIL

Sidney T. Holzman, secretary to County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, was elected commander of the Cook County council of the American Legion last night. Mr. Holzman, who is 34 years old, the youngest man to hold this office and who succeeds Matt J. Murphy, is a holder of the distinguished service cross. He was wounded while serving with the 132d infantry machine gun company. Mr. Holzman is a past commander of the J. C. Russell Blackhawk post, No. 107.

True Bill Voted Charging $45,000 Cartage Swindle

Frank Schnetter, 38 years old, 1129 North Le Claire avenue, was reported named in a true bill voted yesterday by the grand jury on a charge of obtaining signatures by false pretenses. He is accused of having fake signatures put on express orders by which the Revere Copper and Brass Company, Inc., lost $45,000 while he was trafic manager for the company. Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hora said Schnetter obtained the money by sending bills to the company from nonexistent cartage concerns and then obtaining the checks which had been sent to false addresses. Under the seven counts Schnetter is subject to a possible total of seven years in the Bridewell and fines of $14,000.

New Wills Filed

The following wills were filed for probate yesterday in the office of Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court:

MARGARET BELL, Died June 8, 1935. Estate, $25,000, to sister, niece and two nephews, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, executor.

WILLIAM BARTHOLF, Died July 31, 1935. Estate, $35,000, to three daughters, John Sonsieby and First National Bank and Trust company, executors.

ALICE ROULSTON, Died June 14, 1935. Estate, $25,000, to son and three nieces, Charles A. Luchsman, executor.

FLYING ANTS RAID LONDON LARDERS; RAVAGE GARDENS

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Suburban London's housewives became a defending force today and fought with boiling water millions of flying ants which invaded their homes in clouds, ravaging their gardens and looting their larders.

The insect scourge was described by A. Moore Hogarth, founder of the institute of microbiology, as the worst in 25 years. He attributed it to the abundant breeding of the moist spring and predicted it would be over in a few days.

The ants settled in swarming colonies in the gardens already menaced by dry weather. The householders immediately began the work of extermination, alarmed by Hogarth's revelation that a colony of the ants reproduces 80,000 more with rapid regularity.

Homes were invaded, too, especially pantries and kitchens. As gardeners scalded the mating insects in their colonies, housewives swept them from their doorsteps in sheets.

METAL WORKERS' SESSION WARNED OF RED MENACE

Charles F. Wills, managing editor of the Federation News, warned delegates attending the Sheet Metal Workers' International association convention at the Hotel Sherman yesterday that they should be on the alert to combat the spread of communism which he declared is attempting to gain a foothold in labor unions. The Federation News is the publication of the Chicago Federation of Labor. John J. Hynes is president of the metal workers' association.

MARY M'CORMIC SINGS SUNDAY TO STATE TROOPS

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Mary McCormic, who sang in the Chicago Civic opera, will sing Sunday at Camp Grant for the 7,000 Illinois National Guardsmen in training here. Twenty-five thousand to thirty-five thousand visitors are expected. Rear Admiral John Downes, commandant of the Ninth Naval district, will be the principal speaker.

Mrs. Mary Brennan Dead; Mother of Mrs. Normoyle

Mrs. Mary Connors Brennan, mother-in-law of Judge Dennis J. Normoyle, died yesterday at her home, 5487 Hyde Park boulevard, after a lengthy illness. She was 73 years old. Mrs. Brennan was born in Paterson, N. J., and came to Chicago some fifty years ago. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in St. Thomas the Apostle church and burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery. In addition to Mrs. Normoyle, Mrs. Brennan is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Etta Shambaugh, and a son, Edward F. Brennan.

Ex-State's Attorney Deck of Macon County Is Dead

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Jesse L. Deck, 57, Decatur attorney and former state's attorney of Macon county and state senator, died at his home this afternoon after a ten day illness.

DYE HID IN A COAT CAUSES A $2,000 LOSS TO CLEANER

Dye concealed in a policeman's uniform coat caused $2,000 damage to other garments in the cleaning vat of the Sanitary Cleaners' company, 2649 Sheffield avenue, according to a report made to police yesterday by Howard Blum, president of the concern.

Shortly after the discovery of the damage, Blum said, an anonymous telephone caller asked him "how he liked it," and added: "We'll fix you now. We've got Judge Fisher with us."

Blum had been charging prices lower than those which Circuit Judge Benjamin Epstein made mandatory upon 23 independent cleaners in a recent injunction. Circuit Judge Fisher, who has been acting in the case in the absence of Judge Epstein, has imposed a jail sentence on one cleaner and a $3,000 fine on another for violating the injunction.

POLICEMAN'S SON DROWNS IN LAKE OUTING TRAGEDY

Harry Penzin, 6 years old, son of Sergt. Harry Penzin, 4900 North Kostner avenue, assigned to the Albany Park station, was drowned yesterday at Round Lake, in the western part of Lake county, where the family had gone to visit the family of Lieut. Martin McCormick.

The Penzin boy was in a boat with six other children including Rose Lee, 14 years old, daughter of Sergt. Thomas Lee, 8330 South Peoria street, and May O'Malley, daughter of Sergt. John O'Malley. They were accompanied by Raymond Kiley, 35 years old.

The tragedy occurred when the boat sprung a leak. Kiley managed to aid five of the children to shore, but the Penzin boy went down. The body was recovered after an hour's search.

Mrs. Luella Kinnard Dies; Widow of Newspaper Man

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Luella Kinnard, 77, widow of William Kinnard, former newspaper man of St. Louis, Mo., and Anderson, Greenfield and Indianapolis, Ind., died today after a brief illness. Mrs. Kinnard, who was born at Anderson, moved to Chicago at the age of 53 and founded a hat company, later coming to Rye to make her home.

Albert Warnecke, Phone Worker, Drops Dead on Job

Albert Warnecke, 50 years old, 6135 Peterson avenue, an employé of the Illinois Bell Telephone company for 25 years, dropped dead from a heart attack yesterday while repairing a switchboard in the reservation department of the Pennsylvania railroad in the Union station.

REPORT 126 DEAD OR MISSING IN FILIPINO FLOODS

Damage Is Estimated at More than $1,500,000.

MANILA, Aug. 7.—(AP)—One hundred and twenty-six persons were reported dead or missing tonight in floods that ravaged three provinces north of Manila last week. Dispatches received over restored communications said 110 were dead or missing in or near the town of Dagupan, province of Pangasinan.

With damage exceeding $1,500,000, district engineers said all reports indicated the disaster approached that wrought by last year's typhoons which swept the central Philippines killing more than 400.

Other reports of the recent storm included one that fifty persons were drowned in Binmaley, near Dagupan. The capsizing of two fishing boats in the Aboleleg river, also near Dagupan, was said to have caused fifty-two other deaths.

Many villages of central and northern Luzon Island were flooded, unconfirmed reports said.

DROWNED IN OHIO

Massillon, O., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Flood waters again hit portions of Ohio as the Tuscarawas and Muskingum rivers and other streams, swollen from an all night rain, overflowed their banks today.

A boy of 7 was drowned and a 73 year old woman was reported missing as the floods caused damage estimated at several hundred thousand dollars. Nicholas Begovic, a farmer, was drowned near Coshocton.

Rivers Flood Farm Lands.

Hundreds of families were forced to abandon their homes, transportation was crippled. Several communities were isolated from nearby towns. Crop damage was reported in widely scattered areas.

Millersburg and the nearby village of Killbuck were isolated. Three miles of Pennsylvania railroad tracks near here were washed out. Two fast Chicago to New York passenger trains were stalled a half mile north of Massillon. A special crew of 500 men repaired tracks.

The Tuscarawas river was reported 7.7 feet above normal at Dover, while the Muskingum river, at Marietta, already bank high, began to rise at the rate of .6 of a foot an hour.

Steve Uzunoff, 7, fell into a stream at Mansfield and was drowned. Searchers feared that Miss Marjory McIntosh, 73, also had lost her life when she was reported missing from her flooded home in Irondale village.

Floods Near Wheeling.

Clarksburg W. Va., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Damage estimated at $250,000 was caused in the northern panhandle district in the vicinity of Wheeling as rivers and streams overflowed their banks.

HEARING TUESDAY ON S. SIDE WATER METER PROPOSAL

A public hearing on the proposal to meterize all water consumption in the area south of 39th street will be held in the city council chambers at 10 a. m. next Tuesday, according to an announcement yesterday by Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the council's finance committee. A plan for meter installation must be approved before the federal government will accept an application for funds to build a $21,159,750 south side filtration plant, Ald. Arvey said.

Mayor Kelly expressed hope that the public would accept the meter plan. He predicted "great savings to the taxpayer."

Girl Falls on Bread Knife; Little Hope for Recovery

Mary Matriciano, 12 years old, was probably fatally injured last night when she stumbled in the kitchen of her home at 1015 South Seeley avenue, and accidently drove a bread knife into her body. The little girl was helping her grandmother, also named Mary Matriciano, 79 years old, prepare the evening meal.

September 14 Is Debut Date of Ruth Brown

Postpone Tea So Brother May Attend.

BY JUDITH CASS.

YESTERDAY we listed three debut teas for Saturday, the 14th of September, and, although we were wrong about Miss Ruth Tilden making her formal bow at a tea on that date, we were right in saying there will be three teas that afternoon, for Miss Ruth Brown has changed the date for hers from the 7th to the 14th.

She has done this so that her pole-vaulting champion brother, Keith Brown, can be at the party and he does not land in New York until the 8th. He went abroad with some other record-holding athletes to take part in meets in England, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Germany immediately after being graduated from Harvard in June. He has been winning laurels on the other side of the Atlantic just as he did on this side.

Miss Brown's debut tea will be given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bruce Brown, in Wheaton. Last winter Miss Brown spent in California, having finished the June before at Farmington.

Saturday, the 14th, is such a busy day for debutantes that the Averill Tildens of Winnetka have decided to introduce their daughter at a tea the next day, Sunday. It will be at their home in Ardsley road. Miss Tilden will return to Sarah Lawrence college in September for her last year there.

Barbara Barnhart Will Bow Sept. 7.

Another debut tea scheduled for the afternoon of Sept. 7 is one Mr. and Mrs. John Emory Wilder and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Barnhart will give for their granddaughter and daughter, Miss Barbara Barnhart, in the Wilders' Evanston home. Miss Barnhart, who was graduated from Chatham Hall in Virginia last June, is spending the summer in Chicago, dividing her time between her parents' apartment at 242 East Walton place and her grandparents' home on Forest avenue in Evanston.

The debutante's mother and her two brothers are spending the summer at Guildford, Conn., and will not return to Chicago until just two days before the tea. Miss Barnhart will not go away to continue her schooling this winter, but will study art at the Ropp school.

The gala picnic that the Chicago Wellesley club is having at the Glencoe home of Mrs. Bruce MacLeish next Friday will attract Mrs. Ralph Church, the club's president, from Washington, D. C., where she and her husband, Representative Church, are living. Another prominent member of the club who is looking forward to the occasion is Miss Margaret Broomell, who hopes to be recovered from a recent tonsilotomy in time to be present.

Miss Broomell, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Ely Broomell, is to be married to Richard Cameron Bleloch in September.

The Wellesley picnic is to start at 12:30 o'clock and will be followed by bridge and swimming.

Barrington's Rural School Opens Sept. 10.

On Sept. 10 a brass bell sounding merrily from a former farmhouse on the H. Stillson Hart property in Barrington will ring in the second year of Barrington's rural private school. The school, which was organized last year and had about two dozen pupils studying their three Rs within its freshly painted confines, is situated about a half mile west of Barrington in a remodeled farmhouse. This year the number of pupils will come to between 28 and 30, including the kindergarten class which has been added.

Malcolm S. Shroyer is head of the rotating school board which last year had Randolph Payson for its leader. Mr. Payson is a member of the board along with Mrs. Edgar P. Hetzler, John Bell, and Mrs. Egbert H. Spencer. All of these families have children attending the school. Others whose younger sons and daughters will be studying in Barrington this winter include the Edgerton Throckmortons, the Robert Hiltons, the Willam Schuyler Thurbers, and the Lloyd Canbys.

Mr. and Mrs. Shroyer recently moved from Barrington to a new farm at Lake Zurich. About ten days ago Mr. and Mrs. Throckmorton moved into a farmhouse which, like the Shroyers, they remodeled completely. The new home is farther west than their original Barrington home. The

Here's a Look at a Happy Triangle

Mrs. Willett N. Gorham is watching Willett Noble Gorham Jr. and Master Gorham is watching a very handsome stuffed dog; and so it goes when one is around a year old. This triangle, however, is not a complicated one. Mr. and Mrs. Gorham, who have a charming home on the outskirts of Winnetka, left last night for Wequetonsing, Mich., to spend a long week-end visiting friends.

Front Views and Profiles

WEIMAR, Germany.—There were many memorable incidents today. We gazed on the little room and at the chair in which Goethe died; heard the notes of a piano which had known the touch of Liszt's fingers, and saw the original manuscript of "Lohengrin," first produced by Liszt at the court theater in Weimar when it was a new work by the man who was to become his son-in-law. We visited Schiller's house; we saw a room and bed in which Napoleon had slept, and we ourselves awoke in the room once occupied by Wagner.

* *

IN the year that Goethe was born the Thurn and Taxis postmaster enlarged his posthouse, at the request of the duke regent, to an inn that would accommodate guests of the ducal court. It was this hotel at which we stopped. During the 86 years of its existence a succession of notable personages have stopped at the Hotel Erbprinz. Bach composed many of his famous works here; the inn was frequented by Goethe and Schiller and the Duke Carl August and their friends. Napoleon stayed here in July, 1807, and Brahms, Strauss, Paganini, Mendelssohn, and many others. We were given the Richard Wagner room, which is furnished with the handsome Beidermeier furniture in it at his time, but with enchanting fresh yellow wallpaper with blue figures and the most modern plumbing. An obliging maid showed me Napoleon's room, Goethe's room, and Bach's room, all furnished with Beidermeier and Empire furniture. Napoleon's room was the largest and handsomest, as perhaps was appropriate to the victor of Jena to whom four kings and thirty-eight reigning princes came to do honor at the congress at Erfurt the following year.

* *

AFTER visiting Goethe's house, and paying a visit to the cemetery where he and Schiller lie side by side in the burial vault, we strolled through the park and stopped at the house where Liszt lived for seventeen years. An old caretaker showed us through. Perhaps the fact that Liszt's own housekeeper died only six years ago, and had kept the house meticulously as it was when he lived in it, accounted for the feeling one has in the house of Liszt. One feels that a human being actually lived in this house—even though it is called the Liszt museum. The red draperies at the long windows, becoming tattered with the years, were there when Liszt lived in the rooms; the great Bechstein was the last one he used; the narrow bed in which he had slept, the "dummy" piano close to his bed, with a keyboard he used in composing and a music rack and a hundred intimate and interesting objects.

* *

THERE were reminders of his love affairs, too—photographs of his "friends," as our old guide explained. And a plaster cast of his hand clasping the hand of the woman whom he desired to marry but for which they could get no dispensation from the pope. I cannot remember how to spell her name, nor that of the countess with whom he lived so many years, whose photograph also was there. There probably are persons still living in Weimar who knew Liszt. The old cabby man who used to drive him died only three or four years ago.

William E. Donahue Scholarship Founded at Notre Dame U.

The Rev. John F. O'Hara, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame university, announced yesterday that two new scholarships have been established in memory of two men who had been closely associated with the development of the university.

One is the gift of the widow of William E. Donahue, a special lecturer at the university and former advertising manager of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. This will be awarded annually to a member of the Annunciation parish, 1650 North Paulina street, who is a graduate of an accredited high school. The income from the fund will be used to defray the expense of a full scholarship in the college of commerce.

The other scholarship is in memory of Martin J. McCue, former dean of engineering at Notre Dame. It is the gift of Miss Anna C. Slavin, a niece of Prof. McCue. This will be used to encourage graduate research in the field of engineering. Prof. McCue was a member of the university faculty for 42 years and dean of the college of engineering from 1895 until his retirement in 1927.

Maggy Rouff Takes Style Theme from Mode of Gay Nineties

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Styles of the gay nineties set their stamp on clothes shown today at Maggy Rouff's fashion show, which shunned short hems and decreed longer day skirts.

Sport and street clothes, worn with low heeled shoes, were 8 or 9 inches from the ground while afternoon clothes were 6 or 7 inches away.

Suits of black wool and quilted silk were designed with close fitting little jackets, trimmed with curleycues of black braid or velvet ribbons, recalling those worn by Edwardian beauties.

They were accompanied by blouses of bright colored, changeable silk. Afternoon dresses of black, Veronese green, sapphire, crêpe and silk jerseys were designed with mutton leg or double cuffed sleeves, a smooth fitting bust, and fairly full skirts.

Mrs. Vincent Astor Joins Board of New York Opera

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The election of Mrs. Vincent Astor as a director of the Metropolitan Opera association was announced this afternoon by Edward Johnson, director general of the opera. Johnson also announced that contract negotiations will be started with Nino Martini on his return from California and that a new dramatic contralto, Gertrud Palson-Wettergren, has been engaged.

City to Have Summer Opera at Navy Pier

Season to Open Aug. 17; Staf Is Named.

A season of grand opera will be offered to the public at popular prices in the auditorium at the Navy pier, beginning Aug. 17, under the management of William Green, former opera singer, in coöperation with the city, it was learned last night.

Mr. Green will confer today with Oscar Hewitt, public works commissioner, concerning a contract for the use of the pier. Commissioner Hewitt said last night that he expected the contract arrangements would be satisfactory to the city.

In a supplemental budget approved by the city council July 22, provision was made for the city to contribute $2,000 toward employing singers and musicians for the opera. In addition the council authorized Commissioner Hewitt to improve the stage at the Navy pier at a cost of $500.

"The pier will be ready for opera by Aug. 17," Mr. Hewitt said. "The stage has been repaired and workmen are cleaning and repairing the entire hall in preparation for the opening. If the operas prove popular, the city hopes to regain the money advanced to sponsor the project."

Mr. Green has engaged Harry Beatty of the Civic opera as technical director and Dino Bigalli, musical director of the Civic opera, as musical director, and Bernard Cantor, Civic opera stage manager, as stage manager. Edward H. Dietz, auditor of the Civic Opera company, will be business manager of the summer opera project.

Plans for the summer opera were sponsored in the council by Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the finance committee, who declared that they met the approval of James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians. The first attraction will be the double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci."

Autumn Dress Materials Are Rich in Color

BY RHEA SEEGER.

"Make your own clothes" shoppers are increasing! You'll find them busily hunting around the fall woolens that have been unpacked, among the alluring bolts of new silks in deep rich colorings featured for fall. And the result, exciting new clothes days before the first fall showings.

Printed satins are stunning, new small patterns gayly spattered against shiny black and dark colored backgrounds. One unusual combination with a decidedly French accent uses American Beauty red with black. And there is a small shell like design and all over trellis pattern in this color combine that will make any one buy enough for a smart afternoon dress.

Another interesting printed satin material uses dull deep green with a silvery beige pattern. Still another knockout combine is gold against black. Any of these printed satins will fashion grand early fall street and afternoon dresses that can be worn late into the season with a fur piece.

Dull crêpes used as an alternative for these satins feature new textures, rough and semi-rough. There's a new weave called rain that will prove a big seller if the first records tell any story at all. It looks just like it sounds, a thickish dull crêpe spattered with rain drops. Then some good revivals from last season are the cereal textures, oatmeal, rice and barley imprints.

All these fascinating new weaves come in all the new fall shades, deep rich reds, wine reds, plums, royal purples and blue, lustrous gold, deep bronze greens and all the popular rust reds, ginger and cinnamon brown as well as gun metal gray, rich deep blues and blacks.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A heavenly new perfume that echoes the scent of a sun drenched clover field is hauntingly lovely and reminiscent of the fresh, wind swept out-of-doors.

If you think there's nothing quite so heavenly as the scent of a sun-drenched clover field with a light summer breeze sweeping across it, you're quite mistaken: There's a sweet-clover perfume that is every whit as lovely. It makes you close your eyes and take deep whiffs of the fresh air and sunshine and sweet mixture of clover and new-mown hay miraculously imprisoned in the little bottle!

You can just see the winding country lanes, and the lithe birch trees dancing in the wind, and the big red barn at the bend in the road—and for two cents you'd drop everything and go sit on a rail fence and swing your bare legs in the sunshine! You'll probably never believe us unless you go and sniff for yourself—but it's as true to the real article as anything we've ever dipped our noses into, and it caused a perfect furor among our friends and cohorts.

Such a delicate fragrance—so youthful and wholesome and happy-go-lucky—is absolutely ideal for summertime. It breathes the sweet essence of vacation-time and the fresh, wind-swept out of doors. It's the kind of perfume you can wear any time and any place, and it doesn't have to be confined to filmy party frocks to be entirely at home. Light and hauntingly lovely, it brings the spirit of a carefree summer to you, wherever you may be.

The makers of this perfume specialize in floral odors, and are noted for their faithful reproduction of the true flower scents. Among the newest additions to their line, besides the Sweet Clover, are Mignonette, Mimosa, Heliotrope, Arbutus, and Apple Blossom. They all have, in common, that trueness to life that delights the soul of a garden lover. And the fact that they are unbelievably inexpensive makes it possible for you to possess your favorite fragrance without endangering the old homestead in the least! M. S.

Bainum Leads Band in Rarely Heard Numbers

Music Festival Winner Is Soloist.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Glenn Cliffe Bainum, who has a faculty of selecting rarely heard band music and conducting it well, appeared with his band at Grant park last night.

Among other numbers were Ketelbey's stirring "Gypsy Lad" Overture, Wood's Manx Rhapsody, which proved that the music of the Isle of Man is strikingly like that of Ireland though the melodies may be quite different; Eric Coates' Suite, "From Meadow of Mayfair," tuneful if not altogether original, and Elgar's march, "The Crown of India," which called for the assistance of four extra trumpets like those used in the Triumph scene of "Aida."

In the first part of the program there was vocal assistance from the Cadets, four white clad, suave voiced artists who sang a somewhat complex arrangement of Stephen Foster songs with much effect and then returned for Victor Herbert's "Gypsy Sweetheart."

Later came Sara Corinne Mason, soprano, who gained public recognition last summer by being adjudged the best woman singer in the Chicagoland Music Festival contests. She sang "I List the Trill in Golden Throat," from Herbert's opera, "Natoma," an aria so written that it tests the resourcefulness of any soprano, but in addition is a greatly attractive melody. She did it in excellent fashion, and was recalled to sing "One Night of Love."

The Woman's Symphony orchestra, Ebba Sundstrom, conductor, will occupy the band shell tonight. May Barron, contralto, will be the soloist. The program:

1. Overture, "Ruy Blas".....Mendelssohn
2. Symphony "Unfinished".....Schubert
3. Aria, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah".Saint-Saëns
   May Barron
4. Evening Reverie, French Military March from "Suite Algerienne"....Saint-Saëns
5. Overture "Sakintala".....Goldmark
6. Aria "O Mio Fernando" from "La Favorita".....Donizetti
   May Barron
7. Selection from "Vagabond King"....Friml
8. "Waltz of the Flowers"....Tschaikowsky
9. Polonaise from "Eugene Onegin".....
   ..... Tschaikowsky
   "The Star Spangled Banner."

Eugene Goodwillie and Janet Williams to Be Married Today

New York Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Miss Janet Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Slocum Williams of Montclair, will be married tomorrow to Eugene William Goodwillie of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perley Mahlon Goodwillie of Chicago.

The ceremony will be performed at 3:30 o'clock in St. James church, Upper Montclair, by the rector, the Rev. Robert W. Trenbath. A small reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Eugene S. Wilson Jr. of Moorestown will be matron of honor. The other attendants will be Mrs. Arthur B. Treman of Ithaca and Mrs. Robert C. Fulton Jr of New York. Mr. Goodwillie will have his brother, Donald Goodwillie of Chicago, as best man.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Wells college and is a member of the Junior league of Montclair. Mr. Goodwillie was graduated from Cornell college in 1927 and received a degree from Oxford university in 1931. He was a Rhodes scholar. Mr. Goodwillie is now connected with the law firm of Curtis, Mallet-Prevost, Colt & Mosle of this city.

SYNOPSIS.

Nancy and Dick Heritage have been married for two years and are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by Edith Heritage, her mother-in-law, and she has come to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she had not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy is informed by Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, that she has been bequeathed £5,000 by Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. That evening an account is given in the newspaper of the assassination in China of Nancy's sole remaining relative, her aunt, and her aunt's family. Next morning Nancy, who hadn't informed her husband of an expected heir, is unable to get out of bed. Dick and his mother are displeased when they learn the cause. Edith Heritage invites a friend, Mrs. Lane, and her daughter, Sylvia, for tea. Nancy pleads a dentist's appointment. Before leaving she hides a photograph of herself, which her mother-in-law finds and puts back in its place. The Lanes arrive just as Dick comes home.

INSTALMENT X.

A FLIRTATION.

Dick kissed his mother and she took the bunch of roses from him with an exclamation of delight.

"My darling boy! He never forgets, Mrs. Lane. Such a marvelous son. Thank you, darling, as much for the kind thought as for the charming gift."

Dick looked a little bewildered. The roses he had bought for Nancy had passed into other hands, beyond recall, but his mother's exuberant flattery silenced him. He heard her telling her friend, Mrs. Lane, that today was the anniversary of her wedding, and although he seemed now to remember that his parents had been married in June, he was almost certain that the date was some two or three weeks further on.

"Where's Nancy?" he asked, covering his momentary embarrassment.

Edith gave him a wry smile. "It was too bad. Immediately Mrs. Lane telephoned, Nancy remembered that she had an appointment at the dentist's."

Dick looked surprised. "Had she?" he asked.

Sylvia Lane and her mother exchanged quick looks. The tone of Mrs. Heritage's voice, more than her actual words implied that Mrs. Richard Heritage had not wished to meet them.

Sylvia Lane gave Dick a flirtatious look. She had pale blue eyes, a little hypnotic in expression, and she knew exactly the effect they had on men. It was always great fun to give a new man that peculiar look and note the results.

"I do hope we haven't driven your wife out of her own house, Mr.

"Look," said Sylvia's mother, "Nancy Akers is young Mrs. Heritage now."

Heritage," she said with a tinkling laugh which some admirer had likened to the music of fairy bells.

Dick grinned at her and decided that this slim blonde thing, with her sunburned complexion and eyes like pale sapphires, was altogether an attractive piece. Of course her type of beauty was quite different and decidedly inferior to Nancy's, but certainly she had a little spice of the devil in her, a quality which was distinctly wanting in his wife.

"Sylvia, darling, come here!"

Edith Heritage had just shown her friend Nancy's photograph and Mrs. Lane's eyes fairly bulged as she stared at it.

"What do you want, mother?" Sylvia said a little peevishly. She did not like her flirtation to be interrupted.

Mrs. Lane held out the photograph.

"Here's a little surprise for us, my dear," she said, her voice betraying a note of warning. "You remember Nancy Akers, don't you?"

"Look!" said her mother. "She's the young Mrs. Heritage, now."

Edith Heritage, also, was surprised, yet hadn't she always—from the very beginning—expected some dramatic revelation where Nancy was concerned.

Hadn't she even suspected that it might have something to do with the Lanes, after discovering that clumsily hidden photograph? And then, of course, the appointment with the dentist! A trumped-up excuse if ever there was one. Really, Nancy was not nearly as clever as her mother-in-law had supposed her to be.

"You know Nancy? You knew her before she was married?" Edith asked eagerly.

O, how she wished Dick were not here? For there was a look on Mrs. Lane's face; yes, a decided "look"; and Sylvia seemed to be trembling. One might have questioned them had Dick not been present.

Mrs. Lane moistened her lips.

"Why yes, we did know her," she said, a little awkwardly.

"Strange!" exclaimed Edith.

"What is strange?" asked Dick, who sensed that there was some mystery here, but hadn't the faintest idea what it could be. Was it so great a coincidence, he wondered, that Nancy had known these people before her marriage? Although she scarcely ever referred to former associations, she could not have lived a life of complete isolation.

"Darling, it is a little odd," his mother protested. "Nancy answered the telephone when Mrs. Lane rang up. Sylvia's name was mentioned—yet apparently she didn't know who they were."

"She might have forgotten," said Dick, vaguely on the defensive.

Sylvia's eyelids drooped and there was a patient, tired looking smile at the corners of her mouth. "Mother, don't you think we'd better be going?" she said.

"Yes, dear. Good heavens, it's nearly 5 o'clock. Thank you so much, Mrs. Heritage. We'll see you again soon, I hope——"

"Wait just a moment, please," said Dick. "Are you really in such a hurry?"

Mother and daughter exchanged glances and Sylvia straightened her shoulders with a slightly defiant air.

"We only thought," said Sylvia, "that since Nancy preferred to be out when we called, we'd better not prolong our stay."

"You mustn't look at it like that," Dick said anxiously. "I'm positive there's been some misunderstanding. Nancy will be delighted——"

Mrs. Lane gave a short laugh. "I shouldn't be too sure, if I were you, Mrs. Heritage."

Edith found that she did not need to say anything at all. Dick was doing the talking for her.

"You mean—there was some—er—unpleasantness between you?" he asked.

Before her mother could answer, Sylvia jumped into the breach. And now Sylvia's manner was quite changed. No longer was she timid and frightened looking, and there was an air of warm benevolence about her. When she spoke to her mother, Edith was sure her words contained a double meaning.

"O, mother dear, it's so long ago, now. I'm sure we can all forgive and forget. Need we rake up a silly thing like that? I am sure Nancy will be only too glad if we show her that we have quite forgotten the incident."

"What incident?" Edith Heritage asked sharply.

Sylvia made a graceful gesture which displayed her slender hands with their reddened nails to perfection. Her expression was one of wide-eyed innocence.

"Well, dear Mrs. Heritage, call it a quarrel—a misunderstanding, if you like. If you don't mind, I'd rather not go into details and I'm sure mother will agree with me. Nancy is a darling—always was. So generous, kind and sweet-tempered. I've just got to see her again. And mother, you've just got to be ever so nice to her. If you don't, I shall make a scene."

All too plainly, Mrs. Lane was ruled by her daughter. She looked a little sulky, but she nodded. "If that's the way you feel about it, Sylvia," she agreed in a reserved tone.

"O, I do!" gushed Sylvia.

Mrs. Heritage knitted her brows. It was plain to her that whatever had happened was Nancy's fault, and this charming young girl was prepared to overlook it. Edith was nearly frantic with curiosity and had all she could do to control herself.

"Half explanations are not very satisfactory," she said, appealing to Mrs. Lane.

Girl Foolish to Adore One Already Wed

BY DORIS BLAKE.

This is the tale of a young woman who met and fell in love with a chap who told her that in his deep, dark past he had been made father of a child a sister of his was caring for in another part of the country. He protested a great love for the young woman, but explained that marriage would be out of the question, since the mother of the child had died and it was his duty to see the youngster through.

At the present time, and because the child suffered an attack of infantile paralysis, he was in no position to assume the financial responsibility of marriage.

The young woman was informed by a Mr. Anonymous that her adored one already was legally tagged and tied to a mate who had not the slightest suspicion he was passing himself off as a bachelor with a touching child obligation. The man was sitting there within a few feet of the phone the evening the bad news came over the wire. The girl confronted him with the information.

He admitted he was married, and that the child had no paralysis ailment at all. But that isn't the news feature of the tale. It's this little exract from the girl's letter: "I love him, anyway. I feel simply desperate. I must get him back. How can I regain him?"

We're flabbergasted, in the first place, that the young woman would want to regain such a liar and cheat and no good fellow. But more, we wonder by what form of reasoning a woman arrives at the conclusion that a married man is still open prey. Regaining him, sister, would be just the last thing we'd help you to do, first, because he's not yours to regain, and, secondly, because he's a sad, bad lot in himself.

Thurbers recently obtained land near Dundee road at Bateman road, next door to the Ballard Moore house, and they will start renovating the farmhouse this fall. Mr. and Mrs. Thurber will move into their new home next spring.

Mrs. W. H. Fetzer Going to Michigan.

Mrs. William H. Fetzer of the Hotel Knickerbocker is leaving today to motor to northern Michigan to spend her 93d birthday at the summer home of her son, Wade Fetzer, and Mrs. Fetzer of Hinsdale. Mrs. Fetzer's birthday anniversary is the 10th. Her new little great-granddaughter is too young to travel, so she will not be present at the birthday celebration. She is six weeks old Nancy Seeley Fetzer, daughter of the junior Wade Fetzers of Astor street.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen and her daughter, Miss Gwendolyn, are planning to leave Lake Forest next Monday to motor to Desbarats, Ont., Can., where Mrs. Bowen will visit Mrs. Philip Peck and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker and "Gwennie" will visit Miss Adele Proxmire.

Miss Barbara Eldridge is leaving tomorrow for Holland, Mich., to visit Mr. and Mrs. James R. Getz over the week-end. After a European wedding trip Mr. Getz and his bride, the former Betsy Needham, are staying in Michigan until fall.

The John Q. Magies of Winnetka will leave Aug. 15 with their children for Duluth to escape the hay fever season. Mr. Magie is the sufferer. They will be away one month.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Phelps Hall are leaving today to sail on the Ile de France for two months in Europe. They will spend most of the time in England, as have so many Chicagoans visiting Europe this year.

The John G. Curtises will return next week from a cruise on their boat to the Georgian Bay country. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rowley, Mr. Curtis' sister and brother-in-law, who accompanied them, returned last Sunday.

Many Chicagoans Are Summering at Mackinac.

A letter from one summering at Mackinac Island brings news of some of the Chicagoland residents who are spending the warm weather months on the beautiful island. The Lanning MacFarlands and their children of Winnetka have a house there for the season and are enjoying the bathing and yachting and other recreations that are so large a part of life at Mackinac. The Scott Bromwells of Lake Forest have been spending several days at the Grand hotel and among those who are occupying their homes on the island are the Edward A. Cudahys, whose daughter, Mrs. Austin H. Niblack, is visiting them; Mrs. Wilmarth Ickes, Dr. and Mrs. Selim W. McArthur and their daughters, Joan and Betty; the Tracy L. Turners, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis T. Jacques. The John L. Cochrans and their daughters, Eleanor and Nancy, are spending the summer in the Mackinac house of his mother, Mrs. Ellicott Evans of California. The Paget Cadys and Miss Frieda Foltz will leave soon for a visit with the Cochrans in northern Michigan.

The Benno F. Neils have returned to Chicago after a visit in Pelham Manor, N. Y., with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Donohue.

The Joseph F. Elwards are leaving this week for their annual trip across the Atlantic. Accompanied by their sons, Paul and James, they will sail for England, where they will spend the entire vacation, returning in time for the boys to enter school.

Calmness Vital if Child Stages Bedtime Scene

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Today we are going to add another article to our series on sleep by talking about that despair of many families—that young person who used to be described as an "enfant terrible": The child who will not stay in bed or who does not go to sleep when he gets there—who tosses and turns and calls out or who, with a fearful persistence, keeps getting out of his crib—the small one who plays a leading rôle in the evening's leisure—or did I say leisure?

The child who refuses even to stay in bed or acts up at bedtime achieves instantaneous stardom in the family scene. And his refusal to go back to bed or to stay there is usually in inverse proportion to the excitement he can create and the consternation he can cause. Why go docilely back to bed and docilely stay there when a melodrama can be staged by not doing so?

Now the first time may be nothing but an accidental thing or a chance act, or due to that quality that we are so anxious to inculcate in our children — independence or experimentation. But after the first dramatic effect so much to some children's taste, the remaining times are deliberate.

Lead your child to the bed, have him climb up and tuck him in, say good night and leave him, telling him it is bed time. This performance may have to be repeated many times, dispassionately—until the child decides there is nothing pleasantly exciting to be gained by continuing these antics and goes to sleep. If the dispassionate attitude can be kept, and the repeated trips to the bed quietly made, then the child sees there is nothing in it for him, or he becomes bored by it and decides to give up.

The procedure of getting up, and being taken back to bed may be repeated the next night and for some days after, but it will gradually tend to disappear as soon as the child learns that there is nothing gained. One person cited a case of a child who did this nineteen times the first night, but within a week was completely cured.

Autumn Coiffures to Demand Hair of Vital Attractiveness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You can be pretty sure that if they're going to use the hair for flower holders this coming season, and the signs surely point that way, that hair has to be an exquisite thing. Some one has predicted that the fall party season may see hair built high after the manner of the Louis time, with all kind of floral designs worked in among the locks.

Personally, we think the prediction may be taken with a grain of doubt, because our women, above everything else, hate the cluttery in anything pertaining to their appearance. But floral bands after the wreath and cluster manner already have been adopted by chic women and, according to reports, the feminine appeal bears the approval of the sex that takes us out stepping of evenings. Jewels for the hair, too, are predicted to have a heavy run later in the season, when the indoor ballrooms throw wide their doors.

All of which doesn't mean that you have to trick out the hair in floral or jewel gadgets if such adornment fails to meet your fancy. But it does mean that hair is going to come in for more than ordinary notice as we turn the summer corner.

If your hair is oily give it sun baths daily. Oily hair can take a lot of sun punishment. Dry hair, not so. Dyed hair, absolutely NOT. Bleached hair, also decidedly NOT. But get busy brushing, no matter what kind of hair you have. If it is good hair, make it better. If it is poor hair, brush better tone and vitality into it.

If it is graying stop the graying process with that daily ten minute brushing. Fasten on that top piece of yours right now and resolve that you'll emerge in six weeks or two months a "gal" with hair that's raved about.

The Stage

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," the melodrama which, on its record, deserves to be called the most famous American play, will be revived on the showboat Dixiana tonight. The date marks the first anniversary of the craft's operation in the north branch of the Chicago river.

This dramatization by George L. Aiken of Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel was first acted in 1852 in Troy, N. Y. Its first Chicago performance was in McVicker's theater in 1858.

Yesterday's matinée performance of "Three Men On a Horse," at the Harris theater, was marked by an unusual occurrence—the unexplained absence of Hugh Rennie, one of the principal players. The crisis was met by Philip N. Faversham, husband of Marjorie Lytell, the leading woman, son of William Faversham, and promising young actor. He had seen the play so often that he knew Rennie's rôle—the bullying brother-in-law—fairly well, and he volunteered to undertake it.

After Faversham had made a good start, Rennie manifested himself, first by telephone and then in person. A swimming party and a stopped watch were his excuses. He helped to prompt his understudy through the second and third acts.

The programs of stage entertainment at the downtown cinema theaters will assume an air of importance at this week-end. Sally Rand will appear at the Chicago theater tomorrow in a new dance, called "Leda and the Swan." Olsen and Johnson will bring a new revue, containing thirty-odd performers, to the Palace. On Saturday the well known Duncan Sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, will begin a week's engagement at the State-Lake theater.

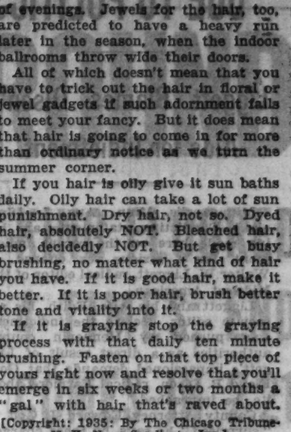
How to Remove Leg or Arm Hair In 3 Minutes

Without Making It Grow Faster, Coarser or Stubbier



OH BOY! THERE'S A BAD GROWTH, BUT IT WILL TAKE ME ONLY A MINUTE TO REMOVE IT
HOW'S THAT FOR A QUICK EASY, LOVELY JOB—AND I DON'T SMELL BAD AND THERE'S NO DANGER OF ME CAUSING A COARSE STUBBLY NEW GROWTH YOU MUST TRY ME RIGHT NOW

Now Get Rid of Hair This Easy, New Way

NO RAZOR; no dread of causing a stiffer, faster, stubble-like new growth. No messy pastes or powders; and no terribly offensive odor, strong enough to "smell up your whole house." Instead a marvelous liquid discovery, entirely new to most women, that removes leg or arm hair and leaves "no dark stubble shadow." A new, quick, 3-minute way that is as easy as washing your skin with soap and water—a way that simply cannot make hair grow faster, stiffer or coarser. See the ugly, hairy skin replaced by the soft, smooth beauty of a clear, hair-free skin.

And get rid of ugly leg or arm hair entirely without encouraging a coarse stubble-like new growth

What To Do

There are just two simple easy things to do. First pat skin lightly with De Miracle, as this new miraculous-like liquid discovery is called—wait 2 or 3 minutes, then wash hair away with water—pleasant, easy, quick and inexpensive. See how smooth, clear, youthful and free of hair it leaves your skin. Be happier and perhaps more unafraid of letting others see your skin than you ever have in your life.

CHILD'S DRESS.

Darling little "self-help" dresses are being made for tiny children this season. This is a simply cut frock, opening down the front, which detail enables a youngster to put it on and off herself. The yoke, pretty little puffed sleeves, and sash complete it. The original dress was made of plain blue gingham, with the contrast in a deeper blue. This frock is becoming, durable, and has decided chic.

The pattern, No. 2863, comes in sizes 2, 4, and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Sally to Take 100 Guests to Circus Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

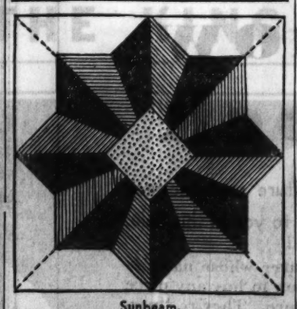
I'll bet you boys and girls who won invitations to our circus party today can hardly wait for meeting time, can you? It's going to be a gala day, and you'd better get yourself ready for a good time.

We'll meet according to instructions included in your letters—you should have received them early this week if your name was included in the list of one hundred children printed in last Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Don't, whatever you do, forget to bring those invitations I mailed to you, because no one without one will be admitted to our group. Please be sure to be at our appointed place promptly, because we want to get to our seats and get settled comfortably in plenty of time, so that we'll be all set by the time the big parade starts, and won't miss a single minute of the big show. All aboard for Soldiers' field and Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's big show!

Before I start for the party this afternoon, however, I will select our party winners for next week. The writers of the best letters requesting invitations to see "Water Babies," which Miss Alice Gerstenberg dramatized so cleverly from Charles Kingsley's original story, will be chosen as my guests. The play will be presented especially for my group by the Jack and Jill players under the direction of Marie Agnes Foley on Aug. 15. I do hope that you didn't forget to mail your letter—because today's the day all mail must be on hand.

"Sunbeam" Quilt Genuine in Its Color Selection



Sunbeam.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Tones of yellow, rose, and gold make this a genuine "Sunbeam" block. A bright bit of this sort of quilting adds cheer to any room fortunate enough to count it among its furnishings. It is a most appropriate pattern for a man's or boy's room. Twenty-two pieced blocks, measuring 12 inches square, are combined with 20 plain white blocks.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Willing Workers Board.

There will be a special board of directors meeting of the Willing Workers Woman's club at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the Congress hotel coffee shop to make plans for the fall benefit.

BY MARY MEADE.

If you're not a regular devotee of ready-to-mix soft drinks it's more than possible that there's a packaged beverage powder on the market you have not tried. Not until some one suggested the use of the self-same powder in frozen ices and sherbets did we give it a try—but ever since we've been quite enthusiastic about its flavor and fragrance.

The powder is imitation flavored (except for the citrus flavors), but we think it's remarkably well put up. The grape is especially good, but you can make your own choice from that, the orange, strawberry, raspberry, lemon-lime, and cherry.

To make a chill and refreshing sherbet from a package of this beverage powder the procedure is just as simple as the ingredients are inexpensive. All you need do is to mix the contents of one package of the powder with 1¼ cups of sugar, five cups of milk, and the juice of half a lemon. This is to be frozen in an ordinary hand freezer in a 1:8 ice salt mixture. (Regarding several telephone calls which have asked a translation of the latter term—it means, roughly, a mixture of one part salt to eight parts ice.)

If you're going to attempt the same sherbet in an automatic refrigerator we suggest a bit of gelatin to insure its smoothness. One tablespoon of granulated gelatin, dissolved in a little of the milk, heated, and an occasional whipping during the freezing period, as additions to the above recipe.

Even better than the plain sherbet you may like a refrigerator ice cream made with the same beverage base. We tried it thusly:

Dissolve one-half cup of sugar and one package of the beverage powder in two cups of milk. Turn into the freezer tray and freeze until slushy (three-quarters to one hour). When the mushy texture is reached beat the frozen mixture into one cup of heavy cream which has been whipped until it holds its shape. When creamy return the mixture to the trays and freeze quickly without stirring until firm. If you like a lighter, fluffier ice cream it's possible, we find, to add beaten egg white. Do it this way: Before the mixture is returned for the final freezing, fold in two egg whites which have been beaten until stiff with two tablespoons of sugar.

One suggestion on the packet should prove a positive boon to the mothers of treat loving youngsters. With the powder it's possible to make wholesome, chilly, frozen "suckers" to be parceled out to good little boys and girls. All you need do is to mix a package of the powder with a cup of sugar and a quart of water and freeze the mixture in ice cube trays. By removing the tray directly above you'll find you can insert regulation lollipop sticks into the center of each cube before freezing—or, even simpler, tuck a small paper spoon into each. When they're frozen firmly it isn't necessary to let them go on taking up valuable space, either. Each frozen lollipop may be wrapped in a bit of waxed paper and put down into the drip tray where it will remain firm and cold until called for.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

GRAND COUP.

You have probably gathered that these first gropers into the realm of contract whist usually play the hand about one trick poorer than they would with the dummy exposed. The subsequent maneuvers to redeem a hand that seems foredoomed to defeat are remarkable, when one considers that the declaring partners are playing blind.

The bidding:

NORTH	EAST	SOUTH	WEST
1 Sp.	Pass	2 Ht.	Pass
3 Di.	Pass	3 Ht.	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the queen of clubs and North put up the ace, East signaling with the nine spot. North immediately returned the eight of clubs, thus indicating a doubleton and a desire to ruff. East took with the king and attempted to kill the ruff by playing a trump.

Had South let the trick ride, all would have been simple; but South pardonably played the jack. West took with the ace, and hovered indecisively over his cards, showing alert South that he held no more trumps. A trump is the palpable return.

West finally played another club, North trumping with the queen of hearts. South went into a huddle and counted East for the guarded nine spot of hearts. To pick it up he would have to coup the hand.

North led a small spade, the queen taking the jack. Again West seemed vaguely indeterminate about his hand. He was afraid that a club lead would give, as the old saying goes, "a ruff, a pump, and a discard." He finally played back the ace of spades. South trumped and led a small diamond, North taking with the jack, evidently under the impression that he was finessing successfully. This game is particularly enthralling to a kibitzer who can see two hands at once. It has the same charm as blindman's buff.

To continue:

North cashed the king of spades—or at least he would have cashed it had not South trumped it. South had managed to bring himself down to East's trump length. Another diamond was led, North winning with the queen, and the nine of spades played back. When East discarded, South discarded too, and was able to pick up East's 9-7-5 of hearts with his K-10-8.

Good Morning!

"Dante's Inferno" makes you think of one of those strange, legendary creatures with a human's head, a bird's talons and the body of some outlandish animal. Because it's part romance, part melodrama, and part spectacle.

You wish the producers had been content to make it one thing or another. For it's a lengthy conglomeration which even the combined efforts of those ace players, Trevor, Tracy, and Walthall, can't save from tedium.

The "Inferno" is a Coney Island concession. It's run by a gentle idealist, Pop McWade, who would uplift the souls of pleasure seeking visitors. His pretty niece, Betty, is ticket taker.

The catch is that the pleasure seekers—BEING pleasure seekers—don't buy tickets. That is, they don't until that piece of belligerent human flotsam—or jetsam, have it your own way—Jim Carter, is flung upon the shores of Pop's and Betty's lives. . . .

Conducted through the "Inferno" by the professor, Jim is greatly taken by a picture of Alexander the Great and the Gordian Knot, and the professor's explanation of same. He becomes fired with an ambition that—to make a long story short—results in his becoming the husband of Betty, father of an adored small son, and a king of amusement enterprises.

Because he is a very bad man and gets to the top by the expedient of climbing over little fellows' shoulders and then kicking them out of his way, why, terrible things happen.

To him—and to the audience. For, right at this juncture, to the accompaniment of awful wails and weird music, the film goes "spectacle" and plunges you into hell. The inferno sequences were adapted from the Doré illustrations.

Happy ending? O, sure!

Produced "straight"—omitting the fireworks, writhings, howls, and brimstone—"Dante's Inferno" would have qualified as a fair program offering.

As is—well—you say it!

See you soon!

ACCUSED EDITOR CALLS CHARGES DUE TO POLITICS

Liggett Blames Olson's Aids for Indictment.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Conflicting statements are being made here on the recent indictment, for a serious sex offense, of Walter W. Liggett, radical editor of the Midwest American.

Liggett and his wife, Edith, his associate editor, declare the indictment was pushed by Hennepin county authorities as a direct result of Liggett's impassioned demands that Gov. Floyd B. Olson, radical Farmer-Laborite, be impeached.

County Attorney Edward J. Goff is "surprised," he says, by these charges of persecution. He adds "I'll be glad to aid Mr. Liggett in any way if he has any evidence to offer indicating that a political conspiracy exists against him." The prosecutor says he is uncertain where the evidence against Liggett was obtained, as he did not present the case to the grand jury. The assistant who did is on vacation.

Tells of Phone Calls.

Mrs. Florence Davis, executive secretary of the Hennepin County Child Welfare league, says the investigation originated simultaneously in her office and in Goff's office. A number of anonymous telephone calls and letters were received on the case and results of the investigation were turned over to Goff's office. Witnesses before the grand jury, Mrs. Davis declares, were the girls involved in the charges and a welfare worker who assisted in the investigation.

"Child welfare workers," the league secretary added, "are not politically appointed. In this particular case I did not know Mr. Liggett from Adam until after the investigation was completed. However, I will say that if these calls were the result of a so-called political grudge, more power to any political party that can bring to justice any person involved in a case of this kind."

Accused of Abduction.

On June 23 Liggett was charged in an information with abducting two 16 year old girls. Frank Ellis of Austin, radical labor leader, was named co-defendant in that case. Ellis was not indicted on the more serious charge, but is yet to be tried on the abduction information. Liggett declared the charges are a "frameup." He said they were made fifteen months after the alleged events and only after he had started his attacks on Olson. Liggett insists that he tried to get a hearing on the case, but five postponements were obtained because one of the complaining witnesses was in California.

Liggett's indictment on the more serious charge, which involves gross immorality, followed.

Wife Defends Liggett.

The editor's stanchest defender is his wife.

"For five weeks," she says, "Walter repeatedly was refused a hearing in open court on the trumped up information charging abduction. The last postponed hearing was set for Aug. 2, but on July 27 the prosecuting attorney of Hennepin county [Goff], who formerly was Olson's assistant when the governor was prosecuting attorney, suddenly called the grand jury in special session and at a secret session Walter was indicted on this preposterous charge without chance to appear personally.

"This presumably was on evidence of the girl who formerly claimed that she was abducted. The object of this move is twofold. In the first place, the Olson gang seek to disgrace Walter by making the alleged offense as dirty and infamous as possible, and in the second place by bringing an indictment they can prevent him from having any preliminary hearing at all.

Charges Are Kept Alive.

"Therefore, it will be possible for them to keep the charge hanging over him indefinitly by postponing trial at their pleasure.

"The prosecution of Walter is one of the foulest frameups ever engineered and the indictment was brought solely to wreck our business and to discredit him because of his political fight against the corruption of the Olson gang. Some of the most substantial business men and women of the Twin Cities, former governors and at least two United States senators are willing to appear as character witnesses, but the Olson gang has tried to drive away all support by making the charge as vile as possible."

NOW WE'LL REENACT THE SHOOTING OF DONOVAN IN THIS ROOM. PAT, YOU BE BLAKE, AND I'LL BE DONOVAN.
BLAKE AND I WERE SITTING LIKE THIS—AND DONOVAN HAD HIS BACK TURNED FOR THE MOMENT LOOKING OUT OF THAT WINDOW JUST AS YOU ARE NOW.
SUDDENLY THERE WAS A SHOT.. I FELT MYSELF BEING PUSHED OFF MY CHAIR.. DONOVAN REELED AROUND, STAGGERED FORWARD AND FELL.
WHEN YOU FELT YOURSELF BEING PUSHED, DID YOU NOTICE ANY MOVEMENT AT THE BACK OF YOUR HEAD AS THOUGH BLAKE WERE HIDING THIS GUN IN YOUR HAIR.
I COULDN'T SWEAR TO IT.. I..I..I WAS TOO STUNNED... EVERYTHING WENT BLACK.

SAW FERRIS FIRE SHOT AT LAWYER, SAYS PARTY GIRL

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Florence Jackson, one of the three "party girls" on trial with William Lee Ferris for the murder of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney, testified today on cross-examination that she saw Ferris stand over the attorney and fire a shot into his body.

The Jackson woman's statement was in contradiction to her previous testimony in which she had given only a vague account of the shooting. Her statement also challenged the testimony of Ferris, who had maintained that Dickinson had shot himself.

"You saw Ferris stand over Dickinson and fire a shot at him, didn't you?" Prosecutor Duncan McCrea asked her on cross-examination.

"Yes, sir," she replied.

The former burlesque dancer denied that she had any part in the slaying. She also denied that she had "kept company" with Ferris before the killing.

As the trial neared a close, it was apparent that the four defendants have adopted an attitude of "each for himself."

The Jackson woman said that Ferris had threatened to kill the other two women and herself after the shooting and had warned them repeatedly to "keep their mouths shut." She said the attorney had "acted like a gentleman" at the two drinking parties which preceded his death.

THOMAS THANKS FOOTBALL FANS FOR HUGE VOTE

Players Gather to Begin Practice.

BY ARCH WARD.

College football's all-American coaching staf, picked in a national poll that attracted 7,317,821 individual votes, has accepted the responsibility of leading the country's All-Stars against the Bears at Soldiers' field in Chicago's big charity game on Aug. 29.

Frank Thomas of Alabama, Charles Bachman of Michigan State, Dr. C. W. Spears of Wisconsin, and Edward Madigan of St. Mary's, who finished in that order, all will be here when the players report for their first workout at Northwestern university Monday morning.

The staf includes representatives of the south, Pacific coast, and middle west. Three of the coaches, Thomas, Bachman, and Madigan, are graduates of the Notre Dame system. The other, Dr. Spears, is a disciple of power plays usually growing out of a single wing back.

Thomas to Arrive Sunday.

Thomas, the head coach, will arrive Sunday morning from Tuscaloosa, Ala. Spears and Bachman also will be here Sunday. Madigan, who now is lecturing at a summer school at Texas Tech, will fly to his home in Oakland, Cal., tomorrow night and will fly from there to Chicago Sunday night.

Chuck Mucha, all-American guard from Washington, was the first of the forty-four players to reach Chicago. Bohn Hilliard, Texas half back, will be here today. Cotton Warburton of Southern California, accompanied by his bride and Al Nichelini, St. Mary's half back, are coming by motor and expect to roll down Michigan boulevard late tomorrow afternoon.

Herman Gundlach, guard and captain of the 1934 Harvard eleven, is driving from his home in Houghton, Mich., and will be on the grounds Saturday. Pug Lund, Phil Bengston, and Bill Bevan of Minnesota also will arrive Saturday. Fred Borries of the Navy, now attached to the U. S. S. Arizona in the Pacific, will be put ashore at San Francisco this morning and will leave for Chicago tonight with Inky Wotkyns of Southern California, Jim Barber and Larry Seimering of San Francisco university, and Frank Sobrero of Santa Clara.

All-Stars to Train at N. U.

Don Hutson of Alabama and Frank Larson, the No. 1 and No. 2 ends in the poll that drew 737,018 votes, will arrive Saturday afternoon. Bill Lee of

SOX BEATEN, 5-2; WHIP INDIANS IN 2D GAME, 2-1

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 7.—The White Sox ended their losing streak by defeating the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 1, in the tenth inning of the second game today after losing the opener, 5 to 2.

Poor pitching by Carl Fischer in the first inning of the first game had caused them to lose that one for six straight in their setback string. In the second game the Sox had great pitching by Babe Phelps, but they were looking at even better stuff cast by Lefty Thornton Lee. In the first eight innings the Chicagoans made two singles. In every inning but the fourth it was three up and three down. In the ninth inning Merv Shea led off with a double and eventually got to third. But he never got home. The Chicagoans had a total of three hits in nine innings.

Indians Fill Bases.

The Indians were getting real saucy in the closing innings themselves. They had the bases full in the eighth and again in the ninth. But the score was 0 to 0 going into the tenth.

Al Simmons, whose No. 10 homer had averted a shutout in the first game, opened the tenth with his second and his team's fourth hit, a line single to right center. Bonura doubled off the right field wall, Simmons stopping at third. Washington singled to right center, scoring Simmons and Bonura. Appling singled to right center, Washington stopping at second. Dykes singled to right, Washington got half way between third and home, then stopped, and was an easy out, Galatzer to Phillips to Hale. Stewart replaced Lee. Shea popped to Knickerbocker and Stewart tossed out Wyatt.

Trosky Aims at Homer.

The Clevelanders kicked up a right smart rumpus against Wyatt in the latter half of the tenth. They got one run out of it, scored on a fly ball which Trosky had planned as a game winning homer, because two were on at the time and he was shooting for one of those Cleveland circuit popups over the nearby screen.

The latter half of the first inning of the first game resembled a Cleveland batting practice to one not familiar with the players and unable to recognize that all the fellows in the field were members of a different team from those doing the batting. Of course, there were other reasons why we should have known; for instance, there was no cage behind the catcher,

Pirates' Bunting Game Upsets French; Cubs Beaten, 6 to 0

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The time honored but humble bunt shoved the Cubs down to decisive defeat yesterday. The Pittsburgh Pirates, spurning the slugging game for the gentler art, threw Charley Grimm's second placers into utter confusion, scored almost all their runs as the result of their unusual tactics and captured the second game of the series, 6 to 0. The trimming cost the Cubs half a lap in their pursuit of the leading Giants who now own a three and one-half game margin.

The bunt, supposedly a thing of the past, was involved in no fewer than eight plays. Four of the bunts went for hits. Three of them were the cause of errors, due to the consternation among the Cub defenders. Five of the bunts were produced in the three innings in which runs were registered. Only one of these five resulted in a putout. The Pirates were even bold enough to attempt it with a two strike count. Paul Waner did it in the eighth, but it went foul and he was charged with a strikeout. Altogether about 20 bunts were attempted, some being missed and some rolling outside the lines, much to the relief of the Cub infielders.

French Expelled from Game.

The bunting led directly to Larry French's seventh defeat of the year and indirectly to his banishment by Umpire Dolly Stark. The left hander was in none too good humor as early as the first inning, when two bunts and two errors by Stanley Hack assisted the enemy to two runs. Hence when another bunt became a hit in the fifth, French spoke harshly to the above named umpire and was promptly chased. Then the Pirates proceeded to have fun with Fabian Kowalik, but finally Clyde Lefty Shoun, the 20 year old import from Birmingham, Ala., was unveiled. He bowed himself into the league by allowing only one hit in the last two innings.

As hitters the Cubs were almost as futile as they were fielders of bunts. Cy Blanton was responsible for this, a performance that enabled him to accomplish his thirteenth victory against nine defeats. For seven innings he progressed so smoothly that there were only five hits, all scattered. In the last two innings the Cubs piled up four more, but in each instance were cut short by a double play.

Hack Makes Wild Throw.

The panic which engulfed poor Hack at third in the first inning began when Jensen, the Pirate leadoff man, laid down a bunt for a hit. The surprised Hack made the throw but it got past Cavarretta, the runner going to second. P. Waner also bunted and Hack uncorked another wild heave. Herman, who was covering the bag, leaped for the ball and his thanks for the effort was a butt in the short ribs by Waner's head. The collision knocked the ball from Herman's hands and it rolled to the Pirate dugout Jensen scoring and Waner going to second. He tried to go to third on a short passed ball, but O'Dea recovered and nailed him.

Trouble continued in the shape of a pass to Vaughan, who went to second on a plain, everyday balk by French after Hafey had fouled to Cavarretta. The balk put Vaughan in position to score on Lavagetto's single between Hack and Jurges. The disturbance ceased on Thevenow's bounder to Cavarretta.

Cub Hits Are Scattered.

The first of the few Cubs to get to base on Blanton was Klein. He pushed a twisting single past Vaughan with two out in the opening inning, after which O'Dea fanned. The next Cub to enjoy this distinction was French. He doubled to left with one gone in the third, but the next two men did nothing. Then with two out in the fourth Cavarretta beat out a bounder in front of the plate after Demaree had walked. They advanced on a double steal on which the Pirates forgot to cover second and were left there when Hack filed to Hafey.

The fifth that sent French on his unhappy way and fetched two more runs into the Pirate column, opened

LOUIS' SYSTEM? HE HITS FOE—FOE HITS FLOOR

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Even a greater master workman than when he flattened Primo Carnera in six rounds at New York six weeks ago was Joe Louis, sensational colored heavyweight, against King Levinsky at Comiskey Park last night.

At no time during the 2 minutes and 21 seconds of the first round before the bout terminated did Levinsky cause the least concern or worry to the 21 year old former Golden Glover whom fistic experts, now more than ever, acclaim as the next heavyweight champion if he be given the opportunity.

Louis has improved in each of his 24 professional bouts, all fought within a period of fourteen months. It was this chronicler's chore last night to compare Louis' showing against Carnera and Levinsky, to tell whether the colored boy still was improving. But how is one to write tactics and strategy, to estimate fistic ability when three rights to the jaw and six hard lefts to the stomach left the Kingfish sitting on the joining strand of the ring ropes in a neutral corner when Referee McGarity stopped the bout?

Ah, There, Mr. Baer?

Therefore, to attempt our assignment, let one form his opinions by deduction. Max Baer, possibly Louis' next opponent, defeated Primo Carnera in eleven rounds. Louis did it in six. Baer knocked out Levinsky in two rounds. Louis did it with almost inconceivably little effort in one round.

Those who remember the Baer-Levinsky fight recall that King had the better of the opening period, and that it was the Kingfish's taunt to Maxie in the second session to "come on and fight" which aroused Baer and caused a sudden ending to the Levinsky aspirations.

Now let us look at the advance setups as between Carnera and Levinsky. Primo never was a hard hitter. What bouts he won in this country were won by clubbing and wearing down his opponents. He found himself unable to do that against Brown Bomber Joe. Louis, at first unable to reach Primo's jaw because of inferiority in reach, adopted the sound tactics of a body attack until Primo's guard came down. Then he took the air route again, and those jolting short lefts and rights soon determined the issue.

Where's That Right?

KING FLOORED 4 TIMES; END COMES IN 2:21

Ex-Golden Glover Hailed by 39,195.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Joe Louis, Golden Gloves champion one year ago, today the Brown Bomber of professional pugilism, knocked out King Levinsky in one round last night at Comiskey park. One round? Hardly that. Lewis needed only two minutes and 21 seconds in which to hammer his foe to the floor four times.

39,195 See Brief Battle.

A crowd of 39,195, Chicago's largest professional fight turnout since that September night eight years ago when Gene Tunney licked the aging Jack Dempsey at Soldiers' field, watched Louis whip in punches for which Levinsky had no defense. From the clang of the bell until the astonishing conclusion the decision completely belonged to Louis.

Last night's receipts were $192,906, gross $156,872. Possibly the King may find consolation in his share—$31,374.54—which fortune, in a final fickle gesture, had thrown him. It was Levinsky's largest financial reward, paid for a licking that has sent him definitly to the minor leagues of the fight business. Louis received $47,061.81.

Levinsky was more than badly beaten. He was humiliated. Only twice in those tortuous minutes when he steadily retreated, hoping to avoid ruthless pursuit, did the King throw his looping wild right. That right had brought Levinsky fame. But it flailed without effect last night.

Enough of those things which Levinsky might have done and didn't. After all, it was Louis' battle. By whipping the King, Golden Gloves Joe scored his fourth one round knockout in a string of 20 knockouts in 24 battles. Now he will turn his attention to other foes.

May Sign with Baer Today.

This morning Louis' managers are expected to sign articles of war with Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, dethroned heavyweight champion. The match will be held the last week in September, either in Chicago or in New York. Hoffman will gamble, as Levinsky's managers gambled, for the gold that Louis will draw against the punches Louis will throw.

Levinsky was the first to enter the ring last night. The bout was moved up from its normal position on the card because of gusty blasts from the northeast that earlier in the evening had blanketed the sky with blue black clouds, and now tossed the ring lights in swirling circles.

When the King came down the crowded northeast aile, escorted by police, and climbed through the ropes, a faint wave of applause from ringside and stands greeted him. A minute later Louis came to the ring.

Great Cheer for Louis.

From the vast packed stands, where had gathered a large portion of Chicago's south side, a jubilant roar, a booming crescendo, rumbled across the field and reverberated from steel and concrete. Louis did not acknowledge his supporters. With indifference, totally unconcerned, he seated himself

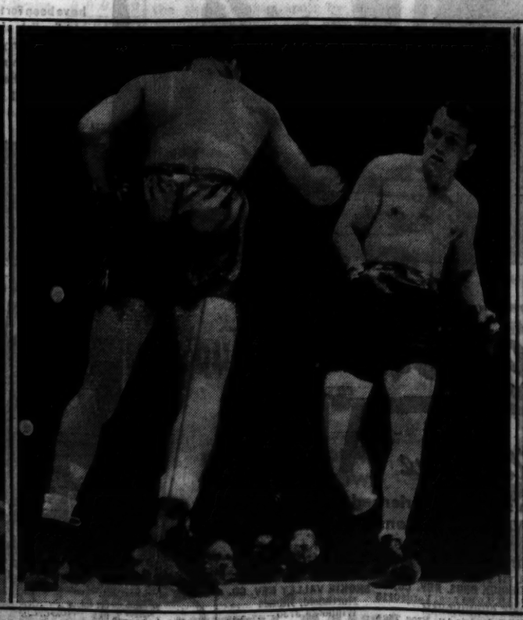
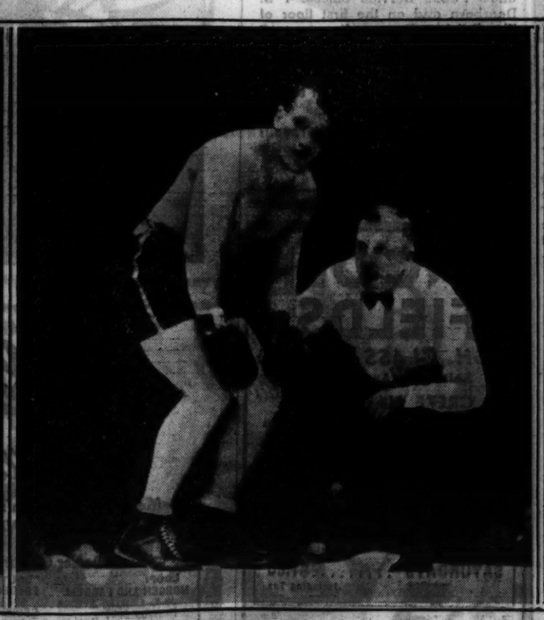
CROWNING THE KING—JUST A LITTLE TWO-MINUTE CEREMONY

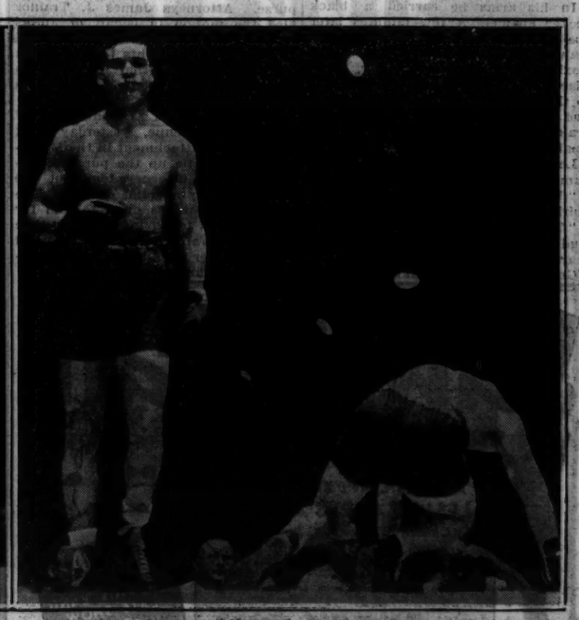
Joe Louis (right) advances in crouching position as fight with King Levinsky begins last night at Comiskey park. Only 2 minutes and 21 seconds later Levinsky had been knocked down four times and Louis declared the winner by technical knockout.



See the King's legs buckle! Louis (left) has just landed lefts and rights to chin and Levinsky is on his way to canvas —the first of knockdown series that thrilled 39,195.



Going up! Levinsky comes up after taking count of five on knockdown No. 2. Referee Norm McGarity is tolling off the numbers. In a few seconds McGarity counts over King again.



Louis, Golden Gloves champion in 1934, leading heavyweight challenger now, stands confident, ready to clinch the one sided victory, as Levinsky tries to recover from third clean knockdown.

while the seconds milled from corner to corner, inspecting gloves and bandages.

Then came interminable announcements. The throng murmured restlessly. Finally, Referee McGarity called the men to the center of the ring for instructions. Back they walked to their corners, flexed the muscles of their legs in relaxation, and returned as the bell sang its note of battle.

Wham! And That's That.

They circled cautiously. Levinsky crouched, carefully guarding his chin. Each stabbed lightly to the body. Then, without warning, Louis unleashed the lightning. A left smash to the side of the King's head and, faster almost than the eye could see, a right followed to the jaw. The King lurched backward, stumbled to the floor. Half turned from his remorseless foe, Levinsky rose at the count of two.

Apparently the King was not dazed. But he had been warned, and in sheer desperation he moved backward to evade the tornado.

Louis closed in. This time the right shot home, the same blow that had toppled giant Carnera six weeks ago. Levinsky sank to the floor, but after five seconds he came to his feet.

Another Count of Five.

Now the King fled to the ropes. But they could not help him avoid contact, and for a third time Louis thundered his right to the jaw. Levinsky took another count of five seconds while Louis, expressionless, backed away at McGarity's command.

For the last time Joe cornered his bewildered rival. In a neutral corner Louis swung a tremendous left to the pit of the stomach. As the blow landed the King doubled in agony and, pinned between the ropes, grotesquely sat on the bottom rope, neither able to fall nor having the strength to rise.

Four times Timekeeper Joe Lipp swung his arm, and at the fourth beat Levinsky stood erect, unable to lift his arms against the cold finality of Louis' attack. McGarity recognized the mute appeal and stepped in the path of Louis. The one-sided match had ended.

King Exits to Laughter.

Minutes later the microphones carried the announcement that exclusive moving pictures of the fight might be seen at a loop theater today. The crowd, which had cheered Louis as he left the ring, loosed a vast thunder of laughter. To this tune Levinsky passed down the aile to his dressing quarters.

The bouts which followed were packed with action. Max Marek, another Golden Gloves champion, hammered out a four round decision over Russ Scholtz of Minneapolis. Mickey Patrick, expert light heavyweight from East Chicago, Ind., knocked out Kid Miller of Des Moines, Ia., in the third round with a terrific body blow. Tony Cancela, Tampa, Fla., heavyweight, needed one punch to the jaw to lay Corn Griffin, Columbus, Ga., heavyweight, flat on his back in the first round.

Brescia Scores Knockout.

Jorge Brescia of Argentina also won by a knockout in one round from John Emery, an Allentown, Pa., heavyweight. Young Joe Gans, Detroit middleweight, a brilliant boxer, after gaining an early lead succumbed to the superior condition of Oscar Rankin of Los Angeles, in six rounds.

Results of the earlier bouts were:

KING'S MASCOT FAILS

Levinsky reverted to his usual jovial wise cracking self yesterday noon when he met Louis at the offices of the Illinois athletic commission to weigh in. For three weeks King had been seriously mindful of his boxing lessons, but there was no stopping him yesterday.

Levinsky crashed through the crowd which lined Wabash avenue and Madison street with his brother, Sam Krackow, Harold Steinman, his manager; Izzy Kline, his trainer, and an escort of motorcycle police, which had conducted him to the loop from Round Lake, Ill. He forced a path through the lobby of the Mallers building to the elevators. Five minutes before the 12:30 hour set by the commissioners Levinsky strode into the offices.

What's This? A Bodyguard?

In his arms he carried a black cocker spaniel. A few minutes later Joe Louis arrived, escorted by his managers, Julian Black and John Roxborough, and his trainer, Jack Blackburn. Then the rivals were sent to the room where the photographers had set up their cameras facing the scales. Both stripped in the same small ante-room.

Levinsky handed the dog to Brother Sam.

"What's the dog's name?" an inquiring reporter asked.

"This is Joe Louis," the King said, loud enough for THE Joe Louis to hear, and then he grinned.

Golden Gloves Joe didn't even smile. Without turning his head, he said nonchalantly:

"Boy, I bet that dawg sure has a lot of dynamite in him."

Louis Few Ounces Heavier.

Then the heavyweights faced the crowd, posed for pictures with members of the commission — Chairman Joe Triner, George Getz, and Packy McFarland—and finally were weighed. Louis, first on the scales, wore his white street shoes, size No. 12. He helped Chairman Triner fix the big bar weight at 100 pounds and stood quietly facing Levinsky. Louis' weight, with shoes, was 198½ pounds. Levinsky weighed 197¾ pounds.

Attorneys Are Busy.

Judge Fred Rush in Circuit court yesterday denied a motion for an injunction to tie up ⅓ of 1-3 of Louis' purse. Attorneys James J. Trainor filed the motion in behalf of Julius Browdy of Chicago, who said that in 1934 he obtained rights to that much of Louis' earnings from John Rosborough and Julian Black, co-managers of the young boxer.

Attorney Alfred O'Connor, 9207 Commercial avenue, yesterday took out a writ of attachment in the Municipal court to tie up the purse of Levinsky. The attorney took out the writ to satisfy a claim of $500. The amount, he said, is owed to him for legal services to Levinsky at the time his wife, Roxanna Glickman, who had been a dancer at A Century of Progress, sued him for divorce.

Notables from Near and Far Occupy Ringside Seats

Before the second preliminary bout to the Louis-Levinsky fight had started last night, the ringside section at Comiskey park was studded with notables from near and far.

The most prominent group of easterners to attend a bout here in some time sat on the south side of the ring as the guests of Sheldon Clark, head of the Sporting Club of Illinois, which aided Joe Foley in the promotion. The party, which numbered 200, was headed by William F. Carey, former president of Madison Square Garden. The members left for the return trip to New York at 12:40 last night on a special train.

Those in Clark's party included Robert Wood, I. Newton Perry, Howard Gillette, Homer Guck, Walter J. Cummings, Charles F. Glore, Barrett Wendell, Dr. Paul Magnuson, J. A. Rushton, George Richardson, K. L. Ames Jr., Col. John Roberts, George Malcolm, Niles Trammell, Thorne Donnelly, Daniel Burnham, Michael L. Igoe, John Ritchie, P. D. Block, W. D. Truesdale, Paul Walker, J. F. McMahon, Judge Dennis Sullivan, John Cushing.

Stuyvesant Peabody, Vaughn Spaulding, Walter B. Wolf, Ferren McMahone, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, Col. Matt Winn, Thomas M. McHale, Otto W. Lehman, John P. Harding, Walter Peacock, Leonard Hicks, Charles W. Bidwill, Bruce Head, Christopher Fitzgerald, Judge Casimer J. Welch, Bruce Kremer, R. D. Starbuck, Ralph Budd, Patrick Joyce, William H. Sexton, Alan Dixon, George Borg, Hathaway Watson, Ralph Hines, Walter Whalen.

Gov. Horner and his secretary, Arthur O'Brien, had front row seats. So did Mayor Kelly. The mayor was flanked by Patrick Nash, chairman of the Cook county Democratic committee, and Tom Nash.

Professional hocky was represented by Frank Calder of Montreal, Que., president of the National Hocky league.

Other prominent spectators included Attorney General Otto Kerner, Fred W. Green, former governor of Michigan; John Hamilton of Toledo and Harrison Spangler, both of the Republican national committee; Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald of Michigan, and Gov. Guy D. Parks of Missouri.

The widespread interest in the match was reflected not only in the huge crowd which attended, but in the 200 sports writers who covered it for the major news services and large newspapers of the country. Sixty-five telegraphers, furnished by Western Union, sent blow by blow accounts of the fight over as many wires.

Members of the Illinois athletic commission disdained the usual formality of an officially tardy entrance, for all three were on hand by 7 o'clock, giving the entire setup a thorough inspection from the ringside to the upper sections. George Getz and Joe Triner were the first on deck, and within a few minutes were joined by Packy McFarland.

The original complement of police assigned to the battle, 850 uniformed men and 100 plain clothes officers, were augmented by an additional 200 two hours before the fight. In addition the stafs at the Stanton avenue, Wabash avenue, and Pekin stations were requested to be ready for call as soon as they had completed their regular duties.

Among the golf celebrities of the evening were Tommy Armour of Medinah, Canadian open champion, who entertained a party of six; Herb Graffis, editor of Golfing and Golfdom, and Harry E. Radix, president of the Chicago District golf association.

25 Lines Tell Louis-Levinsky Battle Story

Here's the complete story of the Joe Louis-King Levinsky battle at Comiskey park last night, told in 25 lines:

FIRST ROUND—The boys shuffled forward carefully. Levinsky crouched, protecting his jaw. Louis jabbed lightly to the body. Levinsky slowly retreated. Louis hammered home lefts and rights to the chin and Levinsky went down for the count of two. King backed up. Levinsky missed with a wild right and Louis followed in and hammered a hard right to the body. In a half clinch Louis pumped both hands to the King's stomach. The King still retreated. The King took a hard right to the side of the head and went down for the five count. Louis came in with a left and right and Levinsky went to the floor again for a five count. Again Louis sent home a hard right to Levinsky's stomach, knocking him down for a four count. King sat on the ropes during that period. McGarity stepped between the men and Louis was decided the winner.

Louis System: He Hits Foe— Foe Hits Floor

swings in current fistiana—if the roundhouse telegraphed right landed. It was Joe's duty then, with his future at stake, to avoid that right which starts from the floor. It is not a blow difficult to anticipate, but failure to anticipate might find the recipient out on 35th street.

This writer rather expected Louis, with a match with Max Baer or Max Schmeling and finally with Champion Jim Braddock in the offing, to exert more than usual caution. It was the logical thing to do. Louis was normally cautious, but it was not ultra caution. The former Golden Glover feinted once with a left, but did not try to land his glove against his adversary. He feinted with his head, hoping Levinsky would start that long right. They came together and from a short radius, Louis pumped left and right against Levinsky's jaw.

The Kingfish, aroused, thought of that right. But only twice in the slightly more than two minutes of fighting, did he swing it mightily. Once the blow landed harmlessly on Joe's shoulder. The other time, it went past Joe's jaw to the back of his head at the neck as the recent amateur stepped safely within and countered with left and right.

All the Same, eh, Joe?

During this brief period, Louis, as usual, was expressionless. "Dead Dan Joe" as he has been nicknamed on account of his lack of emotion. Intent on victory, convinced no further feeling out or strategy was necessary, he quickly made an end to the Kingfish's pretensions of belonging in the first flight of the heavyweights.

When one considers that Levinsky, never a great fighter, but always a dangerous one, has fought most of the better known heavyweights and has made several of them look exceedingly bad, Louis' feat is the more impressive.

It was not only Louis' victory, but the straightaway workmanlike manner in which he recorded it that makes THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves amateur champion of 1934, who received $50 for his first pro appearance fourteen months ago, the greatest potential gate attraction in American boxing today.

ROUND TRIP 75c

KING LEVINSKY'S ELOQUENCE FAILS HIM AFTER BOUT

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

"A good puncher. Yeh, a good puncher."

Despite the fact the King, after 2 minutes and 21 seconds of the first round of what was a promised tenrounder, had purchased those right hands, not to mention an opening sales argument consisting of a fetching left hook, he still was not quite sold on the merchandise he had taken.

King Loses Fluency.

The former Maxwell street fishmonger, who last night was reduced to the canvas officially for the second time in his variegated career, did admit, under cross-examination, that the aforementioned left, with which Louis began his sales talk, and the right, which closed the deal, did have some effect on him. In fact, Levinsky, between posing for candid camera studies by earnest photographers, went so far as to admit that both of them had some effect upon him.

"Yeh," replied the King, whose fluent and quaint vocabulary had been so curtailed in length and color by Louis' salesmanship that it was well-nigh out of whack, "yeh, they hurt, 'specially that last one. Yeh, he's a good puncher."

The moment when the King's bloomers were sprawled on the lower strand of the northwest corner of the ring, shortly before the sale was completed, was the subject of no little discussion among his retinue when he finally had been escorted back to his chambers. This chatter revolved about whether or not Levinsky had requested Referee Norman McGarity to call it a deal right there.

King Vague About Details.

The King himself could not substantiate this beyond the convincing declaration: "I dunno. I was hurt. Maybe I mumbled something, but I dunno."

The question of the King's future was as definite as his own concise review of the evening. It was settled by a charming matron tarrying outside the royal chamber, soon identified as Mrs. Lena Levinsky Levy, sister and manager of the King.

ALL SOUTH SIDE REJOICES OVER LOUIS' VICTORY

About 9:35 p. m. last night a roar went up from every tavern, restaurant, café, and night life spot in Chicago's big colored district of the south side.

It was the roar which announced that Joe Louis, the dead-pan colored prize fighting sensation of the year, had knocked out King Levinsky in something less than two and a half minutes of fighting.

Then the fun began. Jovial roisterers outdid each other in buying drinks to toast the Brown Bomber of Detroit. Streets around Thirty-fifth, Michigan boulevard, South Park way, and vicinity were jammed with cheering pedestrians and automobilists.

Bill Robinson, world's premier colored tap dancer, was only one of a score of celebrities of Joe's race who led the celebration. Quiet Joe himself made only one brief appearance, at the Savoy ballroom, 4733 South Park way, where a dance was being held in his honor.

Louis Calls Levinsky Bout His Easiest Major Fight

"He wasn't as much as they thought he was goin' to be."

Thus Joe Louis summarized his victory a few minutes after his quick knockout of King Levinsky at Comiskey park last night. By "they" Louis meant Levinsky's handlers in particular and the fans in general. The result never was in doubt as far as the former Chicago Golden Gloves champion was concerned, however.

"It was my easiest major fight," Louis said.

"The only other professional fight which was easier was my first, which I won by a knockout in little more than a minute of the first round."

First Punch Assures Louis.

"When did you know you had him," some one asked.

"I knew I had him when he went down with that first punch—a left hook to the jaw."

"Were you confident of winning?"

"I was more confident of beating Levinsky than any previous foe, including Primo Carnera," Joe answered.

"One reason was that Levinsky is not as big as Carnera. Another was that King took off too much weight in too short a time and was overtrained. Gosh, how can a fellow used to carrying more than 210 pounds get down to 197 and be himself?"

Louis stated that after the first knockdown he floored the King with rights to the head.

Telephones His Mother.

The 21 year old colored heavyweight then paused in his reflections while a corps of photographers took pictures and friends and well-wishers crashed the gate to offer congratulations.

After he was dressed Louis called his mother, Mrs. Lily Brooks, at her home in Detroit. Mrs. Brooks saw her son knock out Carnera at New York in June, but she refused to attend last night. Joe's sisters, Ulella and Emma, and his brothers, Alonzo and Alvenus, had ringside seats, however.

Louis Follows Plan.

Louis said he didn't hit Levinsky when the latter sat on the ropes in a neutral corner for the fourth knockdown. When he arose, Joe said, he thought he heard King ask Referee Norman McGarity to stop it.

Joe fought according to pre-battle plans. He watched Levinsky close and then when the King indicated unleashing one of his vaunted wild swings he beat him to the punch by perfect timing.

After the battle Louis journeyed to the Savoy ballroom, where a dance was being held in his honor. He stayed a short while and then went to the home of Co-Manager Julian Black. Joe will remain in town to see the colored All-Star baseball game at Comiskey park Sunday. He will go to Detroit Monday and join his mother in the home which he bought for her recently at a cost of more than $10,000.

Miss Van Wie to Skip U. S. Golf Tourney

The national women's golf championship never has offered any certainties, but yesterday it was learned that at dusk on the 31st of this month, when the 1935 queen of American golf is crowned at the Interlachen club in Minneapolis, one fact will be definite—that queen will not be Virginia Van Wie, the Chicago girl who has held unbroken sway over the republic's feminine stars for the last three years.

Yesterday Miss Van Wie, in a wire sent from Pennsylvania, confirmed earlier guesses that she will not defend her championship at Interlachen, when the big show opens on Aug. 26.

Now It'll Be a Battle.

Miss Van Wie's absence from the championship battle at Minneapolis will undoubtedly toss the tournament into one of the wildest struggles for the title ever seen.

The 26 year old Chicagoan began her championship career ten years ago at the age of 16, when she captured her first major title, the western junior. From there on she was an outstanding factor in any tournament she entered, commencing nine years ago, when she announced herself on the big time by defeating the then apparently invincible Glenna Collett in the Florida east coast meet in 19 holes.

Takes Crown in 1932.

That same Glenna Collett was to balk her path to the national title more than once, but the girl from the Beverly Country club kept coming back until 1932, when she defeated Glenna, then Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, 10 and 8, in the title match. The following year at Exmoor she eliminated Enid Wilson, the English star who had won the title of her homeland three times, in the semi-finals and then went on to defeat her old chum, Helen Hicks, in the championship match, 4 and 3. Last year Virginia went into the finals against Dorothy Traung, a surprise visitor from San Francisco, and won her third consecutive crown, 2 and 1.

Pater Filius Tourney to Be Decided Today

The thirty-second annual pater-filius tournament of the Midlothian Country club, one of the best known events in the country, will be held over the south side course today. A new division, for professionals and their sons, is being introduced into the thirty-six hole battle. Plaques will be awarded to the twosome having low net for thirty-six holes, both among the member-son and pro-son divisions.

Midlothian has been the scene of the pater-filius since its inception in 1904 with two exceptions — in 1932, when it was held at North Shore, and 1933, when Westmoreland was the stage. The event has been won by Midlothian members twelve times, the late J. A. Edwards winning the title three times with the assistance of sons Kenneth and Don. Instances in which a boy who had played with his father and later played with his own son are rare. Three years ago Chester C. Allen, Kenosha, played with his own boy after competing as a son twenty-five years before.

Three winning teams of recent years will be out at Midlothian today seeking to repeat. They include John Van Nortwick and son of Chicago Golf, Walter G. Leininger and son of Westward Ho, and B. Edward Baal and son of Edgewood Valley. In addition about fifteen professionals and their sons or fathers are expected to compete in the new division.

MISS WILLIAMS LOSES, 5 AND 4, IN WESTERN GOLF

Mrs. Atwood Sole Chicago Survivor at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Miss Ellamae Williams, 17 year old Chicago golfer, was eliminated today in the second round of the western women's golf tournament on the Westwood Country club course. Miss Williams lost to Miss Eva Shorb, Massillon, O., who also is only 17 years old, 5 and 4. Miss Shorb equaled the course record of 79 in defeating the Chicago star.

Two other Chicagoans, Mrs. Lillian Zech and Mrs. L. H. Selz, also were eliminated. Mrs. Zech lost to Miss Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky., 6 and 4, while Mrs. Selz was defeated by Miss Barbara Thompson, Los Altos, Cal., 2 and 1.

One Chicago player, however, still remains in the field. Mrs. Philip T. Atwood won from Miss Isobel Ogilvie, Cleveland, 6 and 5, to gain the quarter-finals.

In the quarter-final round tomorrow Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y., will meet Miss Miley; Miss Elizabeth Abbott, Los Angeles, Cal., will oppose Miss Margaret Russell, Detroit; Miss Shorb will play Miss Marion Leachman, San Francisco, and Mrs. Atwood will face Miss Thompson.

RIDGEMOOR WINS FROM GLEN VIEW GOLFERS, 15½-11½

Ridgemoor defeated Glen View, 15½ to 11½, in yesterday's competition in the North Shore Country club Golf league at the Illinois Country club. Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge, which was beaten by North Shore, 16 to 11, led the individual scorers with 72.

Other low scorers were: Chuck Becka, Ridgemoor, 71, and Chick Evans, Edgewater, and Hunter Hicks, Skokie, 72 each. Other team results:

Edgewater defeated Illinois, 14½ to 12½.
Evanston defeated Park Ridge, 15½ to 11½.

CHICAGO YACHT CLUB REGATTA STARTS TODAY

A three day series of races off Belmont harbor, the Chicago Yacht club's annual regatta for the Lipton and Nutting cups, begins this afternoon at 2:15.

Nine R class sloops will race for the Sir Thomas Lipton cup, which was presented to the Chicago Yacht club more than 30 years ago. It was the first yacht cup ever given by the Irish sportsman. Fred Wacker's Gypsy won it last year and again will race. Ariel and Alert IV. are other previous winners that will compete.

A. J. Palica Wins in Old Boys' Golf Event at Exmoor

A large field of veteran golfers competed yesterday in Exmoor Country club's 16th annual old boys' tournament, an 18 hole event limited to players 55 years and over.

A. J. Palica of Kenosha, Wis., won first place in class A with a score of 83—13—70. First place in class B went to F. W. Hill of Skokie with 85—17—68. Other price winners were: Class C, G. R. Mitchell of Flossmoor, 100—38—62, and class D, Barbour Brown of Exmoor, 101—49—52.

The field was split into four classes, based on age as follows: Class A, 55 to 59; class B, 60 to 64; class C, 65 to 69, and class D, 70 and over. One stroke was added to a player's regular handicap for each year over 55 years of age.

G. W. Blossom of Skokie Country club, who is 80 years old, was the oldest player competing in the tournament. He had a score of 105—49—56.

CINCINNATI NINE BEATS CHICAGO PRINTERS, 9 TO 4

Cleveland, O., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Walter Goettke let Chicago down with four hits today and hurled Cincinnati to a 9 to 4 victory in the Union Printers international baseball tournament. The defeat eliminated Chicago from the championship play as the Chicago team had suffered another setback earlier in the tourney.

Chicago did not make a hit until the sixth, when Goettke, sailing along with an eight run lead, eased up. Huelsebusch was the batting star for Cincinnati, driving out two hits and scoring three runs. After today's games, only five teams remain in the running for the title. New York is undefeated.

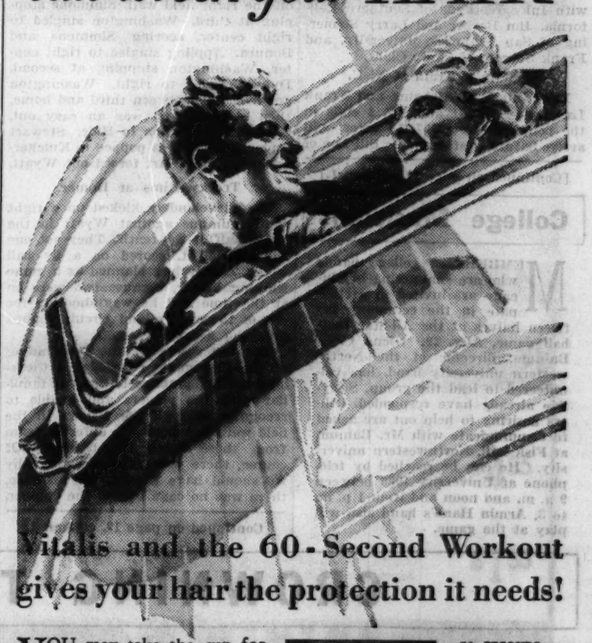
Blazing Sun and Water can wreck your HAIR



Vitalis and the 60-Second Workout gives your hair the protection it needs!

YOU may take the cup for swimming, golf or tennis. But at summer sports your hair always loses. It becomes bleached by the fiery suns. It's robbed by water of the nourishing oils that keep it healthy.

Your hair needs special protection against outdoor life—Vitalis and the famous 60-Second Workout. Use Vitalis often. New circulation starts. Your tight scalp loosens. Its natural oils are replenished by Vitalis' own pure vegetable oils. That dried-out look vanishes. Loose dandruff goes. Your hair takes on new life—new health.

Now see how easily your hair combs into place—and stays there. There's nothing "patent-leather" looking about its appearance. Just the lustre of healthy hair. Start now with Vitalis and the 60-Second Workout!

ASK YOUR BARBER—He's an expert on scalp and hair. When he says Vitalis—take his advice.

FOUR COACHES LIKE ALL-STAR TEAM PLACES

All of Fans' Choices Will Drill Squad.

Alabama, whose brilliant line play helped the Crimson Tide swamp Stanford in the Rose Bowl, is driving up from Memphis. Elwood Kalbaugh, captain of last year's Princeton eleven; Lester Borden of Fordham, Jim Steen of Syracuse, Joe Bogdanski of Colgate, George Barclay of North Carolina, Bill Shepherd of Western Maryland, George Shotwell and Miller Munjas of Pittsburgh all will leave for Chicago tomorrow. Every member of the squad will be here not later than Monday morning.

Through the courtesy of Kenneth L. Wilson, athletic director, and other officials of Northwestern university, the players will be quartered in the Goodrich house on the campus. They will do their training at Dyche stadium.

Statements of acceptance from the coaches follow:

THOMAS ACCEPTS JOB

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Frank Thomas of Alabama, informed he had won the coaches' poll, said:

"I am deeply grateful to the thousands of friends who joined together to bring this great honor to me. When I think that I do not have the privilege of personal acquaintance with most of them, I am all the happier that they should have worked so faithfully to bring about my selection as head coach of the collegiate All-Americans. I pledge my best efforts to keep them from regretting their choice.

"However, the chief burden of trying to defeat a great team like the Chicago Bears falls on the players themselves. They are severely handicapped by not having played together, but I know we can count on them, each a star in his own right. It will be a great pleasure to have a part in coaching several of my own boys once more.

Pleased with Staf.

"As to the rest of the coaching staf, I can only say the fans of America have picked some of the best men in the country, coaches whose records command the respect and admiration of every follower of the game. I am honored in being privileged to work with Charley Bachman, Doc Spears, and Slip Madigan.

"Chicago's big charity game is a good thing for the greatest outdoor sport of them all and every lover of football should be grateful to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the newspaper that makes the game possible."

SPEARS IS PLEASED

Madison, Wis., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Back from Kewanee, Ill., where he helped his mother, Mrs. H. F. Spears, celebrate her 81st birthday yesterday, Dr. C. W. Spears, University of Wisconsin football coach, today referred to his selection as one of the four coaches of the College All-Stars as a "tribute I shall never forget."

"Naturally I am immensely pleased over the selection and I am looking forward to an enjoyable experience with the other three coaches and this great collection of football players," Spears said.

Sees Good Chance to Win.

The doctor will have a personal interest in the college players' chances, too, since two of his former University of Oregon players, Stan Kostka and Bill Bevan, are included on the squad of 44.

"I have all the admiration in the world for the coaching ability of Frank Thomas, Charlie Bachman, and Slip Madigan, and I shall be glad to give them all the help I can," Spears said today.

"And I believe the All-Stars have a good chance to whip the Chicago Bears," he added.

Players left Madison this afternoon for Camp Douglas, Wis., but plans to return Sunday and leave immediately for Chicago to join the coaches and players the next day.

BACHMAN IS HONORED

East Lansing, Mich., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Charles Bachman of Michigan State today issued this statement:

"My sincere thanks to those who cast their votes for me in the coaches contest. I want to express my appreciation to people scattered across the country who gave me their support, particularly my friends in Michigan, Florida, Kansas, Missouri, and my home city of Chicago. It is indeed an honor to be selected to help prepare this outstanding group of young men for their game with the Chicago Bears.

"My congratulations go to Frank Thomas for having been the first choice. I feel confident that we shall mould the wealth of material into a team that will be fully capable of putting on a grand game of football. Merely to be associated with these boys and coaches in the venture is an honor that I shall long remember and cherish. Thanks again to every one who expressed his confidence in my coaching ability."

MADIGAN THANKS VOTERS

Lubbock, Tex., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, who is serving as an instructor of a coaching school here, said:

"I am elated at being selected as one of the coaches. This is an honor that I deeply appreciate. I feel it is more recognition of California football than a personal tribute.

"To my many friends who made my selection possible there is only one way to say thanks and that is to say it. Yet there is not a fiber in my body that does not tingle with gratitude especially to my many friends in my old home state, Illinois, and the state of my adoption, California.

"May I congratulate THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and associated papers in making such an expression of the nation's football fans possible.

"It is because THE TRIBUNE sponsors this All-Star game in the interest of the greatest of all virtues, charity, that I enter into the spirit of the paper and offer my services. May I assure you I will give my best no matter what the assignment."

Cards Pound Schott to Win from Reds, 4-2

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The world champion Cardinals won their sixth consecutive game today, 4 to 2, by an early assault on Gene Schott, starting Cincinnati hurler, who was knocked out in the second inning.

Don Brennan baffled the Cards the rest of the way, but the damage already had been done. Hallahan, who was credited with his ninth victory of the season, retired in the sixth, suffering from the intense heat.

Pirates Use Bunts to Beat Cubs, 6 to 0

with Jensen's single to right. P. Waner bunted but Hack threw him out, thanks to Herman's neat pickup of a low throw. Vaughan also bunted and French handled this one, but the Pirate shortstop beat the throw for a hit. This was the happening that aroused French to the point of expressing himself forcibly enough to bring an ouster order from Umpire Stark.

Kowalik Replaces French.

Mainly because he wanted to give Kowalik time to warm up, Grimm had his boys gather around Stark and tell him stories, but the stalling failed to cool off the Pirate bats. As soon as Kowalik reported for work, Hafey ripped off a single to right, Jensen scoring. Lavagetto bounced a single off Jurges' chest and Vaughan registered. Thevenow then rolled to Herman and Suhr fanned.

The Pirates mixed three hits with an error by Kowalik for two more runs in the sixth. Padden led off with a looping single to short left and Blanton fanned. Jensen bunted for a hit and went to second when Kowalik threw wild. Padden stopped at third on the error and scored along with Jensen on Waner's single to center. Kowalik managed to stop the next two batters.

Until the last two innings the Cubs weren't able to come up with more than one hit at a time. In the eighth they made two, Galan and Klein being the producers with an out in between. A double play on O'Dea's grounder erased this. The ninth was much the same. Cavarretta and Hack singled with one out and Jurges bounced to Thevenow for a double play.

Old man Red Lucas will try to trouble the Cubs today in the final of the series. He has trimmed them twice this season. Bill Lee, one of the confederacy boys in the Cubs' private renewal of the civil war, will face the Pirates.

French and Vice President Grimm argued strenuously with Umpire Dolly Stark about the former's balk in the first inning, but it was so apparent that even a blind umpire would have detected the offense.

Sox Lose, 5-2; Win Second in 10 Innings, 2-1

The teeing off against Fischer included a single, a line drive which resulted in a double play, and then a triple, a double, another triple, two singles and a walk. The six hits off Fischer were for eleven bases. Jones went the last 7 1-3 innings, allowing five hits for six bases. The double was knocked by Wright, who would have been out before he knocked it if the umpiring had been efficient. The one run off Jones would not have been possible but for the aforesaid Wright double.

The Sox ran for a train immediately after the day's business. Tomorrow they will open a four game series with the league leading Tigers at Detroit. John Whitehead has been nominated to grab the Chicagoans' ninth victory of the year from the pacesetters.

FIRST GAME

The White Sox got two runners on after two were out in the first inning of the first game but were stopped by a nice catch by Vosmik. After Radcliff had flied to center and Hale had thrown out Piet, Simmons singled to center and Bonura walked. Then Vosmik did his circus act to capture Washington's effort.

After Knickerbocker had opened the Cleveland offensive in the first inning with a single, Averill lined into a double play, Bonura unassisted. Then the shelling really started. Vosmik, not the least downcast about having just been served with papers in a $100,000 breach of promise suit, socked a triple to left center and scored on Trosky's double off the right field fence. Hale tripled to the left field fence, aided somewhat when Radcliff skidded and came down on the seat of his bloomers. This drive scored Trosky, of course. Wright singled to center, scoring Hale. Berger singled and Phillips walked, filling the bases.

At this point it was decided Fischer didn't have his stuff. Jones went in and his first pitch was wild, Wright scoring. Sewell made a nice one handed catch on the brink of the Cleveland dugout to get Hudlin's foul and retire the side.

Al Knocks One.

Two were out when the Sox broke into the scoring column. Piet beat out a bunt to Hudlin and scored when Simmons boosted his No. 19 homer over the screen in right center. Knickerbocker threw out Bonura.

Hale singled to left at the outset of the sixth. Wright bunted and as he ran toward first kicked the ball as it was about to roll into foul territory. Wright would have been out had Umpire Kolls seen the play. Apparently he didn't, however, and he called the bunt a foul. This palpable bit of umpiring inefficiency so infuriated Sewell that he orated too long and too specifically. He was bounced by Umpire Kolls. Shea took over the catching. Wright, on his extension of life, doubled over second, Hale stopping at third. Berger was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Phillips flied to Simmons, Hale scoring and Wright taking third. Hudlin failed to execute the squeeze play and Wright was out at the plate, Jones to Shea. Knickerbocker forced Berger.

SECOND GAME

The Sox attack got only one ball out of the infield in the first three innings of the second game. It was a single to left by Shea with one down in the third. Phelps fanned and Radcliff forced Shea.

The pitching of Pheips was even more effective in the first three innings, in which nine men were retired in order. Three of the nine were thrown out by Phelps, who completed the three inning span by striking out Berger, Brenzel and Lee. Simmons singled to left with one out in the fourth for the second Chicago hit but the inning ended when Bonura tapped into a double play, launched by Lee.

Radcliff made a nice catch of Trosky's long fly to start the home seventh. It was the fourth time the Indians had got the ball to the outfield. Hale singled over second. Phelps pitched out and Hale easily was speared trying to steal second, Shea to Piet. Knickerbocker singled and he, too, was out trying to steal second, Shea to Piet.

Rip Gets His Glasses.

With two down in the home eighth, Lee singled to left. Galatzer singled to left, Lee stopping at second. Averill walked on four pitches, filling the bases. The game was called while Radcliff went to the clubhouse to get his sun glasses and when play was resumed Vosmik hit Phelps' first pitch to Simmons.

Shea ran the count to three balls and two strikes at the start of the ninth, and then doubled to the left field barrier. Merv was the first Chicagoan to reach second. Pheips bunted two fouls attempting to sacrifice and then grounded out to Berger, Shea holding second. Radcliff tapped to Berger, Shea reaching third. Piet flied to Averill.

Wyatt Comes In.

Trosky walked on four pitches to start the Cleveland ninth and went to second on Hale's sacrifice. Knickerbocker was given an intentional pass. Berger fanned after a three and two count. Winegarner batted for Brenzel. Wyatt replaced Phelps. Winegarner ran the count to three and two, fouled off two, and then walked, filling the bases. Lee fanned on three pitches.

You've heard about the Sox victory splurge at this juncture. But the tenseness hadn't ended. Galatzer opened the home tenth with a single off Wyatt's shins. Averill fanned, but Vosmik singled to right center, putting Galatzer on third. Trosky flied to Washington, Galatzer scoring and Vosmik holding first. Hale grounded out to Piet.

Mathisen Wins from Henry at 20th Hole

Harold Mathisen, the Big Run chemist who had mixed his shots smartly for two victories in defense of his city amateur golf championship during the first two rounds of the show at Jackson park, attempted to use the same formula yesterday in his third round, but encountered a disturbance which caused him to work overtime before he arrived at a solution.

The disturbance was Dick Henry, a slim young man from the Ridge Country club, who refused to be daunted by the fact that he was matching shots with the house champion until the 20th hole, where he finally succumbed, allowing Mathisen to enter the fourth round this morning.

Favorites Move Right Along.

Most of the other favorites advanced with no particular difficulty, but a few ran into the same overtime grief as Mathisen. The program today calls for a double round, with the 16 survivors of the original field of 101 meeting in eight matches this morning, and the eight winners thereof battling in the afternoon for the right to enter tomorrow's 36 hole semi-finals.

Aside from the Mathisen-Henry argument, three other extra inning duels featured the third round yesterday. In one of these Delbert Walker, Long Beach, the California intercollegiate champion, was forced to the 20th hole to win from Jake Krutilla, Hickory Hills, the latter three putting.

Bobby McLean, Mid-City, the speed skater, took the straightaway to the 19th to win when his opponent, Chuck Berry, Cog Hill, also took three putts. Carl Jankowski, Westgate Valley, won the fourth extra hole match, a 19 hole struggle, from Cort Parish, Jackson park.

Miller and Fetz Win Easily.

Two former champions, Pete Miller of the home club and Gus Fetz, Lawrence Grove, each moved along easily enough, Pete winning from John Siebos, the Holland carpenter, 4 and 3, while Gus won, 5 and 4, from Norman Mahoney, Jackson park. Today Gus will meet Harold [Mush] March, the Blackhawk hocky star, who advanced yesterday with a 2 and 1 decision over Gordon Rittenhouse, former Maroon water poloist and diver.

Tom McInerny, unattached, defeated Mike Lucheon, Cog Hill, 3 and 1.
Hank Foley, Glendale, defeated Ty Bulgar, Oak Hills, 8 and 7.
Gus Fetz, Lawrence Grove, defeated Norman Mahoney, Jackson, 5 and 4.
Harold March, Regina, Sask., defeated Gordon Rittenhouse, unattached, 2 and 1.
Del Walker, Long Beach, defeated Jake Krutilla, Hickory Hills, 1 up in 20 holes.
Carl Jankowski, Westgate, defeated Cort Parish, Jackson, 1 up in 19 holes.

Oppenheimer and McInerny.
Foley and Newell.
Swats and Morrison.
Miller and McNamara.
Fetz and March.
Walker and Jankowski.
McLean and Sullivan.

W-G-N STAND ON FOOTBALL GAMES DRAWS SUPPORT

Illini Athletic Official Tells Views.

W-G-N's new policy covering the broadcasting of collegiate football games during the coming season has brought much favorable comment to the management of the station. The broadcasts for 1935 are to be confined to contests between schools which are not selling their football broadcasting rights exclusively. W-G-N as well as WMAQ and WENR have announced that they will not carry commercially sponsored football broadc

BANISH FEAR IS WINNER; MAYBE BRADLEY ERRED

Jocky Smith Brings Filly Home by 3 Lengths.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Col. Edward R. Bradley might have made quite a mistake when he let the 3 year old filly Banish Fear slip out of his possession early in the Chicago racing season. At any rate, Banish Fear's performance yesterday gave that impression when she staged a spectacular drive in the stretch to win the Wolf Lake handicap at Lincoln Fields by the good margin of three lengths.

Her drive toward the winning post completely conquered the weakhearted favorite, Chance Line, so he dropped entirely out of the money. When the battle ended, Pantoufle, from Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's stable, was running fastest of the others and wound up in second place. Visigoth finished third.

Crowd Remembers My Dandy.

The race was run before the largest crowd of the young Lincoln Field's season, there being more than 10,000 present. The track was at its best for the first time since the meeting started. While most of the money had been wagered on Chance Line, the sentiment of the crowd was with the 10 year old My Dandy, which won the first race of his career over the Lincoln Fields course some seven years ago.

This became quite evident when My Dandy, showing his old time burst of speed, jumped out into the lead soon after the start was made. Even those who had wagered on Chance Line and the other horses in the race gave the one eyed old fellow a great cheer when he made the pace all the way down the back stretch and at times enjoyed a lead of two lengths.

Yet, when the field hit the turn My Dandy had about all he wanted. His younger rivals closed in on him and before the stretch run started he had dropped back to last place in the six horse field.

Banish Fear Thunders Home.

Pantoufle carried the Whitney silks to the front so stoutly at this stage of the race that she loomed a certain winner. Just about that time Banish Fear under her light impost of 97 pounds began to move forward. There was no denying her the right to go to the front. She charged upon the outside and was going away when it ended.

Banish Fear paid $12.80 in the two dollar betting. She stepped the fastest race of the Lincoln Fields meeting when she ran the seven furlongs in 1:24 3-5. F. A. Smith, who was back in the saddle after serving a 13 day suspension handed out to him at Arlington Park, piloted Banish Fear to her triumph.

Favorites Do Their Stuff.

Despite the upset of the favorite Chance Line in the Wolf Lake, the players of favorites for the first time at Lincoln Fields this year had a chance to give their lungs some exercise and do some loud cheering.

Toano from the Blue Bonnett stable in Canada raced to an easy triumph as the program opened and was backed so stoutly that she paid off at a trifle less than 3 to 2. Two long shots, Bonagal and Saucy Maria, finished second and third.

The favorite players cast their lot with Out Put in the second race and she staged a mighty run down the stretch under a hustling ride by R. Holman to get the decision over Panicle and Rule or Ruin.

Technocracy had the figure players a bit dizzy when he led all the way to win the third race. The favorite, Erebus, failed to get any part of the purse. A short time later Shuffle Off came along to win the fourth event and the players of favorites were back in the money again. He paid off at even money, but didn't win that easily. He had all he could do to hold Fabulous and Foolhardy safe in the final drive down the home stretch.

Myrtle Wood, fleet daughter of Blue Larkspur and one of the speed sensations at Arlington Park, probably will rule as the favorite in the $5,000 Crete handicap to be run at Lincoln Fields Saturday. She worked six furlongs yesterday morning under tight wraps for the race in 1:14 and could have gone much faster had the boy in the saddle given her the word.

The Crete promises to attract one of the largest fields of the Lincoln Fields season. Isaiah has many backers and is the likely second choice in the betting. Others considered certain starters are Gay Monarch, Slim Rosie, Ted Clark, West Main, Transmutable, Cloud D'Or, Prince Splendor, Corinto, Chief Cherokee, Fairbypair, Hasty Glance, Crout au Pot, and Banish Fear.

Trainer H. Guy Bedwell has taken first call on Jocky D. Brammer's services. The young rider was a sensation at Arlington Park, but hasn't been able to accomplish anything of note at Lincoln Fields.

TOANO, rank at post where she was placed on the outside, took command easily and before going three-sixteenths came away steadily under light urging in stretch and had little left. BONAGAL was under strong riding after reaching final half mile and weakened badly in late stages but outstayed SAUCY MARIA. Latter raced wide the last three-eighths and held on fairly well.

OUT PUT, a strong factor from the start and well in hand until reaching final quarter, came around PANICLE in the drive and drew out fast in closing strides. PANICLE, given a hustling ride and having speed from the start, saved ground after first three-eighths and although not good enough held on well. Time: :23 3-5, :47 3-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:26. Two dollar mutuels paid: Shuffle Off, $4.00 straight, $3.60 place, $3.00 show; Fabulous, $15.00 place, $8.00 show; Foolhardy, $3.80 show. Winner trained by L. A. Connor. Went to post at 3:55. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving, place same.

SHUFFLE OFF, under strong riding after three-eighths, overtook OVERSHOES quickly after reaching stretch and holding on stubbornly outgamed FABULOUS in closing strides. Latter began to improve his position fast when saving ground on stretch turn, got to front in final sixteenth but was outfinished by winner in closing strides. FOOLHARDY on inside early, came again under strong hand riding after coming to outside in stretch.

FIFTH RACE. Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

BANISH FEAR, having the benefit of a spirited contest for the early lead and allowed to remain out of it for five-eighths, improved her position fast in stretch where she came to outside and after getting up in last sixteenth, drew out fast. PANTOUFLE, close up from the start worked her way to front in stretch then weakened but outstayed VISIGOTH. Latter bettered his position with a rush soon after reaching stretch but faltered in late stages.

Winner trained by W. G. Sparks. Went to post at 4:48. At post 3½ minutes. Start good. Won easily, place driving.

BILLY JONES, going in his best form moved up after a quarter to force the pace under strong restraint, disposed of EXPONENT gradually and had something in reserve. Latter forced wide when working his way to front in first quarter was on inside after three-eighths and stood a long drive gamely. GOOD POLITIAN, restrained for three-quarters held on well under pressure.

GOLD SUIT BAN HITS STORM OF SENATE PROTEST

Vote on Compromise Bill Due Today.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's "must" bill to bar suits for damages growing out of the unconstitutional abrogation of the gold clause in government obligations ran into a storm of opposition when it came up for debate in the senate this afternoon. Finally, the senate decided to limit debate, indicating that a vote will be reached tomorrow.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] produced a sensation, resulting in confusion and great embarrassment among administration leaders, when he said he understood that John G. Laylin, assistant general counsel for the treasury, had resigned because "he felt so keenly about the immorality of this legislation."

Writes "Blistering Letter."

"I understand," said Senator Vandenburg, "that Mr. Laylin, assistant general counsel for the treasury, resigned and wrote a blistering letter to the secretary of the treasury hanging his resignation on the fact that he would have no part whatever in this repudiation."

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.], chairman of the banking and currency committee, and manager of the bill, at first said Laylin had indorsed the legislation, but later said he had no information about the matter referred to by Senator Vandenberg.

Inquiry disclosed that Laylin has resigned and is practicing law with the firm of Dean Acheson, former under secretary of the treasury, who resigned because of his antagonism to the devaluation of the gold dollar and other New Deal financial policies.

Is Compromise Measure.

The bill under consideration in the senate is a compromise measure submitted by Senator William G. McAdoo [Dem., Cal.] and reported by the banking and currency committee as a substitute for the house bill. The latter withdrew the consent of the government to be sued at any time on any of its bonds, notes, or other fiscal obligations, whereas the McAdoo compromise would permit suits to be filed within six months after the effective date of the act.

Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo.], floor leader of the opposition to the McAdoo bill, protested that it would discriminate against the holders of government obligations that would not mature within six months.

Recalls Court View.

Senator Adams pointed out that the Supreme court held invalid the act abrogating the gold clause so far as it affected the government's own obligations and that the opinion added: "The contractual obligation still exists and remains binding on the conscience of the sovereign."

"It has been contended," said Senator Adams, "that without this bill the government will be harassed by suits and will lose some money. I am not willing to vote for it either on the ground that public officials will be harassed or that it would cost the government some money. The virtue of the United States should not be sold at any price."

ALDRICH QUITS ROPER UNIT; SEE NEW DEAL SPLIT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Reviving reports of differences between the New Deal and the Roper business advisory council, Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, today was disclosed to have resigned because of the pressure of "other obligations." His departure marked the sixth in recent weeks of the business leaders who were organized two years ago to advise the administration on the business viewpoint.

While amicable reasons have been given publicly for the resignations, several council members have stated privately that they were dissatisfied with the council's effectiveness in advising the administration. Other resignations were believed to be impending.

The other recent resignations:

Robert L. Lund, St. Louis, chairman, National Association of Manufacturers; James F. Bell, Minneapolis, president, General Mills, Inc.; Howard Heinz, Pittsburgh, president, H. J. Heinz company; Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Chicago, president, Joseph T. Ryerson and Son, Inc.; Harold C. Smith, Chicago, president, Illinois Tool Works.

The council now is formally in adjournment until fall. It now consists of 43 members.

General Electric Buys Insull Loan Securities

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The General Electric company today bid in at open auction part of its Insull loan collatral. The company thus gained formal legal possession of the shares. It bid $39 a share for 390 shares of Peoples Gas Light and Coke company common stock of $100 par value. In addition it bid $82 a share for 691 shares of Commonwealth Edison company common stock of $100 par value.

Italy Dickers with Banks for Cotton Supply

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Italy is negotiating with banks here for the financing of a large purchase of American cotton. In contrast to their attitude toward feelers previously made by the Italians for credits to finance war purchases, the banks have turned attentive ears to the cotton purchase proposals. It is not improbable, it is said, that an agreement may be reached this week.

The amount of cotton which Italian representatives are said to be seeking is variously reported at 250,000 to 500,000 bales. At 12 cents a pound this would mean a dollar value of $15,000,000 to $30,000,000. Even at the lower figure, such a purchase would be important because 250,000 bales is about 25 per cent of the free cotton held outside mills, Commodity Credit corporation and other federal agencies.

Suitable for Banks.

The banks take the position that, even if the cotton is to be used for war purposes, it is a commodity transaction which they may properly fiance, especially since Italy has given evidence of her willingness to pledge or to sell a portion of her central gold reserves to pay for foreign goods. Reports are that the credit would be a short term operation and facilities would exist for handling it through the bankers' acceptance market.

Banks lately have had a large portion of their commodity credit business taken over by government agencies and they are the more receptive to the program of replacing some of the lost credits with new ones.

Whether Italy eventually makes a deal with private or governmental agency holders of cotton is a matter with which the banks are not particularly concerned, it was explained. They would be the intermediaries through which they American sellers would get cash, the banks to receive payment against delivery of the cotton abroad. In the interim they would have title to the cotton as security.

Munitions Credits Refused.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Italy will be unable to obtain credits from the Export-Import bank for munitions purchasing purposes, it was learned today in connection with the filing of several applications by American exporters for short term credits to finance cotton shipments to the Italian textile industry.

To this extent the administration is applying a munitions embargo policy in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, although congressional legislation would be necessary to lay down a regular munitions embargo. The Export-Import bank is empowered to make its own terms for extending credits and intends to search carefully all applications to ascertain whether any munitions purposes lie behind them. Thus far the bank has not acted on any of the applications to cover cotton for Italy.

HOLLAND GOLD FLOWS TO PARIS; GUILDER FALLS

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Gold began to flow out of Amsterdam to Paris, and from Paris to London again today. London dispatches declared that the British control funds again were operating to hold the franc above 75 francs to the pound.

Little change was shown in leading currencies here except the guilder, which dropped 8 more points to 67.70 cents but held above the gold level of 67.64⅛ cents. French francs were unchanged at 6.62¼ cents, at which price the dollar was worth $1.0018 against francs and valued at 59.07 cents, based upon the old parity of the franc.

Swiss francs eased 1 point at 32.73 cents. Italian lire were ⅛ point higher at 8.21⅛ cents and sterling rose ⅛ cent at $4.96¼.

The price of bar gold in London dropped 4⅛ pence to 140 shillings 5 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.83. Bar silver was unchanged.

STEEL OUTPUT MOVES UPWARD FOR FIFTH WEEK

Gains Held Evidence of Real Recovery.

Steel production has made its fifth consecutive advance since the Fourth of July by rising 1 point, or 2 per cent, to 47 per cent of capacity, the magazine Iron Age announced yesterday. While the gain was the smallest since the current upturn began, it is believed any slowing up will be temporary and will be followed by renewed expansion in September and October.

"Belief is becoming widespread that the current recovery in steel output is distinct from the abortive rebounds of previous depression years and really represents the beginning of a long pull out of hard times," the journal says.

Point Out Cheerful Factors.

In support of this statement it is pointed out that speculative buying is lacking, but that there is an astonishing growth of miscellaneous demand, and that there are sustained retail sales of automobiles, accumulating activity in capital goods and a pronounced buoyancy in scrap, which is considered the most sensitive barometer of the steel industry.

"Most encouraging and significant of recent developments is the growing consumption of steel by makers of machinery and equipment representing the capital goods industries," the review says. "These interests are now more active takers of steel than are producers of refrigerators, stoves, light household equipment, and other consumer goods. This relationship has probably not occurred in more than five years."

Growing backlogs of the machinery group, including builders of machine tools, forging equipment and allied lines, have been swelled this week by purchases estimated at close to $1,000,000.

New Auto Models Near.

The changing over to new models is getting under way in the automobile industry, although runs on the 1935 models are being prolonged by some producers because of the sustained retail demand.

Gains in steel operations so far this week over last week include an advance of 2 points to 54 per cent in Chicago, 1 point to 43 per cent at Pittsburgh, 5 points to 50 per cent at Cleveland, and 3 points to 33 per cent in the south.

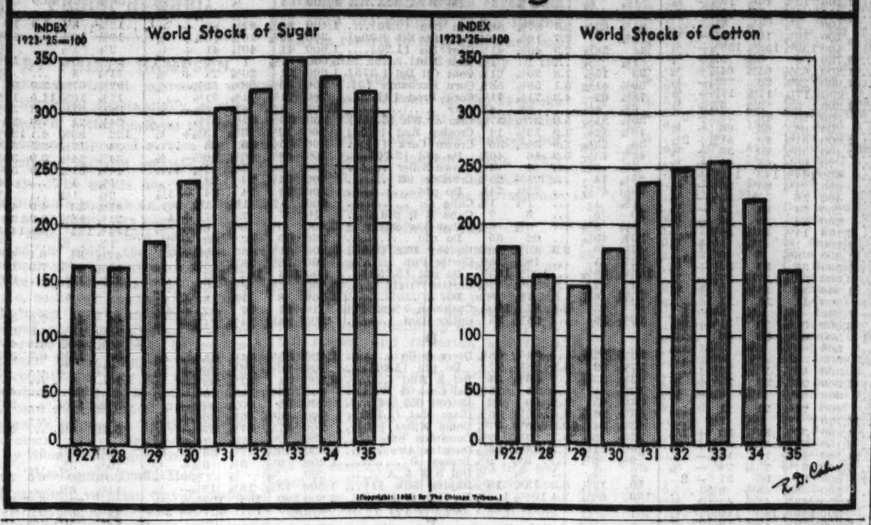
Scrap prices have made further advances in nearly all market centers, with increases in heavy melting steel prices at Chicago and Philadelphia, lifting the Iron Age scrap composite from $11.58 to $11.83 a ton, the highest level since the third week in February. The composite prices for pig iron and finished steel are unchanged at $17.84 a ton and 2.124 cents a pound, respectively.

ANOTHER SUIT TO OUST HUPP'S DIRECTORS FILED

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A petition proposing to oust directors of the Hupp Motor Car corporation of Detroit was filed today in Chancery court here by Paul A. Hershey of Derby, Conn., a stockholder. The action was believed to be a sequel to similar unsuccessful moves in the courts of Michigan and New York. The Hupp company, whose principal manufacturing plant is in Detroit, operates under a Virginia charter.

Judge William A. Moncure set Aug. 12 as the date for counsel to file pleadings, fixed Aug. 14 to hear argument on legal points, and announced the case would be heard on its merits on Aug. 20.

World's Stock of Cotton 40 per Cent Below 1933 Level—Sugar Inventory Remains High



Ford's Record Proves Fallacy of "Soak the Rich" Program

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Because its 657 million dollars of assets are closely held by the members of one family the Ford Motor company has been pointed to as an example of the type of concern which would be severely affected by President Roosevelt's proposed "soak the rich" tax bill which would result in the virtual confiscation by the tax collectors of estates worth 10 millions or more.

Robert S. Jackson, counsel for the bureau of internal revenue, testifying on Tuesday before the senate finance committee, virtually admitted Henry Ford's contention that the proposed inheritance tax would enable outside interests to get control of the huge motor concern. He further indicated a belief that this would be a good thing.

* *

"The utmost to be anticipated," he said, referring to the Ford estate, "would be that some part of the equity now represented by the common stock would be sold to other interests or to the public. This equity might be disposed of in part through a bond issue, or through preferred stock, or by the sale of a portion of the common stock."

This opinion of the bureau of internal revenue attorney that the "utmost" that could happen to the Ford company would be the broadening of its ownership is not shared by business men generally. Most of them agree that the dissolution of strong centralized family control of a big corporation is only the beginning of trouble not only for the corporation, but for employés as well.

Many an industrial leader whose bonds and stocks are held by a multitude of investors and whose actions have been subject to direction by bankers who have financed his company's mortgages and loans has eyed with envy the freedom of action that Henry Ford has enjoyed during the last six depression years.

* *

Frequently remarks have been heard in financial circles to the effect that "It's a good thing Henry Ford owns his own company. He'd never get by with that string of deficits if he had to answer a flock of outside stockholders or a syndicate of bankers."

For Henry Ford, with the freedom of action that comes from owning his own business, has dared to do the unusual—and has come out on top. Twice since 1926 he has run into terrific deficits—first to revamp his plants completely preparatory to the introduction of a new type of car, and, second, to carry his organization through the worst depression years without drastically reducing the wages of his employés while he rewon his lost markets with a finer product.

In December, 1929, just after the worst stock market break in history and with business crumbling all around him, Ford announced an increase from $6 to $7 per day as his minimum pay scale.

* *

Subsequently he was forced to lower the minimum daily rate to $4, but by September, 1933, despite tying up of 63 millions of his surplus in closed banks in Detroit and elsewhere, he began to raise wages again. In March, 1934, he restored the $5 minimum and last May he boosted it back to $6. Rates of pay in the Ford plant were above the minimum required by the NRA, which Ford never joined.

Payment of high wages and the development of a better product cost a lot of money, but Ford was willing to go deeply into the red in laying the groundwork for greater prosperity down the road. And he was in a position to do so because of the surplus accumulated in previous years.

* *

In five red ink years, between 1926 and 1934, Ford ran deficits aggregating 274 million dollars. He emerged from the red ink last year with an indicated net profit of $6,860,000—a return of about 1 per cent on his 657 million dollars of invested capital.

The Ford Motor company is an excellent example of "plowing back" profits. Starting as a $25,000 concern in 1903 the company, instead of paying huge dividends, reinvested a large part of its earnings in more plant facilities and additional equipment and used most of the rest to build up a large cash surplus against hard times.

* *

According to New Deal theory the accumulation by corporations of large cash surpluses is an evil thing. Legislation has been passed authorizing the bureau of internal revenue to "crack down" on corporations by taxing their surpluses. The politicians view the building up of a surplus solely as a device to enable stockholders to avoid payment of income taxes.

Under the law taxing corporate surpluses, plus the proposed stiff increases in inheritance and income taxes, if the Ford Motor company were starting now as a $25,000 corporation it would probably never get much bigger. It would be financially impossible to build it into a 657 million dollar corporation employing a vast aggregation of employés at high wages.

WEEK'S POWER OUTPUT SETS AUGUST RECORD; NEAR ALL TIME PEAK

Power output last week reached a new high for an August week and was far less than seasonably below the total of the preceding week. In the Chicago area a new high for the week was also established.

The total for the nation, as reported by the Edison Electric institute, was 1,821,398,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,823,521,000 in the preceding week, a drop of 0.1 per cent, and 1,657,638,000 in the corresponding week of last year, an increase of 9.9 per cent.

The nearest approach of any first August week to last week's record was made in 1929, when an output of 1,724,728,000 kilowatt hours was recorded. Last week's production represents a gain of 98,367,000 kilowatt hours over the 1929 level. In fact, last week's total is only 38,623,000 kilowatt hours under the all-time record established in the week of Dec. 21, 1929.

In the Chicago area the total for the week was 103,980,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 102,439,000 in the preceding week and 99,148,000 in the corresponding week of last year, Commonwealth Edison company announced.

The gain over a year ago amounted to 4.9 per cent, but excluding the total used a year ago by A Century of Progress the increase is stepped up to 6.7 per cent.

Security House Head Gives Up; Fraud Alleged

W. W. Porter, erstwhile head of a number of investment houses, surrendered yesterday to federal authorities in the United States courthouse on charges of using the mails to defraud and was released after posting a $5,000 bond. Warren Canaday, assistant United States attorney, estimated that there was a shortage of $1,700,000 in the accounts of the Porter companies with investors.

W. W. PORTER.

Porter has been the subject of a wide search since he appeared in the federal courthouse on Feb. 28, after an investigation by agents of the securities and exchange commission, and agreed to the appointment of an equity receiver to liquidate the affairs of his companies. At that time he said investors would not lose a cent.

Returns from Michigan.

The fugitive came to Chicago from his summer home at Watervliet, Mich., where he had been trailed by postal inspectors. He surrendered to Postal Inspector David Lyons and Canaday and was arraigned before Edwin K. Walker, United States commissioner.

The tangled affairs of the Porter companies have been under investigation by a federal grand jury for several weeks.

The houses headed by Porter included Wall Street Security corporation, Wall Street Bond corporation, Wall Street Trust Company of New York, First Investment Trust of Illinois, and the Tri-State Investors corporation.

Investors in the Porter enterprises came from small towns throughout the middle west. Many Chicago firemen also invested heavily in his enterprises.

Use of Customer Cash Alleged.

It was alleged Porter took cash and marketable securities from his customers for use in his own market operations. He claimed to have an organization to guide him in his market activities that gave little chance for loss. The various companies paid dividends which SEC investigators indicated were derived from the investments of customers.

A number of hearings on the Porter companies were conducted by Referee Archie Cohen. Porter never appeared, although under a federal subpena.

Porter's activities were stopped last February by SEC when it investigated his methods following his failure to register with the commission as required by the new securities law.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Investors' Guide for years has warned its readers against the Porter enterprises.

FOUR UTILITIES RESTORE INSULL $21,000 PENSION

Unpaid Balance Also to Be Granted.

Restoraton of Samuel Insull's $21,000 annual pension has been voted by the directors of the Chicago utility companies which he formerly headed, the companies announced yesterday.

Insull will receive approximately $33,250 in a lump sum to cover payments accruing since the beginning of last year when the payments were suspended by the companies. As a result of the action Insull is assured of an income for the remainder of his life of approximately $1,750 a month, or $57.53 a day. During the peak of his career Insull had an income in salaries from the fifty utility companies which he headed of more than half a million dollars a year.

Insull Refuses to Comment.

Reached last night at his Senaca hotel apartment, the former utility czar had little to say on the action.

"I have received the same announcement," he said. "I don't believe there is anything that I can say with propriety."

The following statement was issued by James Simpson, chairman, and George A. Ranney, vice chairman, of the companies voting the resumption of the pension payments:

"The directors of the Commonwealth Edison company, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and the Peoples Gas Subsidiary corporation, at meetings yesterday and today, authorized the reinstatement of service annuity payments from their respective service annuity trusts to Mr. Samuel Insull as of Jan. 1, 1934."

Officials Also Silent.

Officials declined to comment further. Insull had previously announced that he had made no effort to regain his pensions. Agitation to restore the payments was begun after Insull had been freed in the federal and state courts of all criminal charges growing out of his management of his former properties.

When Insull first retired from the four companies he was voted aggregate pensions of $50,000 a year. This was later cut to $21,000, the amount to which he was entitled under the pension system on the basis of former salary and length of service.

STOCKS UNEVEN; RAIL AND UTILITY SHARES WEAKEN

Some Minor Groups Move to Higher Levels.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—Stock market movements were uneven today. Several minor groups, such as the tractions, airplane, and leather shares, and two or three of the better class automobiles, displayed moderate strength, but the rails and utilities were distinctly reactionary. Industrial and store stocks were mixed, each group showing price swings of as much as a point. Sales of 1,393,000 fell nearly a half million below yesterday.

Brokers reported sentiment mostly bullish, thanks to the continued favorable trend of operations in the heavy industries and the excellent statements of leading merchandising organizations. They attributed a good part of the selling to the belief that the technical correction had not gone quite far enough.

Utilities Are Liquidated.

Liquidation of the utilities was regarded as a reflection of fresh disappointment in trading circles over the news that the administration would insist on retaining the "death sentence" clause in the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

Today's utility losses were considerably smaller than those of recent sessions, however, and one or two issues of the group managed to buck the tide for fractional gains.

Dividend announcements and forecasts helped some issues. Timken Roller Bearing advanced nearly $1 a share on its extra dividend and Eastman anticipated its higher dividend and earnings statement with a moderate upturn. A sharp runup occurred in American Hide and Leather shares in the late trading when word was passed around that a reorganization plan was about ready. The preferred jumped more than 6 points on a single sale.

Chain Stores Strong.

Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, and other chain and mercantile shares attracted a following, some going to the best prices in several years.

Another break of 2 points in Union Pacific—a part of it later recovered—was a disturbing factor to the carriers. The western road's stock sold down nearly 5 points yesterday in response to its disappointing earnings report for the first six months.

Socony-Vacuum was a weak spot in the oils, in further reflection of its unsatisfactory dividend.

The fresh buying in the New York tractions was due to one more revival of the old standby report that negotiations are warming up on unification.

AMERICAN HIDE PLANS TO REVAMP CAPITAL SETUP

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Plans for a capital reorganization of the American Hide and Leather company will be submitted to stockholders soon, probably on Friday, it was learned today. The company has outstanding 100,000 shares of preferred stock on which dividends totaling $215 a share are in arrears. It has 115,000 shares of common stock outstanding.

The plan, it is understood, provides for the issuance of a new $3 preferred to be exchanged share for share for the old preferred with the back dividends to be made up with a new common issue. There are no bonds outstanding. The present preferred bears 7 per cent interest.

A meeting of stockholders will be called within a few weeks for approval of the recapitalization plan, which was unanimously approved by the board of directors.

A. O. Smith to Redeem 7 Pct. Preferred Stock

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The A. O. Smith company, Milwaukee, automobile metal workers, gave notice today that it would redeem on Aug. 31 all its outstanding 7 per cent preferred stock, $100 par value, at $110 a share, plus accrued dividend of 29.17 cents a share. There was about $600,000 outstanding as of July, 1934.

SEC TRIES TO LINK E. J. HUGHES WITH APPRAISAL FIRM

Probes Distillery Stock Issue Plan.

The question of business relationships between Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state of Illinois, and the appraisal firm of William J. Howard, Inc., 10 South La Salle street was raised by Trial Attorney E. Forrest Tancer as a primary issue in hearings begun here yesterday by the securities and exchange commission in an action to bar the registration of securities of Peoria Distillers, Inc., a newly organized company.

Tancer sought to show that it was necessary for a company to have its appraisal work done by the Howard firm in order to qualify securities in Illinois. A second point, merely touched upon yesterday was an attack on the accuracy of the appraisal for the Peoria company and on alleged misstatements of fact contained in the registration statement filed with the SEC.

Howard Firm "Recommended."

The qualification of securities for sale in Illinois is effected through the "blue sky" division of the secretary of state's office. Tancer brought out that the Howard concern has been "recommended" by the secretary's office, but did not succeed in his attempt to show that Secretary Hughes has an interest in the Howard company.

William J. Howard, president of the company, said that it has done considerable work for the blue sky commission, but asserted that it is wholly owned by himself and his family. He proved to be a stubbornly unsatisfactory witness to Tancer.

"I object to any inquiry into my personal affairs," he asserted. "I do not believe I will need counsel, for if the questioning is personal, counsel or no counsel, I won't answer.

"We are one of the appraisers for the secretary of state's security commission," he said, in reply to one question.

"Do you know of any others?" Tancer retaliated. The answer was negative.

Asked About Business Connection.

"Were you ever engaged in business with Edward J. Hughes?"

"That is my personal affair. It has nothing to do with the Peoria matter, and I refuse to answer."

"You said Hughes has no interest in your company?"

"None, whatsoever!"

"Does Hughes have any interest in the Northern Bridge company?" [Howard had testified to his interest in it]. Howard refused to answer.

"Did you ever tell anybody that Hughes had an interest in William J. Howard, Inc.?"

"I don't think anybody outside of you would have the nerve to ask me that."

Tancer then turned to details of the appraisal of Peoria Distillers, but said later that other witnesses will be questioned with regard to the purported business association of Hughes and Howard.

Howard said he was not familiar with all details of the appraisal, but said that other previous appraisals had been used as a basis for his company's report. Tancer then accused Howard of not making an independent appraisal as he was hired to do. This was denied.

Underwriter Also Testifies.

He handled the acquisition of the distillery property and received 7,800 preferred and 29,000 common shares of stock in the new company as compensation. Rogers is now president of the distillery.

He testified that "somebody" at the secretary of state's office had "suggested" the Howard firm. He also said that his attorney, D. E. Terrill, had advised him that that qualification of the proposed security issue could probably be obtained by having the Howard firm handle the appraising, as it had been doing much of that type of business for the secretary of state's office.

PRESIDENT ACTS TO SPEED OIL CONTROL LAWS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today moved to lend new momentum to a campaign for oil legislation this session by announcing he hoped to report to congress promptly on oil production control.

He said, too, he would send up for congressional ratification the interstate oil conservation compact effected in February and signed to date by six states. Also to be transmitted, he indicated, would be a request for creation of a fact finding agency to report back to the next congress.

Both house and senate oil leaders were uncertain, however, when definite action would develop on Capitol hill. In the senate, they were awaiting a light spot on the schedule to call up a measure by Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.]. In the house, Representative Disney [Dem., Okla.] said he expected the interstate commerce committee "to crack into" a similar bill by Representative Cole [Dem., Md.], perhaps tomorrow.

Chicago Offers $9,647,000 Refunding 3½ Pct. Bonds

A group of New York banks and a number of western investment houses will participate in the bidding today for $9,647,000 of city of Chicago refunding bonds. Of the total $5,000,000 will mature Jan. 1, 1953, callable Jan 1, 1946, and the balance will mature Jan. 1, 1955, callable Jan. 1, 1951. The bonds will carry 3½ per cent coupons.

McHenry Elected Officer of Star Grain Company

Roland McHenry has been elected vice president of the Star Grain company, Chicago subsidiary of General Mills, Inc., according to an announcement issued in Minneapolis yesterday by Donald D. Davis, president of the parent concern. McHenry represents the company on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Insurance Group Approves Milwaukee Railroad's Plan

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Assent of insurance companies and fiduciary corporations representing $61,410,600 of the Carrier's securities to the reorganization plan presented by the present management of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company, was announced today as the interstate commerce commission's first hearing on the program was adjourned. No date for reconvening was set, but some of those concerned expected a resumption about the middle of September.

H. A. Scandrett, president of the road, sought to make clear today that the management was not trying to influence the commission to undue haste of action. He said, however, that it would not be in the best interest of the property if there were protracted proceedings in the courts.

Would Preserve Morale.

Commissioner C. R. Porter, who presided, asked what disadvantage there would be to the Milwaukee, in view of the fact that it had been in the courts for a number of years, should it again go to the courts for a reasonable time.

Scandrett said the matter was one of morale. A man in debt, he said, might be just as conscientious as one free of debt, but the man not in debt did better work.

Approval of the plan by the insurance companies and fiduciary corporations was announced by Kenneth F. Burgess, their representative. Some of the conclusions given in Burgess's statement for the plan, were as follows:

"The plan provides for a continuation of income to bondholders in the order of their priority during the readjustment period. This is important as tending to prevent a complete destruction of the debtors' credit with unfavorable effects on the future of railroad credit generally which would be necessarily incident to a receivership or to prolonged proceedings in bankruptcy.

Financial Plan Practical.

"The plan provides a wholly practical method of providing new money for the enterprise at a reasonable rate of interest.

"If the plan may be made effective at an early date the efficiency and morale of the present operating organization will be preserved.

"The plan preserves an opportunity for equity owners if the railroad situation is substantially improved within a reasonable period.

"The plan incorporates reasonable compromises essential to its prompt acceptance by the requisite classes, while substantially preserving their relative priorities and without wholly eliminating all classes of creditors or stockholders.

"The plan provides a temporary voting trust arrangement in lieu of the permanent control of the property which would pass to the bondholders in the event of foreclosure and sale."

PRICES OF LARD BOUND AGAIN ON SHORT SUPPLIES

The recent spectacular advance in provisions continued without interruption yesterday. Cash lard was bid up 60 cents per 100 pounds to $16 without attracting offers, and the future contracts sold 17½ to 40 cents higher with September leading the upturn. There is no restriction on the amount cash product can advance in one day, but a limit of 50 cents is imposed on futures.

All deliveries sold at new highs since 1926, but profit taking checked the advance.

Scarcity of cash product and the continued upturn in hogs provided the bullish incentive. In the last five weeks the price of cash lard in the local market has advanced $2.40 per 100 pounds, while during the same period Liverpool gained $3.25. In 1934 cash lard here sold as low as $5.30 and in Liverpool around $6.

ECKHART MILLING SUES TO BLOCK PROCESSING TAX

Another suit to tie up the payment of processing taxes was brought yesterday in the United States District court when the B. A. Eckhart Milling company filed a petition seeking a temporary injunction against payment of $84,492 owed for the months of May and June. Hearing on the petition was set for tomorrow before Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

The petition was filed by the law firm of West and Eckhart and signed by Percy B. Eckhart, president of the milling company. The grounds on which the restraining order is sought are substantially those set forth in the suits brought last week by the big Chicago packing companies. The taxes constitute a "deprivation of property," the bill contends, a phrase used by Judge Barnes in handing down his decision in the packers' suits on the pork processing levy.

The milling company's suit involves the 30 cent a bushel processing tax on wheat. Washburn-Crosby company, Inc., Chicago subsidiary of General Mills, Inc., has already obtained from Judge Barnes an injunction against further collection of the wheat tax.

KRESGE CHARITY OFFERS $5,500,000 OF NOTES TODAY

A new issue of $5,500,000 of 4 per cent collateral trust notes of the Kresge foundation, due July 1, 1945, is being placed on the market today by a banking group headed by Blyth & Co., at a price of 100 and accrued interest. The new issue is to be secured by pledge of 650,000 shares of the common stock of S. S. Kresge company. Each $1,000 note is to have certain conversion rights.

The Kresge foundation was created for charitable, educational and philanthropic purposes and the notes are therefore considered exempt from registration under the securities act of 1933. Application for listing will be made to the New York Stock exchange.

The proceeds of the sale, which will amount to $5,335,000, are to be used by the Kresge foundation to reduce bank loans incurred for the most part in redeeming $5,667,500 of 10 year collateral trust notes.

HOGS REACH NEW TOP OF $14.10 PER 100 LBS.; HIGHEST IN NINE YEARS

Prices of hogs advanced sharply yesterday as the supply fell to a new all time low for a Wednesday, barring strike periods. Only 7,000 head arrived at Chicago, camper with 21,730 the corresponding day a year ago. The total for the first three days of this week at 19,200 is smaller than an average day's run for this time of the season, and compares with 68,733 in 1934 and with 71,364 two years ago.

Prices went up 25 to 35 cents soon after the start, and some closing sales indicated more advance in some classes. Several lots of selected 210 to 230 pound new crop hogs brought the new $14.10 top, tax included, the first time hogs at Chicago have cost packers above $14.00 since October, 1926. The average soared 30 cents to the $13.25 line, including the processing tax.

Another substantial rise in lard prices, the sharpest in some time for cash lard, stimulated buying of "lard hogs," but reports from the wholesale market for fresh pork carried no encouragement. Consumers balked at the recent rise in pork, and yesterday's prices at the various distributing points were weak to 50 cents lower in face of the big upturn in live costs to the packers.

The cattle run yesterday at 8,000 was slightly larger than the hog run and trading in steers started rather slowly and mostly steady, but the market gathered a little strength later and finished a shade over the general average of the preceding session. Two consignments of steers reached the $12.25 top, highest since July 8.

Lambs were steady to a shade higher, both packers and city butchers paying the $9.00 top for selected lots of ewe and wether natives.

EASTMAN KODAK TO PAY 25 CENT EXTRA DIVIDEND

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The Eastman Kodak company today declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the common stock, both payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 5. On Jan. 2, this year, an extra of 75 cents was paid on the issue.

Net income of the company for the 24 weeks ended June 15 totaled $7,048,951 after taxes and charges against $6,745,676 in the like 1934 period. This was equal to $3.05 a common share compared with $2.91 in the corresponding period of 1934.

Julius Kayser & Co., declared a dividend of 65 cents a share payable Sept. 10 to stock of record Aug. 26, bringing total payments thus far in 1935 to 90 cents a share.

The usual extra dividend of $2 and the regular monthly dividend of $1 a share were declared by Homestake Mining company, payable Aug. 26 to stock of record Aug. 20.

Archer-Daniels-Midland declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common and a special distribution of like amount, both payable Sept. 1.

RAIL PASSENGER TRAFIC LIFTED BY BETTER SERVICE

Air Conditioning Is Big Factor in Gain.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Passenger travel in recent weeks has increased substantially, partly as a result of better business but mainly because of improved service and fare reductions, railroad officials said yesterday. The public has taken to air conditioning to such an extent that all cars so equipped are used to capacity, they asserted. Cases have been reported in which the railroads have not been able to clean cars thoroughly before sending them out on the line again, so heavy has been the travel.

Between now and next year the amount of air conditioned equipment in service is expected to be increased. Pullman has a total of about 3,100 air conditioned cars out of the average number of 4,400 in operation daily. Railroad men assert the public is as favorably impressed by the quietness and cleanliness of air conditioned cars as by their cooling qualities.

Westbound Trafic Heavy.

Westbound vacation travel comparable with that of 1929 was reported by A. Cotsworth Jr., passenger trafic manager of the Burlington. Cotsworth said that travel to the Rocky mountain country, the Black Hills, the National Parks, California, and the Pacific northwest has been so heavy that extra cars have been used daily.

For example, in the last week-end the Aristocrat on Saturday and Sunday left with twenty cars each day, the North Coast Limited and the Empire Builder each went out with eighteen cars, the Overland Express had nineteen cars on Friday and eighteen on Saturday.

Group travel has been heavy. On Saturday night 348 travelers on escorted tours departed on regular trains but were placed in extra sleepers. One full special train went out with 148 tourists, and another of twenty cars carried 336. Cotsworth said the latter was the largest long distance special ever to move out of Chicago on the Burlington, with the exception of troop movements. Group travel accounted for 1,260 passengers over the week-end and individual travel accounted for about 1,600.

All Air Conditioned Cars Used.

The North Western reported that all its air conditioned equipment is in use. Travel was about 15 per cent over last year.

The New York Central reported that business was holding up better than expected. Air conditioned cars were being used to capacity.

Eastern tour business was reported by the Pennsylvania as the best in years. Arrivals in Chicago have not been as heavy as last year because the Fair is not operating, but vacation travel generally is good.

The Santa Fe revealed that its coast business was about 25 per cent ahead of last year. This road expects air conditioned cars to increase its local business.

REPORTS $1,000,000 FEE PAID TEXAN BY GAS COMPANY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The federal trade commission today had a report in its utility investigation of a $1,000,000 fee paid to Adam H. Davidson of Dallas, Tex., for procuring gas options for the Southern Natural Gas corporation prior to 1931.

F. X. Patterson, commission investigator, stated in the report:

"Adam H. Davidson, Dallas, Tex., one of the organizers, received a commission of $1,000,000 for procuring gas options in the Monroe and Richland, La., gas fields, and the Jackson field in Mississippi and acquiring franchises for the distribution of natural gas in various cities and towns in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi."

HANNA COMPANY WILL EXCHANGE ITS PREFERRED

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The M. A. Hanna company, Cleveland, today offered holders of its outstanding 131,066 shares of $7 cumulative preferred stock a plan providing for the exchange of the stock for new $5 cumulative preferred stock.

The stock will be exchanged on the basis of one and one-twentieth shares of new stock for each share of present stock together with a cash adjustment of dividends.

When the plan becomes effective, unexchanged shares of the $7 preferred stock will be called for redemption at 105. The new $5 preferred stock has been registered under the securities act.

OCTOBER EGGS UP 1 CENT; NOVEMBER BUTTER LOWER

Continued hot weather is reported as affecting both the production and quality of fresh eggs, and due to the latter a demand is said to prevail for eggs which were placed in cold storage earlier in the season. The October delivery on the Chicago Mercantile exchange closed ⅛ cent higher yesterday at 25⅛ cents per dozen. Withdrawals from cold storage were reported as 7,000 cases less than during the corresponding period last year.

Production of butter last week, as indicated by the Land o' Lakes report, showed a decline of 11 per cent from the preceding week and 4.6 per cent from the corresponding period last year. However, this was offset by the into storage movement continuing in excess of last year. The November delivery closed ⅛ cent lower at 24⅞ cents per pound. Sales of butter were 20 cars and eggs 21 cars. Prices follow:

SEARS AND WARD REPORT BIG GAINS IN SALES, PROFITS

Latter's July Trade Sets Record.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. and Montgomery Ward & Co., the two largest mail order companies, yesterday reported sharp improvement in sales and earnings. Sears reported the best earnings for the 24 weeks ended July 16 since the company began issuing interim reports in 1932, and Ward had the largest sales total for July in the company's history.

Net profit of Sears for the 24 weeks amounted to $9,071,071 after depreciation, interest, and other charges, but before federal income taxes. This compared with a profit of $6,808,189 before federal taxes in the corresponding period of last year.

Had Deficit in 1932.

In the corresponding period of 1933 the company's profit amounted to $1,619,811 and in 1932 it had a deficit of $2,120,019. During the period ended July 16 of this year all branches of the company, including mail order, retail stores, and factories, showed a profit, it was reported.

The company's sales during the period amounted to $178,122,304, compared with $140,639,500 in the corresponding period of last year, an increase of 26.7 per cent. The ratio of profit to gross sales increased from 4.8 per cent in the 1934 period to 5 per cent this year. In the 1933 period the ratio was 1.5 per cent.

Montgomery Ward sales for July totaled $20,293,175, compared with $15,890,560 in July of last year, an increase of $4,402,615, or 27.71 per cent. In the preceding month the gain over a year ago amounted to 23.6 per cent.

Six Month Sales Rise.

For the six months ended July 31 the company's sales totaled $133,289,039, an increase of $22,591,131, or 20.41 per cent over the $110,698,908 for the corresponding period of last year.

S. H. Kress & Co. reported July sales of $5,833,589, an increase of 10.3 per cent over July, 1934. Sales of $39,162,067 for the seven months were .7 per cent under the like period a year ago.

J. C. Penney company reported July sales of $15,915,024, an increase of 13.9 per cent over July, 1934. For the seven months sales totaled $108,894,609, an increase of 4.7 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

FARM MACHINE OUTPUT MAY TOTAL $320,000,000

Production in the farm machinery industry is expected to reach a total of $320,000,000 for the domestic wholesale market this year. This estimate, made by an official of the Farm Equipment institute yesterday, is based on the 60 to 75 per cent improvement over 1934 output to date. The sharp advances in the first six months of this year are continuing unabated, it was said.

Last year's sales in the wholesale market aggregated approximately 200 millions, or scarcely half the 1928-30 average of $414,000,000 which has been set up as "normal." On the basis of the record to date, the institute official estimated that 1935 will be at least 75 per cent of normal.

The greatest single influence in this year's sharp advance, it was said, has been the sale of tractors, both small and large. Normally this phase of the business accounts for approximately 35 to 40 per cent of total volume of farm equipment sales, but this year it has been running to nearly 60 per cent of the total.

PRESIDENT SETS RULES FOR RURAL ELECTRIC WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today issued an executive order setting forth rules and regulations under which the new $100,000,000 rural electrification administration may make loans for power and light projects in rural areas now without such service.

Funds will be made available to public and private agencies in the proportion that each group submits sound projects, with promptness of submission a consideration. Preference is to be accorded public bodies and farm coöperatives.

The order provides that not less than 25 per cent of any loan made to a public body for an electrification project must be expended for labor and 90 per cent of the jobs created are to be filled from relief rolls. Workers are to be paid in accordance with local wage conditions. The maximum hours are to be fixed by the administration, but shall not exceed eight hours a day or forty a week.

Wheeling Steel Orders 4 Mills Into Operation

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Wheeling Steel corporation ordered four more hot mills into operation today and, officials said, thereby came closer to capacity operation than at any time since 1929. The four additional hot mills were started at the Creek plant and 300 men were added. It is the first time this plant has run full time since 1933.

Bid of $123,400 Low for Ft. Dearborn Postal Station

VARNISH CONCERN STARTS ADDITION TO ITS FACTORY

Firm's Third Enlargement in Three Years.

BY AL CHASE.

Work will be started this morning on an addition to the plant of the Armstrong Paint and Varnish Works at 1330 South Kilbourn avenue. This is the third time in three years that the company has erected an addition to its plant. A permit was issued yesterday by the building department for a six story and basement structure to contain more than 43,000 square feet of floor space. The Campbell-Lowrie-Lautermilch corporation has the general contract.

It will be erected in two enforced concrete fireproof units, the first to contain the basement and three stories. The remaining three floors will be added later. It was designed by W. C. Bennett, architect and engineer. The building will be used for the storage of cans. In 1933 the paint company erected a three story and basement building and last year added to it and also built a large boiler house.

Spends $295,000 on Repairs.

The reconditioning division of the Chicago office of the Home Owners' Loan corporation disbursed $295,000 for repairs during the month of July, according to Henry G. Zander jr., state manager. Of this amount $234,000 was paid to contractors and the balance was credited to home owners for repairs in which the property owner did his own work. The Chicago district includes Cook and DuPage counties.

During the last year 23,259 repair contracts, totaling $3,757,000 have been approved and awarded by the reconditioning division of the Illinois agency of the HOLC, Zander stated. Of these repair contracts 16,000 already have been completed and $2,465,000 has been paid to the contractors for doing this work.

Leases Candy Store.

John Cunag, who has been operating a chain of candy and ice cream stores on the south side for fifteen years, yesterday leased the store and garage at 2214 East 71st street, for five years on a graduated rental basis, Michael L. Vehon is lessor and Mark Levy & Brother represented both principals. A new store front is to be installed and the garage is to be remodeled into a modern candy kitchen, it was announced.

N. Y. TRACTIONS' RISE OUTSTANDING ACTION IN BONDS

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Conflicting price trends characterized the market for domestic corporation bonds today. Individual groups were singled out for special movements, irrespective of each other, with the market generally displaying a highly mixed tone at the close of the day. The trading pace slowed down slightly.

A brisk upturn in the bonds of local traction companies stood out as a highlight of trading in the corporation section. Both Manhattan Railway 4s and 4 per cent certificates were turned over in heavy volume on advances of 3 and 3½ points, respectively. Interborough 7s rose a point, while the 5 per cent certificates netted 2 points on the day.

Utility issues held steady in quiet dealings. A sharp break of 7 points in Warren Brothers, 6s, carrying the issue down to 38⅜, proved the feature of the industrial list.

American Light and Traction.

Investors' Guide: May I have your opinion regarding stock of American Light and Traction company?—S. F. J.

Answer: American Light and Traction company is a subholding company in the United Light and Power system. The bulk of its revenues is derived from sale of gas to Detroit, Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids, and Muskegon, Mich.; Milwaukee and Madison, Wis., and San Antonio, Tex. Electricity is furnished to Madison, while San Antonio is also furnished with electricity and bus transportation. Ice is supplied to sixteen communities near San Antonio.

The company has a substantial stock interest in Detroit Edison company.

Gross revenues, after having declined regularly for four years, increased moderately, 3 per cent, in 1934 over 1933. Higher operating costs and increased depreciation allowance, however, cut net income to $4,421,000, or $1.31 per common share, from $5,357,000, or $1.64 per common share, for 1933. Net income in 1932 equaled $2.18 per common share, against $2.89 in 1931 and $3.44 in 1930.

American Light and Traction has no funded debt itself, but its subsidiaries have funded debt of $64,647,000 and preferred stock of $9,000,000 outstanding. Capitalization consists of 536,324 preferred shares, par $25, and 2,767,891 shares of $25 par common.

The company has paid three common dividends of 30 cents each so far in 1935 [July 15, April 15, and Feb. 1]. Dividends in 1934 totaled $1.50 a share; in 1933, $1.90.

The stock, on the basis of the company's record and strong current position, deserves a fairly good rating. Agitation against utility holding companies and the downward trend of earnings, however, are unsettling factors.

Miscellaneous.

Y-O-U-R O-W-N
B-U-S-I-N-E-S-S

Would you be interested in starting in business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men were previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shop workers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in net profit as much as $50 for a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constant, increasing demand.

Now here are our requirements—you must be under 50, preferably married, honest, reliable, possess a neat appearance and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side of Chicago, northern Indiana, and northeastern Illinois.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and, if selected, will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer, as we even pay rent, light, heat, telephone, girl hire, consign your merchandise and finance your accounts.

Apply Thursday only between 1 to 3 p. m. Ask for Mr. Lovell, Suite 404, Maryland Bldg., 63d-st. and Maryland-av.

A Business
That Will Mean Security.

We are expanding our operations and our program calls for a number of men of good character and adaptability. This is permanent work on a substantial comm. basis with the largest company of its kind.

In as much as there is nothing similar in our electrical product on the market, experience is not necessary, but we do require ability to learn, diligence, and responsibility without investment of any kind. If you are selected you will start at once. Call 10:30 a. m. today. 1046 Wilson-av., Suite 215.

WANTED.

High grade, neat appearing young men, 25 to 35 years of age. Must be sales minded and mechanically inclined. We will train those who qualify to demonstrate and sell electrical goods from our stores. Must be willing to start on moderate income. Commission and bonus paid in full. Apply in person today only, 9 to 11 a. m. See Mr. O'Brien.

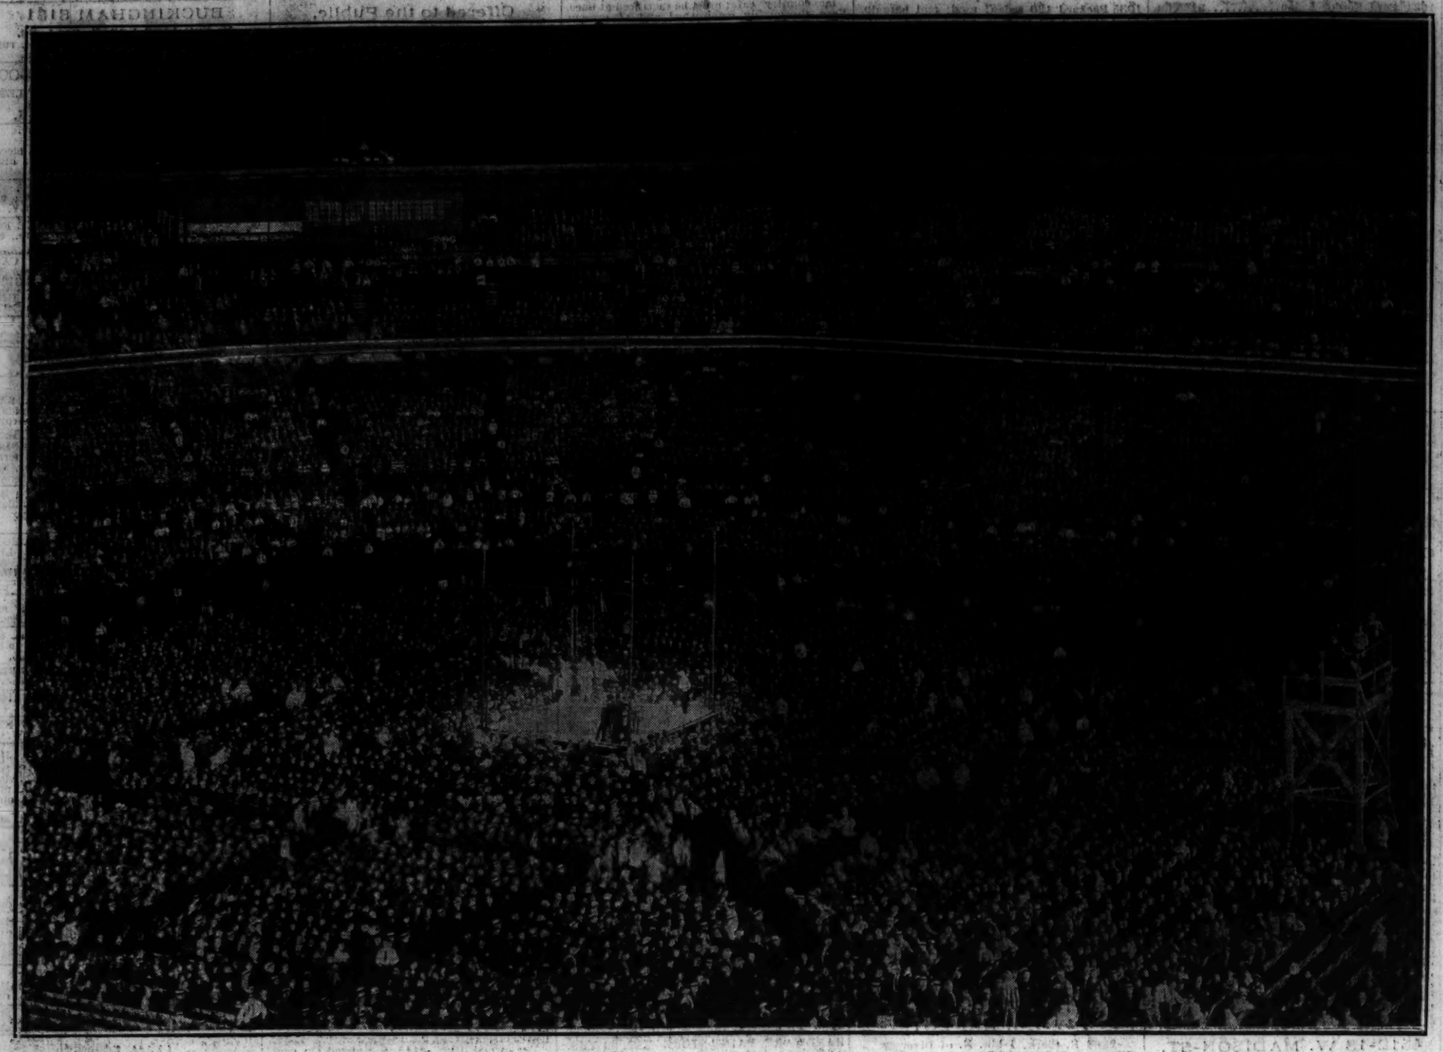
Joe Louis Scores Technical Knockout Over King Levinsky—Crowd of 39,195 Pays $192,906 to See Battle



CROWD OF 39,195 PAYS $192,906 AT LOUIS-LEVINSKY BATTLE—View of crowd which saw Joe Louis score technical knockout over Kingfish Levinsky at Comiskey park last night. Louis, who won his spurs as a 1934 Golden Gloves champion, knocked Levinsky down four times before the referee stopped the fight. Levinsky was thoroughly whipped and after the fourth knockdown arose, but his hands hung loosely at his sides. There was a wild burst of cheering as Louis' right hand was raised. Levinsky received 20 per cent and Louis 30 per cent of the receipts. [Kaufmann & Fabry Photo.]
